Mrs. Meyers Honors Miss Sterling at Tea

Miss Edna L. Sterling of Seattle and Mrs. Henry W. Meyers, the hostess, shared honors on Monday, Jan. 27, when Mrs. Meyers celebrated her birthday anniversary with an informal tea complimentary to Miss Sterling who is a guest at Wallace Orchards.

Sixteen intimate friends of Miss Sterling and Mrs. Meyers were bidden for the affair. Seasonal decorations were used. A delightful feature was the birthday cake topped with lighted tapers.

Dohnanyi Concert at Elsinore Monday Is Second Event in Artist Series

Reuben Mason, who does such unflinching fine critical work on the San Francisco Examiner, contributes this exceedingly interesting review of the Ernst von Dohnanyi concert. On Monday, January 3, Dohnanyi, one of the great musical personalities of the time, will be in Salem at the Elsinore theater. The review mentioned follows:

The Dohnanyi recital in Scottish Rite hall was stimulating and illuminative. It was stimulating for the reverent manliness which the pianist brought to the interpretation of Beethoven and Schumann, illuminative for the just compromise he established between traditionalism and individualism.

Dohnanyi's playing of the great sonata Op. 110 of Beethoven proved one of the finest chapters in the musical experiences of a whole season. The ariso was opera without words; the fugue which precedes and follows it, first direct then in inversion, was proof conclusive that an academic form can become romantic if the artist has poetry in him.

The Schumann work was the "Kreisleriana" and Dohnanyi played "Aufschwung" by way of encore. The elfin lyricism of Schumann was there, but tempered by the sobriety of maturity. A little long the work seemed, to tell the truth, and one wondered if in time to come some irreverent editor will not wisely blot out some of its exuberance.

The rest of the program was devoted to Dohnanyi's own compositions. They included a Pas-sacaglia, his "Ruralia Hungarian" and 6 major rhapsody, and some shorter works.

The feature of Dohnanyi's writing which first catches the attention is the absence of the Romany irregular which is so apparent in the Liszt Rhapsodies. Here are no jagged rhythms a la czar-das and no use of the minor scale with the raised fourth. Dohnanyi would probably tell you that these characteristics are not truly Hun-garian, but gypsy.

Accenting the composer's own ideal, one can easily grow enthusiastic about the "Ruralia Hungar-ica." It is impressive music and, curiously enough, it is not a little suggestive of the work of our own Edward MacDowell.

Film at First Congregational Church

Sunday evening at 7:15 o'clock the popular "Life of Christ," by Bruce Barton, will be shown in a six-reel picture bearing the title of the book, "The Man Nobody Knows." This picture presents the places in which Jesus lived and worked, the people he knew, the spots where his miracles were performed, where he dined and had preached and laughed and lived among folks. Some one has written: "It will make you think of Him as real, alive, eating, talking, laughing, followed by people who loved him and by little children who hailed him as their friend." The picture has been beautifully titled by Bruce Barton, author of the book, who has put into these titles the genius of his gifted pen.

Imminent Fraternal and Church Worker Is Guest in Salem

Mrs. S. J. Allen and daughter of Portland are visiting this week at the home of Mrs. J. B. Cray on B street. Mrs. Allen and Miss Allen were also callers at the Episcopal rectory.
