Help Is Needed—A plea for help was received last night in behalf of a man and his wife who, though educated and worthy, are in need of immediate assistance. According to Dr. Henry E. Morris, the man was injured in an automobile accident two or three weeks ago, and suffered a crushed knee which has kept him in the hospital. His wife is a competent stenographer but needs a position. Some money is needed at once, and any person having a position open for the woman is asked to communicate with Dr. Morris, 303 Oregon building, or phone 239, at once.

AIMEE HAS PLANS FOR TOUR THROUGH COUNTRY (Continued from page 1.) find any such building. Today's session of the preliminary hearing on criminal conspiracy charges of McPherson, her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, and Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Sielaff had rolled along, characterized by the usual prosecution-defense bickering, until Murchison passed his expert opinion that the woman pastor's story of her desert hegra would not hold water.

Murchison commented on the weather the day Mrs. McPherson returned to Douglas June 23, after, as she said, having tramped between 15 and 20 miles across the sandy wastes. The heat, said the big border policeman, was "terrible," between 118 and 123 degrees. The prosecution wanted to know if the evangelist could have made the trip described by her without water. The Douglas officer was ready to reply when defense attorney, Gilbert, hopped to his feet pointing out objections. A lengthy argument finally developed, with the court's permission, into a lengthy hypothetical question to the effect:

Taking a woman approximately 35 years old, mother of two children, more or less active all her life, who has been raised on a farm, kidnaped and drugged May 18, held captive nearly a month, confined to bed most of that time, fed principally on canned goods, left alone in bonds from which she freed herself, could such a woman under such circumstances, have walked from 11 o'clock in the morning until 1:30 or 2 the following morning, upwards of 14 hours, without water across the desert, without showing any noticeable ill effects and without having perspiration marks on her clothing, or noticeable signs of wear on her shoes?

And Murchison's reply was: "No, I don't think so." "What should have been her condition?" was the next question. "She should have been suffering from thirst; her face should have been sunburned; her clothing and shoes should have shown more wear than they did at the time she came in."

Cross-examined by Gilbert, Mr. Murchison amplified a little by stating "there was no sign of perspiration under the arms and the dress was not soiled on the collar and cuffs."

The cheap, gray muslin dress which the evangelist wore when she reached Douglas after the walk she described over the desert precipitated a bitter wrangle between the district attorney and defense counsel Gilbert.

The latter had been exhibiting it to Murchison and then dragged it through a puddle of water that had been spilled on the table top.

The three members of the prosecution ranks came to their feet en masse, Keyes voicing a strenuous protest to the court, and charging that Gilbert had deliberately attempted to soil the garment. He explained that the utmost care had been taken to keep the dress in the same condition in which it had been put off by Mrs. McPherson. In view of the prosecution's contention that the garment showed no evidence of the lengthy desert tramp which the evangelist said she had taken after she had escaped from the kidnapers.

Gilbert retorted that Keyes was playing to the gallery, and Judge Blake closed the argument with a warning to the defense attorney to be more careful of exhibits in the case.

Berlice Day, secretary to the late R. A. McKinley, blind long Beagh attorney, who died in an automobile accident recently and who had declared he had been used as a go-between for the evangelist's kidnapers, today gave the district attorney another piece of written evidence tending to link Superior Judge Carlos S. Hardy with the McPherson mystery.

The exhibit, which Keyes says he will put into the records as part of his proof of the existence of a plot to "produce" a shack where the evangelist was supposed to have been held, and a man to pose as a kidnaper, consisted of a business card bearing the judge's name engraved on it and a pinned note on the back introducing Roland Elch Woolley, personal attorney for Mrs. McPherson to McKinley.

The introduction read: "Mr. McKinley: This will introduce Mr. Woolley, who will act for one. Please work with him. (Signed) Carlos S. Hardy."

Judge Hardy, who has stated that he had given Mrs. McPherson legal advice as a friend, already in tender summons as a witness, to explain three letters attributed to his pen and addressed to McKinley and to Mrs. Sielaff. Court adjourned at 5 o'clock; this afternoon until 10 a. m. tomorrow.

CHINESE AWAIT DEATH, GUNS TO SPEAK SUNDAY

(Continued from page 1.) to death as the maddened hordes struggle for rescue. Many thrown into the river, are drowned. Next Sunday, if they have not escaped, the rain of fire will pour upon them for the gates will be closed. Only a few miles away are the troops of Sun Chuan-fang, ruler of the five provinces of eastern China, trying to thrust aside the Cantoneses who oppose their march to the relief of beleaguered Wuchang. Slightly relieved must come to the Wuchang defenders within a few days.

Since early in September the city has been infested by the Russianized armies from the southern provinces of Kwangtung and Kwangsi, which are attempting to annex the central China provinces of Marshal Wu Pei-fu to the dominion of the Cantoneses government.

Hankow, sister city of Wuchang across the broad Yangtze river, succumbed to the southerners, as did Manyang, adjoining. Wu Pei-fu, was forced out of Hankow about September 8, and is reported attempting to reorganize his demoralized troops in Honan province, north of Hankow. In this he is being aided by his old lieutenant, Sun Chuang-fang, now the dictator of China's five eastern provinces.

SKINNY MEN This Beats Record

He Gained 28 Pounds in 8 Weeks—Good Solid Healthy Flesh, Too

In every town in America you can see skinny, scrawny men and women with deep hollows in cheeks, neck and chest who are more to be pitied than blamed. Doctors, Chemists, Scientists all agree that Cod Liver Oil is full of flesh building, health promoting, strength increasing vitamins. They also agree and the whole world agrees with them that it is about the most evil-smelling and nasty tasting, nauseating stuff that human beings come in contact with—It upsets indigestion.

But now all that is changed—Cod Liver Oil comes in tablet form, sugar coated and as easy to take as candy. J. C. Perry, D. J. Fry and druggists everywhere sell McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets with the distinct understanding that if any thin, lean, underweight man or woman takes them for 30 days and does not gain at least 5 pounds, the purchase price will be returned.

Stanley E. Howe, Atlantic City, N. J., writes that he gained 28 pounds in 8 weeks and further writes, "I sleep, rest and eat and nothing bothers my nerves—I feel like a real man—thanks to McCoy's."

One woman, exceedingly thin, gained 10 pounds in 22 days; and don't forget that, being full of vitalizing vitamins, they do help feeble old folks who need a real tonic, and for thin, puny, undeveloped children—they quickly bring health, strength and increased weight—60 tablets for 50 cents. Inquire on McCoy's—the original and genuine.—Ad.
