THE NEW BLIGH BUILDING

The Salem public is very generally taking a prideful interest in the completion of the new Bligh building and the opening of the new Capitol theater, which will be held tonight—

And appropriately so—
For this consummation marks an advance in Salem's business expansion along modern lines and a step in making this The City Beautiful which is its rightful and ambitious destiny.

This represents the dream of the late T. G. Bligh, carried out according to his plans by Mrs. Bligh and their son, Frank D. Bligh, in quite as complete form as it would have been by the husband and father had he lived to celebrate the completed work.

The congratulations of the people of Salem are conveyed to Frank D. Bligh and his mother on the occasion of the celebration of the opening of their splendid new theater and their handsome new block. Every loyal Salemite would wish to be included in this message of congratulations.

DISPOSITION OF THE CITY DUMP

It is proposed to lease to the state fair board the land on which is located the city dump, or to convey it by a deed, with a reversion clause providing that if it shall cease to be used for state fair purposes the title shall revert to the city—

On condition that the fair board shall have it cleared up and leveled for the purpose.

This would seem to be a generous thing on the part of the city, for the benefit of the people of the whole state; for the state fair grounds will very soon be entirely surrounded by residence and business districts, and no more land will be available excepting at a high cost—

And it will not be long till the state fair will need every foot of the tract of about 200 acres in the original land acquired for fair purposes, besides the tract on which is the dump.

It is understood that a city dump, at a considerable distance from the city limits, may now be had on favorable terms, where it will not be objectionable, and where the city's garbage may be used to fill up a deep ravine, just as Guild's lake was filled up at Portland; now the site of the Union depot in that city.

So we may soon be rid of the nuisance of a city dump so close to the city's center.

FIRST GUN IN SUGAR FACTORY CAMPAIGN

At the Aumsville community club meeting last night the first gun was fired in the valley-wide campaign for a sugar factory—

For contracts for 8000 acres of sugar beets—
And it was well received. The campaign must be hurried, and the acreage all signed up in time for the early beginning of the work of building the factory, which will be a million dollar to a million and a half dollar proposition—

And it must be ready a year hence, if the 1927 crop proposed to be signed up is to be taken care of.

Bits For Breakfast

The campaign is on—

For contracts for 8000 acres of sugar beets in the Willamette valley next year—

Upon the signing of which work will begin on the factory to take care of them: to be completed by October 1 next, and to cost about a million and a half dollars.

The factory will be built in the city or town that makes the best showing in acreage. We must, of course, make the best showing in the country immediately surrounding Salem: in Polk, Clackamas, Yamhill, Linn, Benton and Marion counties. If we cannot do this, Washington or Lane county may get the factory. Or it may be located in McMinnville, Corvallis, Albany or Oregon City or Woodburn, or even in Stayton or Aumsville or Lebanon.

All the cities named will finally get beet sugar factories. It is coming, as certain as anything can possibly be. The reason is that the new sugar factory development in the United States must avoid the districts where the beet leaf hopper is likely to come and destroy the young beets. It cannot come to the Willamette valley, because the hosts, the sage brush and similar growths, do not appear here at all. We are immune. And ours is a better beet sugar country than the districts devoted to that crop in Wisconsin, Ohio and other states east of the Rockies.

On the George Vick farm near West Stayton there is growing a wonderful crop of volunteer flax. It is 36 inches high now in places; 40 acres of it, nearly. It may make fiber flax worth pulling, with three weeks or so of sunshine. Other growers have found such flax excellent sheep pasture.

McNARY, HOME TO HELP WIN REPUBLICAN WEST

Washington, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Utah, California, Arizona, New Mexico and Colorado. In the western states, the closest political race will no doubt be staged in Colorado.

"The president's vacation has agreed with him, and found him in excellent spirits and hard at work on administration problems. We went over agricultural questions and the proposed farm relief bills and reclamation. The latter question is one of the issues in the Rocky Mountain states that is arousing considerable interest."

Mr. McNary evidenced particular interest in the campaign being waged in Oregon but said that he could not comment upon it, after having been absent from the state for four weeks. This week Mr. McNary expects to spend on his farm looking after his orchard and doing some fishing in his trout pond.

Looking out across the trout pond on his farm, he said with a smile, "Just a month ago I caught nine beauties in here about 10 inches long, and I hope to duplicate the catch some day this week."
