"The Night Cry," the Warner Brs. classic of the screen playing last times today at the Elsinore theater, shows Rin-Tin-Tin, the famous dog star, in his biggest and best role, and the picture itself is thrilling and forceful. June Marlowe gives a delightful

Fun and Amusement Playing the Elephant Game

The Statesman's Elephant Puzzle Contest

The Problem What is the sum total of the figures forming the elephant as shown in the picture? Simply add them up to get the solution. There are no marks, lines or characters in the elephant except figures. These figures range from 2 to 9, each standing alone. There are no "ones" or "ciphers." There are no groups of figures such as "23" or "42." The heads of the "6's" are distinctly curved while the tails of the "9's" are straight or practically so. There is no trick or illusion of any description in the chart. Now get out your pencil and add, add, add.

Free Charts

Those desiring extra charts of the elephant puzzle to work on will be supplied with what they require at the Circulation department of the Statesman Publishing Company, office 215 South Commercial Street, Salem, Oregen or send a 2c stamp if you want charts mailed to you.

General Rules The Statesman Publishing Company's Elephant Puzzle Contest is open to anybody except regular adult employes of the Statesman Publishing Company and their immediate families. Contestants may submit as many solutions as they desire provided a payment of one of the amounts designated in the prize list shall accompany each solution but no contestant will be permitted to win more than one prize. Once registered a solution cannot be changed.

Remember you are eligible in this contest whether you send in subscriptions or not, however, if you send in one, two or three subscriptions you qualify for the major prize, should your solution be among the winners. The time a solution is received has no bearing upon its winning a prize, provided it is received or post-marked not later than midnight of Friday, December 31, 1926. All solutions must be received or bear the postmark not later than this date and hour. Contest closes 12 p. m., Friday, December 31, 1926.

In case of ties on this puzzle as many prizes will be awarded as there are contestants tied before any prizes are awarded for a less correct solution. For example, if five or more persons are tied on the best solution the first five or more prizes will be reserved for them and they will be awarded in order of the standing of their solutions of the second puzzle; that is the best solution will be awarded first prize, the next best the second, and the third best the third prize, etc. In case there are no ties on the weight of the elephant, no other puzzle, of course, will be presented and the prizes will be awarded in accordance with the standing of the solutions sent in.

There are no objections to several members of one family or household or several friends working together to obtain a solution. The prizes are awarded for individual effort and it will not be permissable for one person to turn in a solution, then give the answer to someone else, and for the latter to submit it for his or her own.

The Statesman Publishing Company reserves the right to reject any solution which it believes has not been submitted under proper conditions.

The Statesman Publishing Company also reserves the right to finally decide all other questions that may arise and those entering the confest agree to abide by any and all decisions rendered by the Statesman Publishing Co. Money paid on subscriptions will be credited in accordance the subscription rate of the publication ordered.

Deciding Ties

© # 2003 # 40000 86 (39 93 (72) 52 (27) 93 25 (59)

In case of ties a second puzzle, like except larger, will be presented for those tied to solve. The problem will consist of drawing a continuous chain across the chart encircling the figures in the circles. If necessary to elimin-ate further ties the puzzle, with combinations changed, will be presented for as many as five more times, after which, should any ties exist, each tying contestant will receive the full amount of any awards tied for.

Important Facts To Remember

While the amount you pay with a solution of the puzzle does not have any effect on your winning a prize, it does effect the amount you will receive should you win one of the prizes, as the amount of the cash prize is determined by the amount of subscription money sent in. This is explained in the prize list, which you should study carefully pefore sending in your solution. Send solutions and subscriptions to Elephant Contest De-Partment, The Statesman Publishing Company, Salem, Oregon.
