

Yankees Snatch Victory From Cardinal Red Birds

Big Bat of Babe Ruth Silenced by Sherdel's Baffling Curves and Bambino Fails to Get Ball Out of Infield Diamond

(By Alan J. Gould.)

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 7.—(AP)—The Yankees snatched victory from the Cardinals today just as the red birds were about to fly away with it.

Baffled for eight innings, by Willie Sherdel and his slow curves, the American league champions rallied to tie the score in the ninth and win in the 10th inning of a game that alternately had another record crowd chilled and thrilled.

It was the fifth game of this spectacular world's series' battle and the Yankee victory, gained by a score of 3 to 2, put the New Yorkers in the lead, 3 to 2, as the contending clans left tonight to resume the struggle in the Yankee stadium Saturday.

One more triumph will clinch the world's title for the Yankees while the Cardinals face the necessity of capturing two straight if they are to realize their dream of championship glory for the first time.

Herb Pennock, the lanky Yankee southpaw, twirled his second victory of the series, repeating his opening game triumph, also gained over Sherdel, but he had more trouble winning today than he did the first time. For eight innings it was a stirring duel, with Sherdel having the better of it, but the Cardinal southpaw, with triumph seemingly in his grasp, weakened, lost control and went down to defeat as the Yanks came with a rush at the close.

Ben Paschal, a pinch hitter, brought over the tying run in the ninth with a Texas leaguer to left, while Tony Lazzeri, the Italian second sacker, scored the winning run in the first extra inning with a towering sacrifice fly to Hafey. It was a decisive finish but it was gained only by capitalizing every advantage, for Sherdel, although weakening, fought desperately and courageously to hold the 2-1 lead which the Cardinals had gained by bunting hits off Pennock in the fourth and seventh.

Lou Gehring started the finishing firework with a fluky double in the ninth that Hafey lost in the sun. Lazzeri, attempting to sacrifice, beat out his tap to Bell, and Gehring raced to third from where the tallied a moment later on the hit by Paschal, who batted for Dugan.

Sherdel lightened here, getting three putouts in a row as Severid, Pennock and Combs failed to knock the ball out of the infield, but it was only a lull in the tide that turned the Yanks.

Mark Koenig, whose erratic fielding had previously proved costly, started the 10th with a rousing single to left and went to second on a wild pitch. Sherdel took no chances with Ruth and walked the Babe but Bob Meusel advanced both base runners with a neat sacrifice bunt and Gehring was purposely passed to fill the bases.

This set the stage for Lazzeri's winning punch. It was the second time the young Italian had come to bat with the bases full. The first time, in the sixth, he walloped a towering fly to right that might have gone for a home run but for a stiff breeze that held it back and enabled Southworth to catch it up against the bleacher wall.

This time Lazzeri took another leadoff and shot a long drive to Hafey in deep left. Koenig raced across the plate with the winning run after the catch. Gehring next man up, was hit by a pitched ball, filling the bases again, but Severid ended the inning by popping to Hornsby.

It was in the sixth inning that Sherdel yielded the Yankee run, compounded from Pennock's double, and a single by Koenig. Paschal, Combs and Gehring helped to fill the bases, but Sherdel got Lazzeri on the latter's high fly to right after striking out Ruth with two men on the base.

Ruth's big bat was completely silenced by Sherdel's baffling curves. The Babe failed to get the ball out of the infield in three attempts and was walked on his other two trips to the plate.

Pennock yielded only seven hits, four more than he did in his first game, and two less than Sherdel, but the Cardinals bunched four of their blows to produce their runs. A double by Bottomly that bounced off Koenig's glove in the fourth, followed by Lester Bell's single to center, scored one tally, while a double by Bell and a single by O'Farrell that caromed off Koenig's foot in the seventh, accounted for the other.

After the seventh, Pennock settled down and was never in danger. He walked Holm in the eighth but a double play started by Lazzeri checked the Cards, who went out in order in the ninth and were retired in the 10th after Thevenow had singled with one out.

While the Yank southpaw had erratic support at several stages of the game, particularly from Koenig, he also was aided by several fine plays. Combs robbed Hornsby of a triple in the sixth with a fine running catch and Ruth after previously failing in an attempt to bag Bottomley's two-bagger, from his shoestrings, came back to grab Hafey's foul in the fourth with a marvelous one-hand catch up against the wire screen in front of the left field boxes.

By Charles W. Dunckley
ST. LOUIS, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Failure of the Cardinals to capture today's game was directly due to the errors in judgment displayed by Chic Hafey, the Cardinals' left fielder.

That was the explanation of Rogers Hornsby after he led his defeated players off the field.

"I hate to say it, but ordinary boys flies that anybody should have caught were allowed to go for two-base hits."

Sherdel, Cardinal pitcher, suffered a painful injury, the seriousness of which he gamely concealed until after the game, when he was struck on the first finger of his pitching hand in the fifth inning. Three-quarters of the finger nail was black and blue when he examined it after the contest.

Hornsby intends to start Alexander in the sixth game of the series in New York Saturday. The veteran bowled the Yankees over, allowing them only four hits in the second game. Hornsby believes "Old Pete" is ready to repeat.

"I intend to pitch either Shawkey or Shocker," Manager Huggins, of the Yanks, said. "The fighting spirit of the Yanks is marvelous. It has been tough on them to keep on getting all the bad breaks and still come back fighting. We had plenty of men on bases today, but couldn't get the runs."

WILLAMETTE TEAM LOSES 14 PLAYERS

Early Games With Strong Teams Put Keene's Men on Hospital List

Although Willamette university's two football games with Oregon and Washington are now history, the Willamette football team is still suffering from the evil effects of starting the season with such games. So many of Coach Spec Keene's men are on the hospital list as a result that practice had to be suspended last night.

The long list of cripples on the squad includes 14 of Keene's best players, most of whom will not be in condition to practice for at least a week. Harry Cloninger is just out of the hospital with blood poisoning, Percy Bennett has a severe case of sore throat, Merle McMullen a torn tendon, Royal Nakanno has been out since the first of the season with torn muscles.

Albert Reidel is lost for the season as result of an operation. Captain Keith Rhodes has a "charley horse," Clive Zeller torn ligaments in his shoulder, Elliott Best a case of severely bruised muscles, Albert Herman a sprained ankle, Doren Mort a bruised hip, Frank Sandberg an injured ankle, Frank Schofield a case of flu, Willard Ruch a broken instep, and Delmer Campbell a case of boils.

"On top of this, the whole squad is acting in a dead and lifeless manner," said Keene yesterday. "All of the men seem slow and need a rest."

The reason for this sad state of affairs is that the men had to get into condition too rapidly for the Oregon and Washington games. The green squad had only nine days from the start of practice until it went on the field against Oregon.

The players had to work like slaves to get into condition and learn a few plays to make a stand against Oregon and Washington, and as the players themselves say, "those games put us on the rocks."

Now the men are having the natural reaction from those two weeks of work at top speed and are going through the motions in a lifeless, mechanical way.

As a consequence, Keene called off practice last night and today will hold only a light workout, with another rest Saturday, in an effort to keep his squad from going completely stale before it has really got its season started.

Tentative plans have been laid for a game with Monmouth, Albany, or some other nearby college for October 16, while the week following Multnomah club is scheduled as opponent, in case the game does not fall through.

"We could have played a game here this Saturday with another nearby college of our own size," said Keene, "but how can we play football when we hardly have a team?"

To counteract the droves of men who have gone to the sick list, only one man has come off it recently. Lars Bergsvick, a line-man, who has been out since the first of the season because of illness, has returned and was out for practice Wednesday.

HUSKIES TO WIN, BEARCATS THINK

Willamette Only Team to Play Washington and Oregon This Season

Coach Enoch Bagshaw's Huskies from Seattle will defeat the University of Oregon eleven at Multnomah stadium in Portland Saturday, according to the consensus of opinion among the Willamette university Bearcats, the only team that has played both of them.

Twenty of Coach Spec Keene's men say Washington is the better team; five of the squad that played in both games say Coach John J. McEwan of the Eugene university has the better.

Oregon ran up a bigger score against the Bearcats than did Washington, but the Willamette players point out that the "buck fever" which they carried into the game at Eugene was responsible for several of the touchdowns, and that Washington earned just as many as did Oregon.

On the other hand, Coach Keene sent his men into the Oregon game more or less at random, with a sole view of giving them all practice. At Seattle he kept his best team on the field for three quarters; and they had improved more during the week than Washington had.

Both of the teams which will meet in the dedicatory game at Portland's new stadium Saturday have effective serial attack, therefore the final score cannot be predicted safely, some of the Willamette players said. But Washington, despite the loss of Wilson and the Tesreus, has the better straight football attack, and a better defense in general, most of them agreed.

The Greatest Development in Heater Manufacture the Industry has ever known

The Bridge-Beach WOOD "SUPERIOR" CIRCULATOR is the most wonderful heater ever produced. Instead of radiating, it gently CIRCULATES the heated air to all adjoining rooms and halls. Will keep several rooms comfortably warm in the coldest weather. And by means of a specially arranged humidifier, the circulated air carries the right amount of moisture to insure good health. Takes the place of several heaters. Besides wood, cut to regular size, chips, large blocks and knots can be successfully used. Very economical in fuel consumption. Shown in a beautiful Walnut Enamel finish and also in a plain black with Wellsville polished steel body.
