GREETINGS FOR THE NEW YEAR

"I will not wish you riches, or the glow of greatness, but that whoso'er you go Some weary heart may gladden at your smile, Some weary life know sunshine for a while, And so your years will leave a track of light Like Angels' footsteps passing through the night."

Dohnanyi Concert at Elsinore Tomorrow Night Will be Revelation

Music lovers here are fortunate to be able to hear the great Dohnanyi who is to appear at the Elsinore theater under the management of the Salem Artist Series. It is Dohnanyi who the critics of New York declared to be worthy of comparison with Beethoven. It is indeed difficult to say which is the greater Dohnanyi, the pianist, Dohnanyi the composer or Dohnanyi the conductor. No doubt it is the trinity that makes him comparable to Beethoven.

Dohnanyi is a man still in his early forties yet he has played in more than a thousand concerts and toured nearly every country of Europe. His list of published work includes more than two score operas. Plus this he has written one opera, "Vayada's Tower," which was produced in 1922 at the Royal Opera of Budapest and at present he is at work on a comic opera entitled "The Tenor" the libretto of which has been written by Carl Sterheim.

Dohnanyi is one of the most modest and unassuming of musicians. Indeed it is few who have ever been able to interview him. He lives the greater part of his time in Budapest, but even when in New York, one can not find him when he is not buried in some score.

War Mothers Will Meet Salem chapter of the American War Mothers will meet at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

Answers to Art Catechism Questions Are Announced

A unique project is being sponsored by the Fine Arts department of the Salem Woman's club whereby from week to week questions pertaining to architecture will be published in the Statesman. The answers to these questions, which provide interesting information, will be published on the Sunday following. The answers to the initial catechism are as follows:

- 1. Parthenon.
2. On the Acropolis at Athens, Greece.
3. 454 to 438 B. C.
4. Pentelic marble, a fine grained creamy stone found near Athens.
5. Ictinus and Callicrates were the architects. Phidias the superintending sculptor.
6. The walls of the sides have in part been destroyed, and the roof wholly. Almost all the sculptures have been removed. It has undergone many vicissitudes. For nearly 1000 years it was a heathen temple. In the sixth century it became a Christian church. In the 16th century it became a Mohammedan mosque. In the 17th it was used by the Turks for storing powder. A shell from the Venilian fleet caused an explosion which left it in its present condition—ruined, but imposing.
7. Some were destroyed, others carried away and thus lost. The British Museum has the largest part of those that have been preserved. Some are in Athens on the building or in the museum. All are injured.
8. The then British ambassador to the Turkish government, 1841-3. In the unsettled condition of that country, he realized that these treasures would soon be destroyed. After many negotiations he obtained permission to remove anything he might desire.
9. In 1835, the British government allowed 35000 pounds, although the cost to the purchaser, including interest on the amount originally paid was about 70,000 pounds. Today they are priceless.
10. Lord Elgin, whose efforts were not appreciated by the British public. He was criticized and ridiculed. Later he was censured for not returning them to Turkey. After the Napoleonic wars France had been compelled by the treaty of peace to restore the many objects of art that had been taken to Paris from conquered countries. For these, there had been no purchase price, hence conditions were not the same. In London they can be seen and stud-

Illahoe Country Club Dance Attracts Salem Society on New Year's Eve

A large number of Salem's social contingent welcomed the New Year on Saturday morning while dancing at the Illahoe Country club house.

A group of attractive dinner parties gave interesting diversion to the early part of the evening. Particularly enjoyable was the no-host dinner at the Marion hotel in which the following were included: Mr. and Mrs. John J. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Dan J. Fry Jr., Mrs. Asahel Bush, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Livesley, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Griffin, Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Slade, Mr. and Mrs. W. Connell Dyer, Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Irwin, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Young, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hendricks, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Egan, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Carson, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Lytle, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Cross, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Rahn, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Powell of Woodburn, Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Ainge of Portland and Mr. and Mrs. William Walton.

A distinctive affair was the community dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Breyman Boise. Their guests included Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Deckebach and their house guests, Miss Dorothy Cleland of Seattle, Mr. and Mrs. P. I. Quisenberry, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Griffith, Mr. and Mrs. Asel Eoff, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Durbin Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Gus Hixson, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Slater, Miss Letha Wilson, Milton Steiner and Mr. and Mrs. Boise.

Another dinner of interest was

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Durbin Jr. Are Honor Guests at Evening of Bridge

An interesting affair of the holiday interim was the 12-cover bridge party of Tuesday evening at which Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Cross were hosts at their home on Lincoln Hill complimenting Mr. and Mrs. Frank Durbin Jr. The Durbin-Pearson wedding was an important event of last autumn in San Francisco.

Christmas greens were used in an attractive manner about the rooms where playing was enjoyed.

Mrs. Bert Ford and P. D. Quisenberry won the honors of the evening, while second place was taken by Mrs. Gus Hixson and Harry Hawkins.

The guest group for the affair included Mr. and Mrs. Frank Durbin Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Donald Young, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hendricks, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hawkins, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Dyer, Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Slade, Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Needlecraft Club Mrs. F. G. Stearns will entertain members of the Needlecraft club on Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 3, at her home, 180 South 19th street.

Silver Tea Will be Featured in Connection With Benefit Bridge on Wednesday An outstanding event of the first week in the new year will be the big benefit bridge tea of Wednesday, Jan. 5, which the Salem Woman's club will sponsor at the club house. The card parties sponsored by the club, the largest organization of women in Salem, are always affairs of considerable prominence and the many tables available are much in demand.

A number of matrons are in the habit of reserving several tables for use by their own group, thus giving a small party within the larger, less intimate, one.

The funds derived will go toward the purchase of a covering for the club house floor. Each hostess is asked to bring a deck of cards and pencils for her own table. Reservations may be made at once with any member of the committee.

Mrs. E. M. Hoffnell is chairman of the group, while Mrs. Roy Burton, senior member of the house committee, is in general charge. Those comprising the group in charge of this interesting benefit affair are Mrs. E. M. Hoffnell, Mrs. C. S. Hamilton, Mrs. V. E. Kuhn, Mrs. H. L. Stiff, Mrs. H. J. Wiedmer, Mrs. Roy Mills, Mrs. Walter L. Spaulding, Mrs. Lewis D. Griffith, Mrs. Will Allen, Mrs. E. E. Bragg, Mrs. D. X. Beechler and Mrs. Roy Burton.

The hours for playing will be from 2 to 5 o'clock.

In addition a silver tea during the later hours will be featured when those not interested in bridge may call for tea.

Line Party at Capitol Theater Honors Out-of-Town Guests A delightful affair of Friday was the line party and tea at the Capitol theater and at the Gray Belle at which Mrs. John H. Lauterman and Mrs. Frank Snedecor entertained a group of four prominent visitors from out of town: Mrs. F. M. Jordan and Miss Edna

Mr. Work's Pointer On Auction Bridge

(Milton C. Work, the international authority, will answer your auction bridge questions. A stamped, self-addressed envelope must accompany each request for replies.)

DO NOT BID A NO TRUMP IF YOU HAVE A BLANK SUIT OF A WORTHLESS SINGLETON

Many players who know the high-card strength needed to justify the original bid of No Trump, do not appreciate that there are no Trump danger signs, in the face of which a sound bidder would be less apt to bid No Trump than a careful engineer would to run past the red light at full speed. For instance, a blank suit is an absolute No Trump taboo, no matter how strong the hand, the better it is for a suit bid, but the menace of a cardless suit is just as great for a No Trump, no matter how many Aces and Kings the hand may contain.

With a worthless singleton the danger that the adversary will save the game by running that short suit is almost as great. It may even be that an adversary will have sufficient length in that short suit to defeat the No Trump contract of a Declarer who could have made game at a suit-bid. I have often said "Never bid a No Trump with a worthless singleton unless you have a worthless singleton partner," and the partner would have to be pretty bad to justify risking the bid, merely to make him Dummy and thus avoid the loss of tricks which he might be expected to throw away if he played the hand.

Today's pointer and those for a few days to come, all refer to the initial bid of a No Trump. Initial bids are made by players whose partners have not been heard from; that is, they are bids made by Dealer or by Second Hand after a pass by Dealer. The bid by Third Hand after two passes (the partner having been one of the passers) requires greater strength and shall give a pointer about that later on.

Now for a hand for you to think over until tomorrow. Suppose dealing at the beginning of a rubber, you hold: Spades: King, Hearts: Ace-x-x-x, Diamonds: Ace-x-x-x, Clubs: A-x-x-x (x means any card of lower value than the Ten). What would you declare? Of course you understand in stating the question this way I am not suggesting that you should bid, because a pass is a declaration. Tomorrow's article will answer the question.

The hours for playing will be from 2 to 5 o'clock.

In addition a silver tea during the later hours will be featured when those not interested in bridge may call for tea.

Resolve to "Pay As You Go" in 1927 Because a merchant extends credit does not mean that he refuses cash. For your own sake "pay cash and save the worry." The big financial heads of today agree that the world is overrun with credit and that soon a rearrangement must take place to save the good name if not the real health of the wage earner. Some forms of credit have received the stamp of oky from these men who know. There is the credit obligation assumed in buying a home, that is considered a tangible asset. Then there are the furnishings and fixtures that go into the home—they too are termed necessities. BUT Anything that does not constitute a tangible asset, anything that cannot be turned into cash or money borrowed on it for emergency is taboo and should be paid for in cash. "If all apparel and luxuries were paid for at the time of purchase there would be happier homes and more easy going merchants," says one authority. Possibly some of you, right now, owe more money than you really have coming and are laboring under that strain. Whether this is a fact or not you would do well to RESOLVE TO PAY AS YOU GO and let the other fellow do the worrying.
