AUDRED BUNCH

Thurlow Lieurance Will be Assisted by Edna Woolley and Virginia Hicks, Flutist

One of the most artistic programs which has appeared in Salem in many months is scheduled for this evening when Thurlow Lieurance, who arrived in Salem last night, will give a concert of Indian music at the Grand theater under the auspices of the Salem Business and Professional Woman's club.

Virginia Hicks will be the flutist with the party. It is of particular interest that the soprano in the group "Edna Woolley, Mr. Lieurance's wife.

Edna Woolley, who has never failed to please an American audience, and to date has received only the very highest complimentary press notices from musical critics who have heard her, is rapidly becoming one of the leading singers of the American artist platform.

Possessing a voice of wonderful range and power, it is yet so marked with sympathetic charm that Edna Woolley has been referred to as America's sweet-voiced oriole.

When William Shakespeare of London, one of the leading, if not the greatest vocal critic of the present age, heard Edna Woolley in Washington, D. C., he wrote boldly on the program opposite her name: "Lovely, sympathetic voice. One of the best singers living."

This is but one of many splendid tributes. Enthusiasm over Edna Woolley's singing is so contagious that it is a pleasure to sit in her audience and feel the great swelling of admiration and emotion rising during the program until it reaches an ovation.

From everywhere comes a chorus of approval for the voice of Edna Woolley. A Cleveland critic writes: "Edna Woolley made a striking appearance and sang with beauty and charm. Her quality of tone, especially in her pianissimo numbers, was exquisite and her diction splendid."

A critic from Milwaukee rises to say: "Edna Woolley gave the songs splendid interpretation, having a soprano voice of rich, warm quality, and of remarkable resonance."

Mineralized Elephant's Tooth Found in River Bed

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Dec. 1.—(Special.)—A mineralized elephant's tooth 16 inches long, found in a Willamette river gravel bed near Aurora by Albert Tozier, has been forwarded to the OAC museum.

Fifty years ago Dr. Thomas Gordon, geologist in the University of McMinnville college discovered several elephant teeth along Palmer creek near Dayton, Or. Since that time W. P. Palmer and others have exhumed many elephant bones in good state of preservation in that locality. Other elephant bones have been found near the junction of Palmer creek with the Willamette river. Because of the great number of these bones, the presumption is that the Willamette valley was the principal feeding and breeding grounds of the elephant when Oregon was a land of palms. Dr. John B. Horner, professor of history of the college, gives this report.
