TALK ON RELIGION AT HOME PRESENTED

M. E. Pastor Stresses Work Done by W. H. M. S. in the United States

"America for Christ" was the motto of the Woman's Home Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church, used by Rev. Fred C. Taylor in the annual thank-offering service in the First Methodist church Sunday morning. The subject of the sermon was "Home-Land Religion" and the texts used were "Go home to thy friends and tell them how great things the Lord hath done," and "Ye shall be my witnesses in Jerusalem and in all Judea."

"The work of Christianizing America is carried on by the W. H. M. S. through its educational centers, training schools, orphanages, homes, settlement centers, hospitals, nurseries and missions, in many of our cities and frontiers," said Dr. Taylor in relating the program of the society to the subject of "Home-Land Religion." The auxiliary has 459,970 members in its auxiliaries and last year collected $3,239,475 for its work. Its two institutions in the Oregon conference that are receiving its special support are the Methodist old people's home in Salem and the settlement center in Portland.

"The need of a practical and vital religion in America, that is dynamic and fruitful, is apparent on every hand," said Mr. Taylor. "For many years we viewed with concern the coming of so many immigrants to America, and said that we had to Christianize the foreigners or they would paganize us. We were told that the Buddhists were building temples in America and the Mohammedans were calling their devotees to prayer and we thought the pressing need was more work among these people. But now we believe that we must more fully Christianize ourselves before we can hope to Christianize others. The home life in America must be Christianized and our children and youth must be saved to Christ and his church, and civic righteousness must be more fully established and practiced. Modern customs and fashions are robbing the American woman of her Christian modesty. The divorce evil is threatening our American home. Sabbath desecration and pernicious pleasure are affecting our high ideals. Home-land religion that is Christian through and through is the greatest need of America today."

CHURCH FESTIVAL AND BAZAAR FINE

Large Number Attend Services and Dinner at St. Paul's Church

SILVERTON, Nov. 15.—(Special)—At ten o'clock sharp, and fortunately just between showers, the procession from the priests residence to the church, started in the following order: The cross bearer, the American flag, the confirmation class, thirty in number, the clergy followed by His Grace Archbishop Howard, and lastly the members of the Holy Name Society. Arriving at the church, Solemn High Mass was sung, Rev. B. V. Kelley of Portland acted as celebrant, assisted by Rev. F. H. Scherbring as deacon, and Rev. T. V. Keenan of Salem as sub-deacon, and Rev. Jos. Orth of Jervais, as master of ceremonies. Other priests present in the sanctuary were Rev. Dominic O. S. B. of Mt. Angel, Rev. J. R. Buck of Salem, Rev. Chas. Kraus of St. Louis, Rev. J. F. Scherbring of Silverton. Rev. John Dubis of Woodburn arrived later in the day.

After the Mass Archbishop Howard delivered an impressive sermon. In clear and persuasive terms he developed the subject of the need of religious training in conjunction with secular training. After the sermon he administered the Sacrament of Confirmation. An unexpectedly large number of non-Catholics, as well as Catholics attended the service. Every available bit of seating and standing space in the church and the corridors outside was filled.

After the services a very elaborate chicken dinner was served by the ladies of the parish, about three hundred and twenty guests participating and all of that number were unanimous in praise of the cooks.

The afternoon was full of thrills and jest for the large crowd which attended the bazaar and sale. At 8 p. m. the booths and stands were all emptied. Only the country store which had been so well supplied by the various business houses of Silverton, and friends elsewhere, retained a very limited stock.
