HALL-MILLS TALK TOLD TO COURT BY EX-MAID

not know whether Mrs. Hall heard the conversation. The one-sided dialogue, as reported today, quoted Mr. Hall: "Yes, yes, yes. That's too bad. I was going to the church a little later. Can't we make an arrangement, for about a quarter to 8?" Mrs. Riehl said that the minister later went out with the explanation to Mrs. Hall that he was going to "see about Mrs. Mills' hospital bill," with the added assurance that he would not be late returning.

YES, IT DOES RAIN IN RAINY SEASON

But We Also Always Have a Dry Season Here in Our Harvesting Time

Rained yesterday in Salem and throughout the Willamette valley. And the wind blew. And it rained some more. It was a weepy day.

But an Oregon poultry breeder who has just returned from touring the middle western states reports the following to the Northwest Poultry Journal of Salem:

"Our sympathies are with the mid-west farmer this fall. All the way down through Illinois, field after field of small grains were in the shock and sprouted, the tops of the shocks showing green. Corn fields under water and farmers unable to get them out. Surely it must be heart breaking to Mr. Farmer to see a year's work thus lost.

"The same conditions are prevalent throughout the corn belt—nothing but rain, rain, rain."

Nothing like that here. Aside from stopping seeding operations, the heavy rains of yesterday, did little or no harm. Our harvests are about all in, excepting in the case of celery and such other crops as are not hurt by the rain.

And the rains help the pastures for our dairy cows and our sheep and live stock generally.

We do not appreciate enough the fact that we have green things the year through here in the Willamette valley, and flowers growing in the open, and seed time and harvest the whole 12 months of the year.

TEXTBOOK BODY TO MEET

PRELIMINARY SURVEY IS ON PROGRAM FOR AFTERNOON

The state commission on school textbooks will meet informally this afternoon to make a preliminary survey of books, prices, and other details, in preparation for the regular meeting Monday when textbooks to be used in Oregon schools for the next six years will be selected.

Books for use in the following subjects will be chosen at Monday's meeting: In the grades—Agriculture, arithmetic, history (grade 5), music, spelling. In the senior high school—Agriculture, algebra, American literature, book keeping, commercial geography, English composition, English literature, geometry, German. In the junior high schools—Commercial arithmetic, general science, household economy.

The members of the state textbook commission are: Hon. Milton A. Miller and Winifred Winward, both of Portland; Prof. F. C. Kent of Oregon Agricultural college, Supt. A. C. Hampton of Astoria, and Supt. George Hug of Salem.

ARMY GOES INTO RIVER

Local police last night had discovered the identity of the persons who drove a car into the Willamette river at the foot of Court street and heading for the Marion-Polk county bridge.

The party, which is believed by police to have been two young men and two girls, drove the car down Court street clear into the river, and later had friends tow it out. They then disappeared.

Police said last night they were anxious to learn who were in the party.

PASS SNOW COVERED

McKenzie Pass, between Eugene and Bend, has been closed because of snow, according to announcement made at the offices of the state highway commission today. It was said that the last vehicle for the 1926 season passed over the highway early yesterday.

COMMISSION YESTERDAY

The victims were Walter York, choker setter, of Medford. Of the 707 accidents reported, 580 were subject to the provisions of the workmen's compensation law, 126 were from firms and corporations that have rejected the act, and one was from a public utility corporation not subject to state protection.

PRATUM

Rev. John Franz and family entertained relatives from Dallas the first of the week.

Special mission meetings will be held at the Methodist church Sunday evening at which Mrs. De Yoe and Mrs. Shephard will speak.

Since Fred de Vries advertised a potato sale here last week and disposed of 740 bushels within the first two days, he begins to realize that it pays to advertise. Customers are still coming for more potatoes.

Mr. and Mrs. William Rutchman and family of Whitewater, Kansas, are visitors here, and may become permanent residents.

Alma Stauffer, who is teaching school near Dallas, was home Sunday.

The Pratum feed mill has not been operating for the last few days on account of repairs being made. George Kleen and Fred Hersch are the mechanics who are overhauling the power plant. It is expected the mill will soon be in operation again.

A special mission program was given at the Mennonite church on Sunday evening with a large attendance. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cady of Auburn were among the visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Looney of Hazel Green called on friends here last week. Mr. Looney is a great chrysanthemum grower of that district.

TORNADO HITS FARMS

LODI, Cal., Nov. 12.—(AP)—A tornado swept through the farm country between Victor and Lockeford, east of here, today, wrecking everything in its path in an area approximately three miles long by 150 feet wide. Damage, while not definitely estimated, amounted to several thousands of dollars.

LOAN BODY CAN ESTABLISH

No Branches in Oregon

The American Loan association has no authority to establish branch offices in Oregon outside of Portland, without first receiving the approval of the state banking superintendent, and having a minimum paid up capital of $500,000. This was the substance of a legal opinion prepared here yesterday by the attorney general at the request of Frank C. Bramwell, state superintendent of banks.

PLAY CAST CHOSEN BY HARD CONTEST

De Molays to Stage "A Full House" at Bligh Theatre December 18

Members of the cast of "A Full House," a fast-stepping farce-comedy that will be this year's dramatic offering of the De Molay commandery, were chosen last night at the city library by the director, Perry Prescott Reigelman, after a grilling contest among aspirants for honors in the play.

"A Full House" was written by Fred Jackson and ran for a full year at the Longacre Theater in New York, and is noted for its comedy lines and tangled situations. It has entertained thousands and is built for laughing purposes only. It is quick in action like "A Pair of Sixes," which the De Molay boys staged last season under the direction of Mr. Reigelman.

The cast is replete with excellent parts and is especially well-balanced and will give those taking part a good test of their histrionic ability. The director is especially well satisfied with the players who are to present "A Full House," which has been scheduled to be presented at Bligh's Capitol theater on the evening of December 16.

Manager Homer Richards, who had charge of the financial work in "A Pair of Sixes," is manager again this season, and has already arranged plans for advertising. Pictures of the cast will be taken Sunday morning at nine o'clock at the Gunnell and Robb studio, and at that time the first reading rehearsal of the play will be held.

The cast of "A Full House," as chosen last night by Mr. Reigelman, is as follows: Parks, the Butler, Harold Tomlinson; Susie, the Dum-lora maid, Thelma La Duke; Ottily Howell, the wife, Fay Jo Wolz; Daphne Charters, Ottily's sister, Florence Power; Mrs. Fleming, the owner of the parlor, Julia Query; Miss Winnecker, the maid, Mildred Pugh; Vera Vernon, the show girl whose letters cause all the trouble, Alda Olsen; Mrs. Pembroke, whose jewels were stolen, Alma Farmer.

The villain of the play, Nicholas King, will be taken by Maurice Wood; young Ned Pembroke, Jr., who wrote the letters, John Steelhammer; George Howell, who tried to get the letters back, Carlton Gaines; Dougherty, the police sergeant, Francis Lutz; Moorey, a policeman, Johnny Creech; and Clancy, another policeman, Carl Ramseyer.

Need of reforestation Described by Dean Peavy

Need of starting some kind of reforestation in Oregon soon, was emphasized by George W. Peavy, dean of the OAC school of forestry, in an address before the Salem Lions club at its weekly luncheon Friday.

A tree takes 60 years to grow into a marketable piece of timber, he said, and at the rate the Oregon forests are disappearing, the present stand will be exhausted in 100 years. With this in mind, the need for immediate action is apparent.

The part of the United States lying west of the Cascades, he said, is capable of producing better timber in a shorter time than any other region in the world.

Out of the 470,000,000 acres of timber land in the United States, only 90,000,000 are paying taxes, Dean Peavy stated.
