STEIWER FOR FARM RELIEF

The Portland Journal of last evening attempted to show that Bert Haney is in favor of farm relief, and that Frederick Steiwer is not—

Saying Mr. Haney has declared himself for the McNary-Haugen bill, and that Mr. Steiwer is indefinite in his attitude on this bill.

That is not true. Senator McNary has made a public statement, saying Mr. Steiwer is with him in his attitude on the principle that is being worked out in this regard—

And there is really no definite McNary-Haugen bill. In the tremendous fight in the senate, after the bill had failed in the house, a contest that lasted weeks on end, the bill, that then came to be known as the McNary bill, because the Oregon senator stood his ground through it all, in an acrimonious debate, in which he was assailed viciously by the enemies of the bill—

The McNary bill was a different bill in language almost every day; made so by amendments that were offered in committee and from the floor of the senate.

But the principle of the bill was the same all through, to the end, when it was lost by the desertion of five or six members from the south, who wanted more for cotton than the other members favoring the legislation were willing to accord them—

And these southern senators were sorry the day after adjournment. They saw their mistake, and they see it more plainly now. They realize that the south might be saved now from near bankruptcy, if the McNary bill as finally proposed were law—with such a bumper crop of cotton, selling below the cost of production; selling around 14 cents a pound, when southern growers say the cost of putting cotton in the bale is 18 cents a pound.

The principle of the bill is this: That in any major crop with a large exportable surplus, invoking the protective tariff in order to establish an American price above the world price, the United States shall set up machinery for buying the whole crop sold from the farm, and there shall be charged for every pound or bushel or bale a small price, to make up the loss on the sale of the surplus in the world market—

That is all.
 It is 100 per cent compulsory cooperation; like the California and other cooperatives, only providing against any one staying out, if what he raises does not stay on the farm; that is, if it goes to home or foreign markets.

Senator McNary has said that Frederick Steiwer is with him in working out this principle for farm relief.

The Portland Journal is merely trying to make votes through a falsehood for Mr. Haney at today's election.

LIES INTENDED TO DECEIVE

The owners (principally two men) of the fish wheels in the Columbia gorge have been publishing an advertisement in the state papers that is full of lies; nearly all lies—

And lies intended to deceive.

The ad says the Astoria chamber of commerce is against the bill to put fish wheels out of business. The Astoria chamber of commerce has branded this statement as a lie. But the fish wheel owners kept on publishing the lie after the Astoria chamber of commerce had denounced it.

The ad says the men backing the bill against fish wheels are foreigners; fishermen. The state of Oregon does not issue fishing licenses to other than American citizens.

The ad says the "Clatsop county press" is against the bill. The Astoria Budget says that is a lie. The newspapers there are for it.

It is also a lie that the passage of the bill would raise the price of fish. Increasing the fishing industry to three times (or more) its present size, it would tend to lower the price of fish.

It is also a lie that the proposed law would confiscate property. A fishing license is not property. A license to run a fish wheel is a special privilege, and a public outrage.

It is a lie that the passage of the bill would violate a solemn treaty with the state of Washington. The state of Oregon has a right to make what regulations it pleases about the right to fish in state waters. And if it were true, the fish wheel owners would not be fighting the bill. They would take their case to the courts.

The whole thing is a fight of a few (mostly two) men for their unjust monopoly—

And the worst feature of the monopoly is the fact that it takes the fish on their way to their natural spawning grounds, and thus keeps the fishing industry of Oregon less than a third the size it ought to be—

Resides depriving the whole people of a natural right to the fish in their streams.

The Willamette's tributaries furnish all the salmon eggs for the state hatcheries—all the small fish that allow the Columbia river fishing industry to exist at all. The Columbia river tributaries furnish none. They should supply the vast bulk of them. But this is impossible, with the fish wheels running in the Columbia gorge.

If this matter were thoroughly understood by all the people of Oregon, there would be only a half hundred votes against the bill on the ballot; those of the fish wheel owners and their employees; about 30 of them.

The county bonding amendments ought all to carry. The people of the counties affected know what is good for them. Why not allow them to have it?

There is no good reason for a normal school at Seaside. It is just the echo of a log-rolling proposition in the last legislature.

Better save the overhead. Better properly equip the present tuberculosis hospital, before voting a second one for eastern Oregon.

Vote against the motor bus and truck bill. The legislature will have to thresh this matter out, any way.

Vote for a bigger Oregon fishing industry. Vote to abolish the fish wheels.

Vote against the housewives' bill. It proposes too much power to an attempted self-appointed board. It is a dangerous proposition.

When in doubt, don't vote.

In Memoriam Mrs. Ann Shinn

Perhaps comparatively few in Salem had the pleasure of knowing Mrs. Ann Shinn of Hazel avenue. Those of us who did enjoy the privilege realize how great was our loss when on Friday, October 22, that beautiful and sainted spirit left forever this dark and stormy world to enter the light, rest and peace of heaven. For Mrs. Shinn the little voyage of life was indeed somewhat stormy. Left a widow at an early age, and of frail physique, she bravely struggled through many sorrows and difficulties. For the last 18 years she has been an invalid tenderly cared for by her only daughter, Miss Bess Shinn, who is a teacher in our public schools. Through these years of weakness and pain she maintained an unusually patient and sweet disposition. We have never heard a word of complaint from the lips of Mrs. Shinn. We have never seen a frown on that pale little face. We loved to call at her cottage, for we were always sure of a sweet smile, a few loving words, and a tender handshake. Here was a life of simple faith in her Redeemer and childlike obedience to His commands.

Sometimes I wonder who are the truly great in this world. Perhaps not great preachers the great philosophers, or the great philanthropists. Perhaps the truly great are those who, like Mrs. Shinn, bravely triumphantly breathe the billows of life, borne up by their simple faith in God and their love to humanity. Many who do not possess this faith are in the words of the poet Cowper, "always from port withheld, always distressed" and driven by the howling winds of adversity, drift aimlessly on the ocean of life, until, worn and weary, they are cast up on the shore of death. Here was a life of simple faith in her Redeemer and childlike obedience to His commands.—E. R. C.

PARTY REPUDIATES MAN

REPUBLICANS TOLD TO VOTE CHOICE FOR SHERIFF

LONGVIEW, Wash., Nov. 1.—(AP)—A. Ruric Todd, who won the republican nomination for sheriff of Cowlitz county against the democrats, was publicly repudiated today as the party candidate by Walter McClelland of Kalama, chairman of the county republican committee. Todd is former mayor of Kelso, who was recalled and who now has pending an appeal to the state supreme court under sentence of 90 days in jail and $25 fine, following conviction charges of malicious prosecution.

McClelland in a published statement declared damage is being done to the party by Todd; that he is not regarded as a republican by a great number of voters of the county, and he cited a threat made by Todd to run a strike candidate against Joseph Malley, republican nominee for prosecuting attorney. McClelland told the republicans to "feel free to vote their choice for sheriff by scratching the republican candidate."

Now for the decisions—

With the issues in the hands of the men and women in the polling booths—

Where one elector's power is as great as another's. This is government of, by and for the people, brought down a little closer than was intended in the beginning, when the big idea was definitely a representative form of government. We have it now a cross between a direct and representative form.

For the three months of August, September and October, the state lime plant at the prison ground 3,458,480 pounds of lime rock into agricultural lime, and it was bought by or shipped on 128 different orders, representing a total of a great many more farmers than that, for some of the orders were large, and on behalf of a number of users. They are scattered pretty well over the Willamette valley and coast counties. The orders are keeping constantly ahead of the supply. That is a "right smart sprinkling" of lime, but it is only a very small dab, proportioned to what the lime hungry land of this section needs; and that might be used with profit in larger crops to the acre. The Statesman has the list of users, and addresses and amounts, and will print it in the next few days.

The Portland chamber of commerce, which proposes to back the campaign for contracts for 8000 acres of beets, to be grown for the proposed sugar factory to be built ready to process the 1927 crop, is making an exhaustive survey of the whole situation, from first hands and authoritative sources, in order that when the campaign for contracts opens, all questions may be answered. This investigation, as said before, includes an inquiry being carried on among the growers and with the factory people in the Bellingham, Wash., district.

CHINESE STILL HOSTILE

BRITISH CUSTOMS OFFICER ATTACKED BY STRIKERS

CANTON, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Although the Anti-foreign strike and boycott has been declared officially ended there are still instances of hostility against river commerce between Hong Kong and Canton. An employee of the British customs named Jarvis while protecting the landing of a Chinese woman from a Hong Kong boat today was attacked by strikers. He finally was escorted to the custom house by a cordon of police.

Due to the dissatisfaction of many of the strikers the trade situation continues uncertain.

QUEEN GETS WAR BONNET AS GIFT

INDIAN CEREMONY CAPS DAY FOR NOVEL EVENTS

Princess Ileana Swaps Rumanian Needlework for Sioux Bracelet

ON BOARD QUEEN MARIE'S SPECIAL TRAIN IN NORTH DAKOTA, Nov. 1.—(AP)—"Colorful glimpse of the old west in modern setting was afforded Queen Marie today at Mandan where she became a "war woman" of the Sioux Indians and later at Medora witnessed an old time rodeo arranged in her honor.

The Indian ceremony and rodeo capped a day of novel experiences which began at Fargo when she took into her private car the first of a series of farmer delegations who gave her information about farming conditions.

With all the dignity and ceremony that could be crowded into the "short form" ritual of the Sioux, Queen Marie was inducted into the tribe's sisterhood and given the name Winyan Kipanpi Win, which means "The Woman Who Was Waited For."

A war bonnet of eagle feathers, symbolic of the high station of the wearer, was placed on the queen's head by Chief Red Tomahawk as the badge of her acceptance into the tribe.

The ceremony began with a drum beat dance of braves and squaws in a circle about Queen Marie, Prince Nicholas and Princess Ileana. Then a buffalo robe was placed on the ground and Marie was directed to kneel upon it.

In the robe Marie was carried to the ceremonial tepee where Chief Red Tomahawk, reputed slayer of the warring medicine man, Sitting Bull, went through the ritual of extending the fellowship of the tribe.

With the old tribesmen in the tepee were several young Indians who saw service with the AEF, Governor A. G. Sorlie and Major A. B. Welch of Mandan. Red Tomahawk spoke to the queen in the Sioux tongue:

"I want to say a few words to you now. You see this soldier (Major Welch) he is one of us by adoption and we call him brother. He told me that you are a 'trier of a nation and a war woman.' I sent many of my young men across the ocean to fight the enemy.

"Your men were friends of my men and we fought in the same battles. I am told that you were active in that war and made sacrifices for them. I am told that many of your young men were buried far from home.

"We want to honor you. A woman does not wear an eagle's head dress unless she has performed some splendid act of heroism. Your part in that great war has endeared you to us who are of the prairies.

"We feel that we have a comrade of the war in you. Therefore, I present you with this honorable badge of bravery and give you the name 'Winyan Kipanpi Win' and you are my sister now."

While the ceremony was on, Princess Ileana tested the bartering ability of an Indian by swapping some Rumanian needlework and a bracelet for a quantity of wampum beads, money and a beaded bag. Prince Nicholas took no part in the ceremony but followed it closely.

being explained that, as he is a resident of Massachusetts, he could properly speak in that one instance.

His action, nevertheless, has served to center national attention on a political contest which already has attracted wide interest because of the intensive senatorial fight and the issues surrounding it, with the man personally selected by Mr. Coolidge as chairman of the republican national committee campaigning to retain his senatorial seat against the opposition of former Senator David I. Walsh.

The example of the president was followed by his personal secretary, Edward T. Clark, also a legal resident of Northampton, who will arrive there on the executive's special train to vote in person for Senator Butler and Governor Fuller.

The special train of five cars is due tomorrow morning at Northampton, where a public homecoming reception has been arranged for the executive and the first lady of the land. The visit, although it will be the first time the president and Mrs. Coolidge have been home in more than a year, will be brief, however, as they will return to the capital in time to receive the election returns at the White House tomorrow evening.

A motion to reject the report of the zoning commission was then carried by a small majority, Aldermen Rosebrough and Simeral again withholding their vote until the rest had voted.

No further action was taken on the matter, a decision being made to hold it up until the next meeting to give the nearby residents, all of whom are opposed to the proposed station, a chance to be heard.

POLICE IDENTIFY BODY

PATROLMAN TO GET REWARD FOR SLAYER'S CAPTURE

DETROIT, Nov. 1.—(AP)—

The man who yesterday killed Jack "Killer" Cuniffe, notorious bandit, was identified by police today as Thomas Connelly, alias Thomas Crowley, a member of the "Bum" Rogers' gang of thugs with which Cuniffe also was associated.

Connelly, who was also known here as William Olsen, killed Cuniffe and a woman companion during what police believe was a quarrel over division of loot from recent robberies. He was himself shot to death by Patrolman Ephraim Rancour, but only after he killed another officer, Ernest Jones, and wounded a bystander in a pistol battle which followed the attempt of the officers to arrest him for the slaying of his companions.

Federal officials indicated tonight that Rancour would receive the $2000 reward offered for the apprehension of Cuniffe, which was posted shortly after "The Killer" was alleged to have participated in a $150,000 mail robbery at Elizabeth, N. J.

SOVIET POWER CHANGES

STALIN SEEKS U. S. RECOGNITION OF RUSSIA

LONDON, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Joseph Stalin, head of the central executive committee of the Communist party, who has seized the reins of power in Russia, has resolved, says the diplomatic correspondent of the West Minister Gazette, on a change in the foreign policy of the soviet government.

The plan includes the slowing down of communist propaganda abroad, obtaining De Jure recognition of Russia by the United States and other countries, the settlement of Russia's debts to foreign countries and obtaining foreign loans for development.

Stalin, it is asserted, considers the use of foreign loans a better way of industrializing Russia than burdening the peasantry by increased taxation to raise money. Therefore he wants to limit the activities of the communistic international abroad.

HOUDINI'S WILL SPECIFIES PLANS OF BURIAL

DETROIT, Nov. 1.—(AP)—The body of Harry Houdini, celebrated magician who died Sunday, left here tonight on a special car for New York city for burial, in accordance with plans specified in Houdini's will.

Houdini's death came after a six-day battle with peritonitis following an operation for appendicitis. The magician had been stricken in Montreal, arriving here one day later where, despite a temperature of 104, he carried out his opening performance at a local theater.

The specially constructed heavy brass coffin which Houdini had brought with him and which the magician specified should be used for his burial, enclosed the body.

GOULD LEADS IN MAINE

PORTLAND, Maine, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Arthur Gould of Presque Isle, a wealthy business man of Arrostook county, Maine's great potato belt, had rolled up a lead of 3,400 votes over former Governor Percival P. Baxter in returns from more than half the state in today's senatorial primary. The vote in 357 precincts out of 633 in the state, representing 293 cities and towns, out of 519 was:

Baxter 12,955; Hodgdon C. Buzzell 7,490; Gould 16,369 and Louis A. Jack 865.

The contest was for the republican nomination for United States senator to complete the unexpired term of the late Senator Bert M. Fernald, republican. Fulton J. Redman was unopposed for the democratic nomination.

The vote was tight as compared with the state election in September.

RAINS AND FLOODS TO BENEFIT SOILS

Heavy September Rains Saturate Lower Soils for Next Season's Crops

DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 1.—(AP)—The silver lining of the rain clouds that poured tons of water over each Iowa acre during September will be visible to farmers of the state when next year's crops are harvested.

A few weeks ago, flooded streams and inundated lowlands foretold huge crop losses. But cheering statements from experienced observers indicate that this year's scattered losses will be offset by many indirect benefits through the replenishing of the water reservoir.

For many years the water reserve has been depleted. Scarcity of top soil water has interfered with crop growth and the gradual lowering of the permanent ground water level has caused shortage of well water.

This year's rains came at a season when the crops were dormant. The water thus penetrated the lower levels, and also replenished the soil water supply. It is estimated that only about 25 per cent of the precipitation was carried off by the streams and that the balance has so saturated the soil that the benefit will be marked during the next growing season, and may be noticeable for the next three or four years.

NEW ATTORNEY MAY ARGUE LICENSE LAW

Mayor Glesy to take action in the matter, Mr. Purvine stated, and asked what recommendation he had to make.

"I was willing to recommend that we get another attorney when this matter came up before," said Mr. Glesy, "but at this late date I will make no recommendation to stay with the case. I was of the opinion that we should hire another attorney, for Mr. Williams has said that he did not think he could win the case, and I think his sympathies are with the stage companies."

It will cost the city much more than $200 to get another attorney, according to Alderman Dancy, who made the motion that the ways and means committee be allowed to decide whether the city could afford it. The motion was carried unanimously.

"I wish to correct an impression that was made here," stated Mr. Williams, "I am not in sympathy with the stage companies."

The city several months ago voted not to fight the injunction brought by the stage companies, and instead to compromise on a $10 fee, but later changed its decision and decided to make the battle.

The council then gave its opinion that the city should have the right to govern the use of its own streets.

Previous court decisions on similar cases are very rare, but the latest case was one in which the state supreme court decided that a $75 fee was for revenue. As the Salem fee is only $20, many of the councilmen feel that the courts will not hold similarly, but will decide the $20 fee is regulatory.

No maximum regulatory fee has ever been decided.

MINERS REFUSED HELP

BRITISH SEAMEN DEFEAT COAL BOYCOTT PROPOSAL

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP)—British union seamen in six American ports are overwhelmingly opposed to supporting striking British miners either by refusing to sign on vessels carrying coal to United Kingdom ports or by furnishing funds at the rate of a shilling or half crown per man, it was shown in the results of a poll announced here tonight.

The poll was taken on British ships at Baltimore, Philadelphia, Boston, Norfolk, Newport News and New York.

Union seamen in the American port voted 3865 to 176 against refusing to sign on vessels carrying foreign coal to United Kingdom ports; 1250 to 263 against a levy of a shilling a week to aid the miners. And 1150 to 35 against a levy of a half crown a week.

The city recorder was granted permission to issue bonds for the improvement of Kay park.

A recommendation from the city zoning commission recommending that Hanson and Liljequist be granted permission to erect a lumber yard on Church and Mill streets was adopted. The recommendation provides that the yard have no openings on Church street, and be set back from it 10 feet.

The fire and water committee was authorized to buy a lamp for $300.

Alderman Dancy reported that the Water company had completed mains connecting with the Oregon Pulp and Paper company's plant, giving excellent protection against fire.

The city attorney was granted permission to buy a filing cabinet for the street improvement department, to cost $65.

A motion was passed to accept $153 from Caleb Hughes as assessment for a strip of land, on 17th street, and also to accept a quit-claim deed to the land for street purposes.

The city recorder was instructed to instruct the operators of gravel trucks running on the city streets to stop permitting the gravel to fall out on the streets.

Several applications for licenses were referred to committees.

Resolutions were adopted for the improvement of portions of Mission, 17th, 14th, Winona Court, Lee and Lefelle streets.

Decision was made to tell the city park board that it has the authority to order the cutting off of lower limbs of
