

GRANDETTA FACES CLARK ON FRIDAY

Terrific Battle Expected, Pelz May Box Winner in Next Fight Card

Promptly at 7:30 every night Bobby Clark begins a hard and serious workout at the local armory, in preparation for his coming fight Friday night with Frankie Grandetta, the boy wonder of Hollywood. Bobby realizes that a victory over the famous pet of the film stars will just about make his reputation as a fighter, and is training with a proportionate amount of enthusiasm.

Comparative scores, the oracle so much used in predicting the outcome of football battles, might also be applied to the coming battle.

Both boys have fought Willie Gordon, Portland scrapper, and the results they had in meeting him can be used as a basis of comparison. Grandetta's fight with Gordon is fresh in the minds of most fight fans, and resulted in a hair-line decision for Gordon.

Bobby Clark fought Gordon last year and managed to win a draw with him, so the comparative does give Bobby the edge against Grandetta. Not many fight followers go so far as to predict a victory for the local boy, however, but most of them agree that the fight will be a close one.

Judging from the reputation of both men, the fight ought to be as good as the terrible battle put on here recently by Phil Bayes and Benny Pelz. It will be just as close and probably faster. Clark is like lightning in his movements and Grandetta has also won quite a reputation for not staying long in the same place.

There is a good possibility, according to Matchmaker Harry Plant, of bringing Benny Pelz here to meet the winner, but he says he can't guarantee it unless the next fight is supported better than recent cards. The fight management has been steadily going behind, as it costs money to bring such battlers as Benny Pelz and Eddie Richards here, and it takes a good house to make both ends meet.

With a good battle in prospect Friday, however, Plant is hoping to pack the armory to its capacity.

AMERICAN LEAGUE APPROVES LANDIS

Baseball Magnates Would Make Contract Changes With Commissioner

CHICAGO, Dec. 14.—(AP)—The American League's approval of Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis, voted unanimously at the opening meeting of their annual session, was qualified by a move to restrict the commissioner's authority.

The league magnates appointed a committee to confer with Landis assure him of their endorsement for another term, and ask for a conference on certain undisclosed changes the league wishes to effect in the terms of the commissioner's contract.

The job of presenting the proposition to the commissioner was given to Colonel Jacob Ruppert of the New York Yankees, Phil C. Ball of the St. Louis Browns and E. S. Barnard of the Cleveland Indians.

They were delegated to assure Landis that the league first will vote to re-elect him, and then ask

SALEM HIGH SCHOOL FIVE WORK STEADILY

Many Games Scheduled, Huntingdon Predicts Good Team, Trip Planned

A strong high school basketball team for Salem high school this year is predicted by Coach Hollis Huntingdon after he has seen his men in practice for a few weeks, but he does not expect such a record as was made by last year's championship five.

Last year's team went through a season of 27 games and averaged 35 points a game to its opponents' 47, more than 2 to 1. This record included games of the state tournament.

Loss of John Drager at center will mean loss of the tipoff. Coach Huntingdon believes, Homer Lyons who is taking his place, is a good floor man and works the ball well, but does not have quite the altitude needed to get the tipoff continually.

Cummings, another good center, will be ineligible because he will be 21 years old before the time limit expires for eligibility.

The complete schedule of games has not yet been worked out, but tentative games are included with such teams as Eugene, Corvallis, Oregon fresh, Independence, Dallas, West Linn, and one or two of the Portland high schools.

A possible barnstorming trip may be taken during the holidays to some places in Washington, in case present plans develop.

coast stations from Columbia river north were ordered on tonight. There were indications that winds along the Washington coast would reach gale force tonight.

At four o'clock this morning the weather bureau thermometer here slid down to 19 degrees, the lowest temperature Portland has had in two years.

Pendleton experienced its coldest weather in years when the mercury dropped to 8 degrees below zero Monday night. Central Oregon also had sub-zero weather, with 7 below reported at Bend. Thermometers at some points in mid state registered 20 below. It is said. More snow is expected in the Deschutes country. Baker registered 10 degrees below.

Klamath Falls residents were shivering in an icy north wind today, with a minimum temperature of two above zero reported. At Fort Klamath and Chiloquin, thermometers registered four below and eight below, respectively. At LaGrande the mercury

BANKERS' QUINTET LEAD CITY LEAGUE

Prospects Bright for Extending Schedule for Second Round, Ends Thursday

The DeMolay Boys basketball team lost its chance at the city league title Monday night by dropping a close game to the U. S. Bankers 41 to 39. The DeMolays led up to the last two minutes of play. Beecher was the big star, making 21 points for the DeMolays, most of them on long shots.

The victory put the Bankers into first place, and the winner of the DeHarport-Papermakers game next Thursday night will be tied with the money counters. A stiff battle is expected Thursday, as both teams are evenly matched. The Cooley-Pearsons are favored to win from the Navigation company team in the other game Thursday night. Nothing but the cellar is at stake.

Although the league season is officially ended with this week's games, interest in the games has been so great that there is some talk of continuing the series for another round.

In case this is done, the second round will probably begin immediately.

SEIZURE HELD ILLEGAL. NEED TRIAL BY JURY

ing unlawfully transported, is a public nuisance, nor is there any other statute in this state making an automobile or other vehicle so used, a public nuisance.

"If, under the provisions of this act the property which was made the subject of forfeiture, had consisted of intoxicating liquor, gambling devices, or anything which in its nature is injurious to the public welfare, or if the act had required, as a condition of the forfeiture, the conviction of the offending person, the question would be different, but where as here, the lawful property of an innocent person may be forfeited to the state without the previous conviction of anyone, and without the opportunity of a jury trial at any stage of the proceedings, we think that the act in so far as it provides that the forfeiture shall be tried by the court without the intervention of a jury is unconstitutional and void, because denying a trial by jury as guaranteed by the state constitution."

Justices Brown and Coshaw dissent from the majority opinion of the court, maintaining that the provision complained of is constitutional.

In affirming the decision of Judge C. H. McColloch of the Baker county circuit court in the case of the state of Oregon vs. Ephrium Barnes, the supreme court today said it was within the province of a jury to infer from the appearances and circumstances surrounding a case as to whether or not a person was in possession of intoxicating liquor, although the liquor in question was at the time cached away.

Barnes was arrested on an abandoned ranch in Baker county. At the time of his arrest he was in the vicinity of a liquor cache and in his automobile some 75 or 100 feet away were several demijohns. On the ground near the car was a shovel.

"It is immaterial whether the defendant had actually deposited the liquor where it was found, or its hiding place revealed to him by the party who did deposit it, or he otherwise learned of its place of concealment. He was found there with his own automobile, with the necessary tools for excavating the liquor, and with containers customarily used for the convenient handling of liquor. The jury could infer from all this that he claimed the right and had the power to control, manage and dispose of the same. If the defendant had the control of that liquor concealed as it was, he was guilty of unlawful possession thereof."

Other cases were passed on by the court yesterday as follows: Mary A. Costello vs. James C. Costello, appellant; appeal from Multnomah county; suit for divorce. Opinion by Justice Coshaw. Judge Walter H. Evans affirmed.

State of Oregon vs. Lee Karpenter, appellant; appeal from Harney county; petition for rehearing denied in opinion by Justice Coshaw.

City of La Grande, appellant, vs. Municipal court of City of La Grande, appeal from Union county; appeal from conviction for violation of city ordinance. Opinion by Justice Burnett. Judge J. W. Knowles reversed.

No! They Don't Eat Flowers

But they are a necessary adjunct to table decoration. Doesn't a table seem more cozy—doesn't a table seem to have more life—doesn't it give more color and break the monotony, as far as a color scheme is concerned, to your table?

It does all of that, whether they are cut flowers or potted. All you need to do is to call 380 and say that you want a bouquet for a table centerpiece, when you want it delivered, and it will be there. Little expense and no worry.
