

HOUSE LEADER WORRIES ABOUT STATE EXPENSE

 members suggesting that they think the matter over. The more the members study this problem before we assemble at Salem, the better off they will be. When a session opens there is invariably a rush and confusion, and there is so much work to give attention to that there is little or no time for study.
 "There is so much wanted," Mr. Carlin said, "and so little money available. There is a new normal school voted, which must be financed. The Ashland normal is asking for more buildings. The state institutions, such as the penitentiary and hospitals, want improvements. There are always demands for more armories. The state certainly needs an office building, as it cannot now house all of its activities at the state house. There is a demand for such a building to be located in Salem, and some think one should be in Portland, too."

 Mr. Carlin is a member of the tax investigation committee which has met frequently during the past 18 months and with several colleagues on the committee he will visit California in December to study the taxation system there. The result of the committee's work is to be submitted to the legislature.

The state budget commission yesterday approved tentatively appropriations aggregating $1,136,247, for the operation and expansion of the Oregon state hospital during the two year biennium starting January 1, 1927. The recommendations of the budget commission will go before the legislature for final consideration.
 The appropriations include $130,000 for the erection of a nurses home and $70,000 for an industrial building. Both structures would be located on state hospital property. The nurses home would contain 100 rooms and would release to patients as many beds in the hospital building.
 The industrial building was approved by the 1925 legislature, but the measure carrying the appropriation was vetoed by Governor Pierce because of the de-ing for the first time in connection with such legislation.

 The president would have a free hand in naming the board, the members of which would devote their whole time to the business at a salary of $10,000 a year.
 Senator McNary has received assurances of the support of other members of the senate and house in his demand for farm relief legislation, at the coming session.
 Senator Capper, republican, Kansas, said today that congress should immediately adopt the McNary-Haugen or some similar plan while Representative Dickenson, republican, Iowa, a house agricultural spokesman, saw a way to relieve the farmers through the surplus in the treasury.
 "I believe the agricultural forces of the west and south would be stronger than ever for the McNary-Haugen bill, for low prices for farm products are causing more talk than ever before," Senator Capper asserted, adding that the farmers were keenly interested in development of inland waterways to provide cheaper transportation.
 Disapproving the administration proposal for a tax credit. Representative Dickenson said existence of the treasury surplus would stop one of the principal arguments against farm relief, namely that revenues would not permit the necessary expenditures.

 He predicted the political future of any party would be in jeopardy if it did not favor consistently a plan to aid both the farmers and business.

BLAST WRECKS PLANT
THE DALLES PLUNGED INTO DARKNESS BY EXPLOSION
 THE DALLES, Ore., Nov. 22.—(AP)—The White River power plant, 34 miles south of this city, was wrecked by a mysterious explosion at 5 o'clock tonight, and The Dalles was plunged into darkness.
 Thomas Coberth, plant superintendent, was in the building at the time, but managed to escape uninjured. He was unable to ascertain the cause of the explosion. The theory was that the blast was due to short circuit between here and Hood River suddenly throwing the entire load on the White River plant, one turbine of which already was out of commission.

 The force of the explosion was so tremendous that the roof of the building was blown off. The whole plant was flooded. Damage will run into thousands of dollars. The plant is owned by the Pacific Power & Light company and is located near Tygh valley.
 There has been considerable trouble with short circuits the past few days since the snow began falling.

Salem Hunters Return From Trip to Arlington

A very successful hunting trip at Arlington was enjoyed by Carl Webb, F. G. Myers, Dr. Grover Bellinger and Dr. John Evans of this city, who returned Sunday.
 The party left Salem Thursday and while gone bagged 74 geese and, in a jack rabbit drive, killed 65 rabbits in one hour.
 The party spent their vacation on the ranch and game preserve of E. M. Hulden, brother-in-law of Mr. Myers. They report five inches of snow in the vicinity of Arlington.
