

Last Year's Average of One New Home a Day to be Surpassed in 1926

Planned for Economy; No Sacrifice of Comfort

THE WINONA, DESIGN NO. 317

ELIMINATION of the dining room seems to be growing in favor in the small home, especially where it is possible to provide a cozy breakfast nook sufficiently large to accommodate four persons, the average number in a small family. There may be some danger in so doing that the prospective purchaser, in case one ever wants to sell, may not like such an arrangement, and to that degree the resale value may be reduced. But the idea is so new and has been so little tried out that it is very problematical.

This little cottage is planned along that line but in every other respect can hardly fail to meet the approval of the most particular buyer. It is built of common brick with a fire resistive roof, the minimum of exposed woodwork, and is as fire safe as it is possible to build a house of this type. One is certain of a small upkeep expenses and may always have a feeling of security in leaving it. It is practically immune from communicated fires.

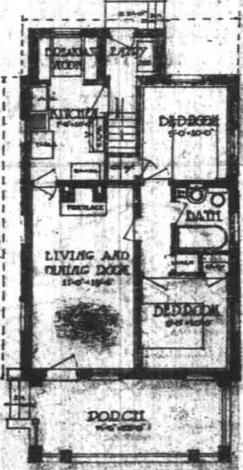

While simply planned it is yet attractive with an added air of substantiality. And the arrangement is excellent. From the broad, enticing living porch entrance is into the combined living and dining room, almost 20 feet in length and supplied with an attractive open grate in which logs may be used if so desired. Directly back of this is the well appointed kitchen and beyond it still is the breakfast nook, lighted by a window of good size. An entry way to the rear door, at the right of the breakfast nook, provides ample space for the refrigerator. From this entry the stair leads to the basement.

The other side of the house is taken up by the two sleeping rooms, each of good size and supplied with liberal closets, and the bath which is placed between them. A short hallway communicates with them from the living room. Each bedroom has two windows, one on either exposed side and the bath is similarly lighted. The window arrangement is ideal throughout, just as the cottage as a whole is unusually strong in its appeal.

This cottage is especially well adapted to a narrow lot, whether it be a corner or otherwise. Simple in its design it can be built at a very low cost and is the type of a small home that will always be in demand. It fits particularly well into a wooded surrounding, as this illustration shows, but can be made very attractive with only a moderate landscaping.

The Common Brick Manufacturers' Association, Cleveland, Ohio, can furnish complete drawings for this design. Leaflet on brick construction sent upon request.

CAPITAL THEATRE WORK NEAR FINISH

Store Quarters in New Structure Almost Ready for Occupancy

With a date set for completion of Bligh's new Capital theatre approaching, the building looks more like a finished structure every day. All scaffolding has been removed from the High street side of the building and glass has been put in the store and office windows so that they are nearly ready for occupancy.

A marquee has been built over the sidewalks on High and State streets in front of the store building, and the sidewalk has been built over in a fancy pattern with two colors.

All the decorative terra cotta work on the outside of the building has been finished. Decorators are busy on the interior of the auditorium, which being beautified in a Florentine pattern. The big organ has arrived and is installed on an elevator which will lift it to the level of the stage when the organist plays a solo.

Many of the companies which intend to occupy store space in the new building are ready to move their wares in whenever word is given that they are ready. Many of the offices are being made ready for use and the names of the office holders are being painted on the windows.

The steel for a big dome to be built over the sidewalk in front of the theater has arrived and the dome will be put up in the near future. It will be a replica of the state house dome.

Both were turned over to officers from Eugene yesterday afternoon, who came armed with a warrant for Kresser's arrest on a statutory charge.

Kresser, who is an Italian, is divorced from his first wife, who deserted him when their baby was 3 months old. He had the baby, who is now 23 months old, when he was arrested with Miss Ratteree Friday.

Both Kresser and Ratteree claimed to be innocent of wrong intent when questioned by local police officers. The girl, who is large for her age, appeared to be innocent of worldly affairs, police officials say. Kresser was well dressed and had plenty of money, they say, and claimed innocence of any wrong intent further than a desire to marry the girl.
