'LADY FREDERICK' COMING WEDNESDAY

Popular Actress Will Be Seen in Latest Adventure in Spoken Drama

Tomorrow night Pauline Frederick, one of America's most popular stars, will be seen at the Esisioro theater in her latest adventure into the spoken drama. It will be that lively comedy of W. Somerset Maugham, "Lady Frederick," which proved such a success in the eastern cities when played there by Ethel Barrymore a couple of seasons ago. The story of the play deals with the adventures of a very popular young Irish gentlewoman at Monte Carlo. In her goodnatured, reckless way, she allows herself to become the central figure in a social scandal to save the reputation and married happiness of a sister, and through this affair, although innocent of the charges against her, becomes the object of attacks by a woman whose son is infatuated with the charming Irish peeress. Although the young man is immensely wealthy and Lady Frederick is very fond of him, she finally refuses him for the sake of his mother's happiness.

The role of Lady Frederick is one that demands a command of the emotions that is rarely to be found in comedy. The lady is a wit, has a truly Celtic humor and at times rises to considerable dramatic heights. In Miss Frederick he found a part that enables her to display her artistry to great advantage. It is distinctly opposite to the roles she has been playing in recent years and brings her back to the field of light comedy, in which she shone with great lustre before she essayed such strong emotional parts of the drab heroine of Bison's "Madame X."

In "Lady Frederick" there are no tears. Laughter is the prevailing note and that suits the nature of dainty Polly Frederick. Manager Edward D. Smith has surrounded Miss Frederick with an excellent company, in which are such players as Charles Waldron, Lawrence Grant, Allen Conner, Clark Gable, Olaf Hytten, Tudor Owen, Maud Turner Gordon, Margaret Delamere, Ina Rorke and Nenetie Vallon.

Sugar Beet Meeting Scheduled—A sixth sugar beet meeting for this week has been scheduled for the chamber of commerce on Saturday night at the high school building in Jefferson. Kenneth Miller of the Portland chamber of commerce will present contracts for the Utah-Idaho-Sugar company.

Bits For Breakfast

It is going over—
Going over quickly—
The campaign for 1500 acres of sugar beets—

And every one in Salem ought to wish for the bulk of the acreage in Marion county, or in Marion and Polk counties, in order to insure the building of the factory in this city.

The Santiam district, around Stayton, West Stayton, Aumsville and Turner, ought to take up 500 acres of it, and the north end and the south end, and the Silverton neighborhood, and the country around Salem, up and down the river, and on Salem prairie and Howell prairie, and the Waldo hills and up Silver Creek Falls way, ought to take much more than 500 acres.

And the rich country out Mt. Angel way and beyond ought to take all the rest, up to the whole 1500 acres.

But our farmers will have to hurry, for Benton and Linn and Yamhill and Washington and Lane are in the running, and any one of the counties just named may take 500 acres.

Prof. Hyslop has made a written statement that there are 25,000 acres of land in Marion county suitable for sugar beet growing. With irrigation, there are ten times 25,000 acres, and then some.

"This is a golden opportunity," says Prof. Hyslop. Put it over strong in old Marion, and do it quickly. This week and next.

When one thinks of 15,000 lives sacrificed annually in fires, most of them preventable, every American should willingly join in fire prevention campaigns.

Portland is the only city in Oregon doing anything at all toward national advertising. Mr. Mielke said, and last year all it spent was $40,000, all raised by passing the hat.

California in the same year spent $2,100,000 on the same thing, except that it was on a larger scale. Florida, in three cities alone, spent $799,000. Asheville, N. C.—a little larger than Salem—spent $100,000 last year and is spending the same amount this year.

Phoenix, Ariz., is spending $100,000 a year for the next two years. St. Louis, Mo., situated so fortunately that there is apparently no need for advertising, decided last year to spend $70,000 on it.
