

BASEBALL OWNERS OPPOSE INCREASE

Magnates Feel Commissioner Should Use Advisory Council More

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(AP)—A proposed salary increase of $10,000 for Baseball Commissioner Landis was discussed without enthusiasm today by National League club owners.

Although the magnates unanimously favor re-election of Landis to another term of seven years, they indicated today on the eve of their annual meeting that the circuit will oppose a move to boost his salary to $60,000 annually. Furthermore, they feel that the commissioner should increase the usefulness of his advisory council, which includes the National League president and the American League vice president, league spokesmen said.

The magnates will go into session at 1 o'clock in the afternoon with President John A. Heydler, who will ask the owners to draw regulations to govern the annual selection of the league champion batsman.

Indications are that the league will approve opening the season April 12 and concluding October 2, thus returning to the late closing date in effect last year. Barney Dreyfuss of Pittsburgh, spokesman for the National League schedule makers, said the September 25 closing date tried out this year had proved unsatisfactory. Only one club in each league, he explained, had been able to complete play on scheduled time, and the world series was not advanced as Commissioner Landis hoped it would be.

LATE SPORTS

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Maxey Rosenbloom of New York defeated KO Phil Kaplan, his fellow townsman, among the leading contenders for middleweight boxing honors, in a slow ten round feature bout at Madison Square Garden tonight. Rosenbloom weighed 159; Kaplan 157 3/4.

The match was marred by constant clinching throughout. Only in the late rounds did Rosenbloom's mauling style edge him to the fore of his home town rival. Kaplan staged a rally in the final session, scoring repeatedly with heavy lefts to the head and body, but could not overcome Rosenbloom's point advantage. There were no knockdowns. Fewer than 10,000 fans witnessed the show.

Teddy Baldoek, British bantam, won a technical knockout over Joe Clifford of New York in the second round of a six round preliminary to the main event. The referee halted the bout after two minutes and 55 seconds of fighting in the round. Baldoek weighed 120, Clifford 120 1/2.
