Dorothy Owen Becomes Bride of Donald J. Ryan in Portland

Of wide interest in Salem will be the following account of the marriage of Miss Dorothy Virginia Owen to Donald J. Ryan which appeared in a late number of the Oregon City Enterprise:

The marriage of Miss Dorothy Virginia Owen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Owen of Portland, and Donald J. Ryan of Gladstone, took place Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents at Tenth and East 63rd street, Portland. The Rev. D. C. Leven, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, performed the ring ceremony in the presence of relatives and a few intimate friends of the young couple. As Lohengrin's wedding march was played by Mrs. Cora Rathburn, cousin of the bride, the bridal party entered the living room which was a bower of beauty with its cut flowers effectively arranged. Large floral baskets added to the decorative scheme, these holding in place golden colored zinnias, red and yellow asters, and autumn leaves, the autumn colors being carried by throughout the rooms of the home. Four large baskets filled with flowers formed the center of the living room, where the bride and groom stood.

The bride was attended by Miss Caroline Stober of Portland, and the best man was Marshall Ryan, of Gladstone, brother of the bridegroom. The bride was lovely crowned in white georgette and carried a shower bouquet of rose buds. The bride's maid, Miss Stober, wore lavender crepe de chine and carried pink roses. Following the marriage ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of Mrs. Rathburn, the decorative scheme being similar to that at the Owen home. Mr. and Mrs. Ryan left Saturday afternoon on their honeymoon, which will be spent at the Ryan summer home at Newport. After a 10-day sojourn at the resort they will make their home on Hill avenue.

The bride, who was born in Portland, was graduated from a high school of that city. She graduated from Willamette university with the class of '25. Mr. Ryan, who is the son of the late Judge and Mrs. Thomas Ryan, was born in Oregon City. He was graduated from the Salem high school and later attended the Reed college in Portland and was graduated from the Willamette university law school. For the past two years he has practiced his profession in that city.

Mrs. Ryan is a member of the Beta Chi sorority and of the Adeline literary society. Since her graduation from Willamette she has taught at Ione, Or.

Y. W. C. A. Elects Salem Woman National Head
Mrs. George Moorehead has been elected chairman of the executive national council of the YWCA, which is the highest elective position in the organization, at the national convention held at Oberlin, Ohio, according to word received here last night by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Vandevant, 435 W. Winter street.

Mrs. Moorehead has been actively connected with YWCA work since she was a student at Willamette university, being elected at that time, chairman of the northwest division of the YWCA work in the colleges. There are seven districts of this kind in the northwest and Mrs. Moorehead has made three trips east to conventions. Word of her election as national chairman of the executive council came as a complete surprise to her friends, it being understood that such a position was always conferred on a resident in the more thickly populated districts in the east. Past chairmen have nearly always been residents of New York city.

Mrs. Moorehead will continue her work as northwest chairman of YWCA work in the colleges, as well as her new position. She will return home from the convention Friday, making the return trip by the Canadian Pacific railway.

Guests at Davenport Home
Mrs. Jay Bowerman and Mrs. Skog of Portland motored to Salem on Sunday to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Davenport.

Trip Over McKenzie Pass
Dr. and Mrs. O. A. Olson and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Dane are among Salemites recently taking the motor trip over the McKenzie Pass to Bend.

Moroni-Olsen Players Return to Salem Next Month
"Dear Brutus" is coming to the Elsinore theater on October 21. The Moroni Olsen Players are bringing it. Sir James M. Barrie wrote "Peter Pan." He has written a number of other plays just as good. "Dear Brutus" is one of them.

Sir James M. Barrie ought to be the happiest man in the world. Not because he has contributed so much happiness to so many people, though that ought to be a source of joy in dark hours, but because he is one of those extremely rare artists who can actually embody their conceptions. His dreams come true. At his desk, he is visited by visions so fantastic that he must often laugh aloud in solitude; but the amazing thing is that he can make the whole world see them as he sees them. The tragic disparity between conception and execution that tortures even accomplished artists, vanishes here before the creative power of genius.

Mr. Barrie is a great playwright because he understands human nature, knows how to represent it in conversation and in action, has enormous sympathy with his characters, and what is equally important, has enormous sympathy with the audience. His plays are full of action; and yet the story of each play can usually be given in a few sentences. What is it then, keeps the audience at strained attention? If some character ask a question, we would not miss the answer for all the world. His people capture us almost instantly, because, while composing the play, the creator himself felt their reality. They were right there, in the room with him. He saw their faces and heard their voices. In a conversation with John D. Williams, he said: "It is my contemptible weakness, that if I say a character smiled vacuously, I must smile vacuously; if he frowns or leers, I frown or leer; if he is a coward and given to contortions, I cringe, or twist my legs until I have to stop writing to undo the knot. If the character be a lady with an exquisite laugh, I suddenly titter by laughing exultantly. One reads of the astounding versatility of an actor who is able to play the same evening, but I believe he is the novelist who is dozen persons within the hour? Morally, I fear, we must deteriorate; but that is a subject I must wisely edge away from."

World Opportunities Open For Students Says Pastor

"God Omited the Short-cuts but Offers Rewards for Thorough Preparation and Training," Declares Rev. Shanks in Sermon

THE LONGEST WAY HOME

By Rev. E. H. Shanks of the First Baptist Church.
Exo. 13:17, 18. Deut. 29:1-13

And if come to pass, when Pharaoh let thee go, that God led thee not by the way of the Philistines, although that was near:— But God led the people about by the way of the wilderness of the Red Sea.

The world has not moved forward by short, easy stages. Creation was not done in a day. The development of civilization has been a long, slow, painful process of advancement requiring centuries of growth. God does not reveal any short-cuts on the highway of progress. It is stage by stage, layer upon layer, light after light, that bring results in the evolution of progress.

Men have been slow to grasp the truth underlying the fact and apply the force of nature all about him. Knowledge, itself, is a slow and painful process that exacts payment for every step.

"Not a truth to art or science has been given, But brows have ached for it and souls toiled and striven."

Electricity was in the world since the day the first thunder bolt shook the cloud banks of the western sky, and the first flash of lightning split the heavens in twain. Yet thousands of years passed before man understood its nature and harnessed its tremendous power.

The atmosphere of the earth enveloped the earth from the day of creation, and heavier than air machines have been made by the inventive genius of men who built pontoons to float them on the surface of the sea, and laid steel pipes to give the world a means of a creeping pace, until the Wright brothers learned the secret of air navigation.

Industrial arts and the sciences are yet in their infancy after millenniums of experimentation. The most expert mechanic has not yet learned the A B C of his art, and the wisest scientist is astounded by his discoveries that prove he is still in the most elementary stage of his studies.

It is a long road yet before us. Let the young student not become disheartened, thinking the discoveries are all made, and there will be no more worlds to conquer. The progress of the next 50 years will outdistance the last. Our children's children will laugh at our crude, make-shift methods, and marvel at our dense ignorance.

It is God's way with men. Should we complain? Could our forefathers have used the appliances of today, or appreciated the privileges of this age? The story of the children of Israel in their march out of Egypt and to the Promised Land is a good illustration of this fact. It was a short journey from the land of Goshen to Palestine by a direct route and well known road. A few weeks would be required to cover the journey, whereas the journey took 40 years, and over a road that was full of hard experiences.

It is little wonder that the children of Israel grew restless, and murmured. For 40 years they sat at their tent doors in idleness. They moved by short stages to no apparent destiny. They sickened, aged and died a death of stagnation and greasewood, hot sun and sand flies, remembering Goshen. Their hands then were hard with toil, now they were becoming soft and their muscles growing flabby. Their children were growing up in idleness, inventive young rascals, with no work to do, no school to attend, no automobiles, motor-boats, no old swimming hole. Young men did not learn to make flint arrows, nor did the young women learn to weave cloth; for there was no material at hand, and besides, there was no need, for their clothes waxed old and upon them, nor their shoes waxed old on their feet. There was no wild game to hunt or fish to catch; no cocoonat palms to climb, no dates to gather; no ripe figs to bring home to supper; no olives to be down in brine. Each day a small measure of despoiled manna to gather, and quails as tame as chickens to pick up and pluck.

Forty years of aimless wandering, often crossing and re-crossing the trails of other dusty marches. No promise of getting through this month or next. Year after year passing by in idleness and no progress made. One bitter experience after another falling to the lot of the people. The poison water of Marah; the absent leader, 40 days in the mountains somewhere and none of his return abandoned. No water in a dry desert; no food in a land that was waste; fiery serpents biting the people right and left. Nomadic bands of thieves carrying on a gorilla warfare, and a constant menace; the endless desert, rough mountains and deep ravines; broad expanses of treeless waste, camping under the blistering sun. It is not a very enchanting picture when you look on that side.

But there is another side. Let us look at that for a few moments. The wisdom of the Almighty knew that the warlike people, unused to war, would not endure the conflict with the Philistines. They must be trained. But that is not all. The Egyptian enemy must be yet further given a lesson of God's power, and the people of Israel be made the miraculous deliverance of the Red Sea lies before them. That crossed. His power to sustain, and to provide for them must be demonstrated. Every need was supplied. Every cry was heard.

Every difficulty overcome. A new generation that did not know Egypt, slavery, flesh-pots was raised up. A generation that knew God's leading and providence and trusted His chosen leaders must be found to enter and conquer the Land of Promise. The murmurers against God could not enter the Land of Promise. They could not drive out the nations that were in possession, but without any right claim to the land that God had given to Abraham's seed. A generation of warriors inspired by the promise of the fruitful land must be trained under the leadership of God's chosen commanders. It was not an easy task. It took 40 years to prepare the people for the prepared land.

Confidence in God
What would be the result if men possessed all knowledge, and understood all secrets, and were given all power? It is God's wisdom to lead men by short stages, even as He led Israel. "He led forth his own people like sheep, and guided them in the wilderness like a flock. He led them safely, so that they feared not." Psa. 78:52-53.

It is a wonderful thing to be led by God. "As many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God." Rom. 8:14. Our fathers made long stages of progress, and we possess the land they won for us. "We make our contribution to God's kingdom, not an easy task. It took 40 years to prepare the people for the prepared land. They will accomplish tasks we can never do. They will be expected of them, and they will not fail in their day and age."

mysterious Miss "X" engaged to Kenneth G. Oriston, former temple radio operator, and now come the assertions of the woman who made that statement that the whole matter of "Miss X" was a hoax.

Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman McDonald Seiffert, under arrest here on charges of passing fictitious checks, last night made affidavits to the Los Angeles Examiner that the story surrounding "Miss X," purported to be her sister, was a fake for which she was to receive $5,000 from the evangelist. Amplifying these statements the Seiffert woman today issued to newspaper men a statement asserting in part:

"When I first arrived upon the scene to start operations at Mrs. McPherson's behest, she haughtily proclaimed to the world via press statements that I was appearing on my own initiative. That is not so. She engineered and directed the whole Carmel incident hoax, and her anxiety as to the progress of the imposture was remarkable. I was supposed to and did report every movement in detail at Angelus Temple.

"It was a pure premeditated hoax, born at Angelus temple and launched from that source on gifts and golden promises. Mrs. McPherson and her mother at various times gave me money to use for expenses in framing the hoax. They were always free with the cash."

Mrs. McPherson today countered with the statement: "The whole thing is a pack of lies. Anything Mrs. Wiseman has said at the county jail, she has found in her own imagination and there is no truth in it as far as I am concerned. I am convinced that she has been prompted by enemies of me and my work to make such dastardly statements and I shall advise they will fall of their own weight."

The district attorney's office has initiated a new investigation of the matter to ascertain whether perjury has been committed in the making of affidavits or wheth-

or there has been bribery in the case. Leopold Hammer, one of the attorneys for evangelist, requested the district attorney's office not to act until documentary evidence is completed by his associates, promising a sensation far greater than anything given before in the effort to discredit Mrs. McPherson."

He said evidence is being gathered on behalf of the evangelist to indicate that she is the intended victim of a number of men attempting to collect a large sum of money from her.

Failure of C. C. Tranchell to stop at a through street intersection caused his arrest and also that of Mrs. Carrie Kemp of Portland, who was arrested on a charge of drunkenness and lodged in the city jail. Tranchell was arrested on a charge of failing to stop, and released on $5 bail.

Schutz Pays Fine—Paul Schutz was fined $5 in police court yesterday on a charge of failing to stop at a through street intersection.

Autos Collide—Warner and Miss Margaret Pierce of Covalley collided yesterday on High street between Chemeketa and Center, according to reports made at local police headquarters. A smashed fender and spare tire bracket were the only damage. The accident occurred as Miss Pierce was backing from the curb.

Edwards Loses Car—A car with license No. 196-784, owned by J. C. Edwards, was reported stolen last night from Front and State streets. It contained two cases of condensed milk.

Brakes Fail—Floyd Hodge reported at local police headquarters last night that the brake-band on his car broke as he was driving along State street near Commercial yesterday, causing him to strike a car driven by Frank Jaskoski. The amount of damage was not mentioned.

College Picnic—All OAC graduates, prospective, and former students, are invited to attend a picnic to be held at Stayton Thursday, Sept. 16, given to honor high school students who will enter OAC this fall. The party will leave Salem about 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon. A feet, swimming and dancing will feature the entertainment. Some of the faculty will be present to give talks. All persons who have cars are asked to pass the public library and take some of those who are without transportation.

HOW I IMPROVED MY HEALTH

Did It in Less Than One Month

As Mrs. Weaver herself says, "I was never very strong. This is a mild statement describing her condition, for, according to her own story, she was subjected to so small amount of ill health. Fortunately, her sister was familiar with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begged Mrs. Weaver to try it. After three or four weeks," writes Mrs. Weaver, "I felt a great difference in myself. I would go to bed and sleep sound, and although I could not do very much work, I seemed stronger. I kept on taking it and now I am well and strong, do my work and take care of three children. I sure do tell my friends about your wonderful medicine, and I will answer any letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound." LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND, East Smithfield St., Mt. Pleasant, Pa.

If you knew that thousands of women suffering from troubles similar to those you are enduring had improved their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, wouldn't you think it was worth a trial?
