He even inserted a cigar between his teeth to make complete the resemblance of the Cannon of old, although he had largely abandoned smoking in his later years and had substituted cigars for the stogies which were recognized throughout the land as a part of the Cannon picture.

America knew Cannon as "Uncle Joe," the stalwart leader of the lower house, the fire-ating debater, the genial whiskered politician clenching a cigar in his teeth under a broad brimmed hat. Danville knew him, too, as "Uncle Joe," and was its most famous townsman, but it knew him also as a man who came to great wealth during a lifetime here. He was accounted many times a millionaire, and at his death owned a substantial share of the National bank which he and his late brother, William, founded. Much of his wealth, it was said, was acquired through fortunate investment of his money by his brother.

His death marked the passing of a congressman whose time of service in national halls never has been equaled. He went to congress from the Danville district after a term as county attorney, and served from 1873 to 1891. He was defeated then, but came back two years later to serve from 1892 to 1913. HOG CHOLERA IS NOT SPREADING
The Scourge Has Evidently Been Confined to Hazel Green Section

The hog cholera, reported some time ago in the Hazel Green district northeast of Salem, has not spread. It has been confined to that district, with only one new case in addition to the ones reported in The Statesman.

This scourge killed about 75 hogs in the Hazel Green section, mostly belonging to three of the farmers out that way.

Carcasses have been resorted to, under the direction of state, Oregon Agricultural college and county authorities.

The Willamette valley has not heretofore been troubled by this scourge. In fact, swine breeders here have thought they were immune from it. There should be a close watch kept, and prompt measures taken to prevent its spread if it appears again.

EAGLES PLAN OLD TIME MINSTREL

Performance Scheduled for Some Time in December, Will Be Different

Members of Willamette Aerie No. 2081, Fraternal Order of Eagles, have planned the most unique and delightful entertainment ever presented in the city of Salem for some date early in December. Decision to stage this production was reached a few days ago and already the members of the local Aerie are busy as a whole hive of bees working out the details.

Official announcement is made that the entertainment will be a real, old-time minstrel show, with vocal and instrumental numbers selected from the inspiring music of long ago.

Not that the performance will be slow or tiresome, but quite the contrary. Like Henry Ford and his old-fashioned dances, the Salem Eagles, who are go-getters in every sense of the word, have hit upon the idea of turning back the pages of memory's book and giving their friends the dreams and sunshine of their youth for one evening.

If you are fortunate enough to be able to take your dad or mother, or perhaps even your grandparents, the old folks will have the time of their lives, for they will live again the days of their youth and perhaps join in the choruses of songs they haven't heard since they were boys and girls.

The performance under the plans officially approved, is to conform to the old-time minstrel show plan of a first part and an after-piece, with a 10 minute intermission. There will be rollicking music, soul-melting ballads, side-splitting comedy and clever dancing. No less than two sets of end-men will contribute their share of laughter and mirth, interspersed with tuneful coon-songs.

S. N. Willitt, secretary of Willamette Aerie, charged with the responsible task of arranging all details for the production, has announced that the actual direction of the production will be in the hands of Major Tom Akers, an experienced minstrel man and for two seasons one of the principal comedians with the Al G. Field's Minstrels.

Major Akers, now a resident of Salem, is well known in Oregon as one of the funniest comedians who ever appeared in black-face. His performances in Portland with the Grotto Minstrels and later with the Shrine Extravaaganza attracted widespread notice. Broad experience as a professional lends inestimable value to his ability to direct the Eagles' Minstrel show and the officers of the Salem Aerie are jubilant over their good fortune in obtaining his services.

"We are very fortunate indeed," said C. L. Seagrave, president, "in that Major Akers is to take charge of our entertainment. He is an experienced professional performer of exceptional ability and we know that under his direction our show will be a winner."

Edward Stewart, vice-president of the Salem Aerie, was equally as emphatic in his enthusiasm.

A novel and attractive feature of the show, as planned by Mr. Willitt and Major Akers, will be the participation of many of the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary, F. O. E. There is a world of talent in their ranks and their participation in the entertainment is certain to add to its value along every line.

Under the plans already formulated there will be approximately 50 persons in the cast, including end-men, soloists, dancers and those taking part in the various attractive features comprising the after-piece.

Some of the big numbers in the second half of the show are elaborate in setting and conception and several of them will be regular riots of hilarious fun.

For Sweet Charity's Sake

Although Willamette Aerie No. 2081 is less than two years old, its roster is very close to 300 and its members have won a desirable name for accomplishing whatever they set out to do.

It is announced that the purpose of the coming performance is to raise funds for aiding those of the community who are destitute and needy, and to carry on the work for the Old Age Pension plan.

"It's going to be a hummer of a show," he said enthusiastically, "and that stuff about the 'old-fashioned music' is straight goods. Its going to be a great night for the old folks as well as the youngsters. Major Akers knows his stuff. Watch our smoke."

CRANBERRY SUPPLY ARRIVES ON MART

Sweet Potatoes Plentiful, Florida Grape Fruit Quantity Increases

PORTLAND, Nov. 12.—(AP)—The first car of eastern cranberries of the season has arrived and is being offered to the trade at $14 per barrel and $7.25 per half barrel, boxes. Sweet potatoes are plentiful at 4c per pound. Florida grape fruit is increasing in supply. Potatoes are not moving briskly. Many of the buyers have curtailed their activity since the latest crop report showed an expected increased production. Stocks are offered ranging from $1.25 to $3 per hundredweight, according to quality and grade, with bakers from Bend and Klamath Falls topping the market.

Granger Will Be Speaker at Chamber of Commerce

C. M. Granger, district forester, will be speaker at the chamber of commerce weekly luncheon Monday noon. He will give some inside information into the workings of the forest service, according to the chamber's weekly bulletin.

Mr. Granger will describe the Santiam national forest, said to be one of Salem's biggest attractions, the heart of which is only two hours' motor ride from the city.

BANDITS PLAN FOILED BY CASHIER OF BANK

masked and well dressed, drove to the bank and dashed in. One shot was fired into the ceiling from a sawed-off shotgun, apparently in an effort to intimidate employees and customers, who were forced to lie upon the floor while the cash from the tellers' tills was scooped up.

This amount was not satisfactory and Harry Keller, the cashier, was forced to open the vault, from which the negotiable paper was obtained.

Leaving their victims still face down on the floor, the robbers hurried out, leaped into the motor car and were away before an alarm could be given.

The shot of intimidation was not heard by persons on the street although the bank is at the main corner of a city of approximately 15,000 population. The bank is the largest in La Porte. It was La Porte's first bank robbery.

George McClane, the bank president, was among those forced to lie upon the floor.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—(AP)—

Four robbers, one armed with a sawed-off shotgun, seized cashiers' checks totalling $24,000 from a manufacturing company's bank messenger late today and escaped. The bandits accosted John Fisher, the messenger, as he was enroute from a bank to the barrel manufacturing company's plant, grabbed a satchel containing the checks and escaped in an automobile.

Police believe the robbers, who escaped in an automobile, were the same band that held up and robbed a member of a textile firm and his sister of payrolls amounting to more than $3,500 a few hours earlier.
