

NEW RECORDS OF OREGON JERSEYS

Three Polk County Cows Show Up Remarkable in Performance Tests

St. Mawes Lad's Lady, the Oregon Jersey cow which holds the world's championship for production in the yearling class, and which ranks second in the junior 4-year-old class, has completed her third test with a gold medal record. In this test, started when she was 6 years and 11 months of age, Lady produced, with calf 611.89 lbs. butterfat and 9785 lbs. milk in 305 days. Her milk averaged 6.25% butterfat for the test, and she was milked 619 times during this period.

In her first test, which was started when she was 1 year and 11 months of age, she yielded 829.09 lbs. butterfat and 11,756 lbs. milk in 365 days. In her second test which was made in junior 4-year-old form, she made a phenomenal record of 1032.97 lbs. butterfat and 15,229 lbs. milk in 365 days.

Lady is owned and was tested by Harry D. Iliff, of Independence, Ore. Her sire is the gold and silver medal bull, St. Mawes Lad. Lady's dam is the gold medal cow, Lad's Ann, which has four excellent registers of merit records, including one of 947.37 lbs. fat and 17,599 lbs. milk.

Other Polk Jerseys
E. F. Brown, of Independence, Ore., is the owner of St. Mawes Lad's Roxie, a mature Jersey cow which has just completed a gold medal record. Roxie's total production for 365 days is only one-quarter of a pound under the requirements for the medal of merit, the highest award of the American Jersey Cattle club, for in the year she yielded with calf, 849.77 lbs. butterfat and 14,865 lbs. milk. Her milk averaged 5.72% butterfat for the 12 months and in 8 of the months of the test her yield exceeded 70 lbs. of fat per month. When tested as a junior 3-year-old Roxie won a silver medal for producing 597.48 lbs. butterfat and 8672 lbs. milk in 305 days.

W. H. McKee, of Perrydale, Oregon, has completed a third official production test on George's Phoebe Lamb, with the result that this splendid Jersey cow has surpassed all her previous records and has qualified for a gold medal. In her latest test, started when she was 5 years and 3 months of age, she yielded, 610.05 lbs. butterfat and 11,858 lbs. milk with calf, in 305 days.

As a junior 4-year-old George's Phoebe Lamb made a record of 570.61 lbs. butterfat and 11,596 lbs. milk, qualifying for a silver medal.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Foley, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Hicks and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Minier.

Each member is asked to bring a toy for the Christmas tree. These will be distributed later where they will be appreciated. The guests are also asked to bring any outgrown or discarded clothing for the same need.

Children's Books Are on Display at Public Library

With the arrival of the Christmas season comes interest in the wise choice of books as appropriate gifts, particularly for children. With this need in mind, Miss Maudie Covington, librarian, has arranged a display of children's books at the city library. This is the same exhibit which was viewed with such interest last Saturday at the Woman's club.

Noted among the titles for the little children are the following: Bannerman—The Story of Little Black Mingo.
Barrie—Peter Pan in Kensington Gardens.

Bigham—More Mother Goose village stories.
Burgess—More Goops and How Not to Be Them.
Burgess—Old Mother West Wind.

Carrick—Picture Tales from the Russian.
Craik—The Adventures of a Brownie.

Fyleman—The Rose Fyleman Fairy Book.
Grant—Windmills and Wooden Shoes.
Grover—The Sunbonnet Babies in Holland.
Hall—Jan and Betje.
Hawkes—Eskimo Land.
Hill & Maxwell—Charlie and the Surprise House.
Lorenzini—Pinochio.
Lucia—Peter and Polly in the Autumn, Spring and Summer.
Moore—Pennies and Plans.
Mother Goose—The Little Mother Goose, by Jessie Willcox Smith.

Miss Pollock Will be Guest

Miss Helen Pollock, accompanied by a university friend, Miss Alice Jean McClellan of Greeley, Colo., will arrive in Salem tomorrow to spend the Christmas holidays as the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Pollock. Miss Pollock is a senior at the University of Oregon at Eugene.

Over the New Year's week-end Miss Pollock anticipates having as her guest Miss Annette Heckman who is a senior this year at the kindergarten school in San Jose, Cal. For three years Miss Heck-ported manufactured goods, causing considerable alarm there.

As a result, the government has been sponsoring a "back to the farm" movement in an effort to restore an economic equilibrium.

Salmon and sardines are considered great delicacies in Germany, so there is a possible good market for Pacific coast canned salmon there, Mr. Allport believes. At present such products bring a high price.

The timber market in Germany is also assuming proportions of some importance, he said. Most of the houses have been built of stone or brick, but lately a large number of cheap apartment houses have been put up to meet the acute housing shortage, and this helps the timber market there.

An important market exists in Germany for American cotton and wool. Mr. Allport stated, as the textile industry is the leading one there.

German housewives are among the most thrifty in the world, he said, and there is practically no waste of foodstuffs. Garbage cans are practically unknown there. Even the potato peelings are saved and used for animal food.

GERMANY POSSIBLE MARKET FOR SALMON

Allport Believes Business Men Should Negotiate Foreign Sales at Once

Rehabilitation of Germany will not be a menace to the United States, as is so often claimed, according to Fayette W. Allport, commercial attache of the department of commerce, who has been stationed in Berlin for several years. In a speech before the Salem Rotary club Wednesday.

Germany, containing most of the economic strength of Europe, will be America's best customer when it gets on a firm basis, which it is rapidly reaching, Mr. Allport said.

Now is the time for American business men to begin sending their goods to German markets, he said, as the country passed through an economic crisis last winter and business there is reaching the most sound basis since before the war.

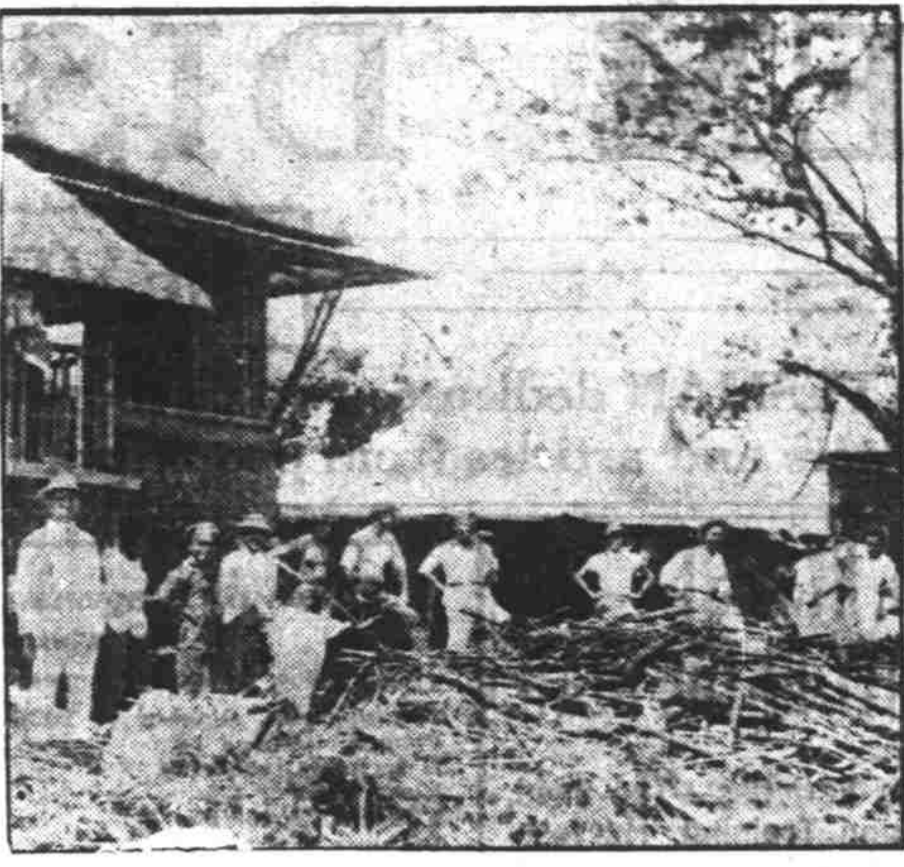

In response to questions on the prune market there Mr. Allport advised Oregon prune sellers to keep on selling sacked prunes, as the Germans are thrifty buyers and prefer to get the sacked kind rather than the expensive boxed and labeled product from California.

Foodstuffs are the chief import of Germany, he said, as the country has developed industrially and does not produce enough foodstuffs to feed itself. Since the war it has been forced to import far more foodstuffs than it ex-

AUTHOR CRITICIZES PRISON FAILURES

Dr. Philip A. Parsons Writes Book, Claims System With Crime Wrong

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON—Eugene, Ore.—(Special)—Criticism of prisons as failures both in protecting society and deterrents of crime, of the jury method of dealing with crime and the police system is contained in "Crime and the Criminal" a recent book on the study of criminology by Dr. Philip A. Parsons, professor of applied sociology at the University and director of the Portland School of Social Work. This book has recently been published by Alfred A. Knopf.

The author points out the ignorance and prejudice. In spite of the weight of tradition and the stubborn resistance of the legal profession," Dr. Parsons said. "There is evidence that the use of the jury is being eliminated."

The whole system of dealing with crime is "wrong from top to bottom" according to Dr. Parsons. He advocates putting "the entire matter of criminals and their treatment into the hands of specialists", and "permanently segregating those offenders whose physical or mental condition or antisocial attitude cannot be corrected, regardless of the gravity of the offense which brought them into the hands of the law."

A recent review of the book published in the Evening Transcript of Boston, Mass., said: "All who think, talk or write about the 'crime wave' viewed in its rush hour or in its even daily flow will do well to study this book. It is the product of one who has mastered the literature of the subject. The volume would be valuable alone for its history and statistics of crime."
