Elsinore Theater
The West that was and the west that is, with knickered cow-punchers and cattle-dotted hills, is graphically pictured in Priscilla Dean's new Metropolitan star vehicle, "West of Broadway," which will be shown at the Elsinore theater Friday only. The picture shows a tippy-turvy West where the wild riders of the range chew gum, work only eight hours and play golf the rest. Miss Dean's portrayal as the mannish golf instructor was superb. Included in the excellent cast are Arnold Gray, Walter Long, Majel Coleman, George Hall and William Austin. All acquitted themselves cleverly. In addition to the above picture there will be several excellent vaudeville acts, which will delight. Among them are Harry Keesler, Jack Lipton a vocalist and imitator, Eddie Black and Claire O'Donnell and others.

Capitol Theater
"The Red Kimono" will show at the Capitol theater today, January 21.
In presenting "The Red Kimono" to the public, Mrs. Wallace Field has placed the blame where it most frequently belongs—on the ignorance and trust of the innocent victim rather than at the door of youthful delinquency—and makes her picture a lesson perhaps, a warning certainly, but never a preachment. Unless her picture of a certain class of publicity-hungry idle rich could be considered in the light of a sermon against insincerity.

Oregon Theater
"Meet the Prince" a Metropolitan picture featuring Joseph Schildkraut, Marguerite De La Motte, Vera Steadman, Julia Faye and David Butler, is a film of extreme contrasts showing princes and paupers, palaces and hovels and sadness and happiness. The first setting is laid in the palace of the Grand Duke of Russia where a prince is impoverished through the revolution; then to the tenements of New York and finally to the homes of wealth and refinement. "Meet the Prince" which will show at the Oregon theater today, January 21, for the last time, is the screen version of "The American Sex," a story by Frank R. Adams published in "Honey" magazine. Joseph Henabey directed.

SENATE PASSES SALARY BOOSTS IN RESOLUTION
"To increase our own compensation," Senator Dunn of Jackson declared that while he realized that the compensation of legislators was small, he also realized that each and every member of the two houses accepted their certificates of election with the knowledge that they were to receive the constitutional wage of $3 per day. He complimented the personnel of the present legislature despite the low compensation, and said that as far as he had been able to determine there were no vacancies in either house as a result of the low salary authorized by the constitution.

Senator Eddy branded the resolution as a subterfuge. "It is understood generally," declared Senator Eddy, "that members of the legislature shall receive $3 per day. It apparently was not the intention of the framers of the constitution that the office of legislator should be a lucrative one. We were not compelled to seek membership in this legislature and if we received $10 per day we still would be making a contribution to the state. It is my opinion that a large majority of the members of this body sought election with the idea that possibly they could be of some small service to the state. "This resolution resorts to subterfuge. When the constitution was adopted fixing the salaries of legislators there was nothing contained therein which would indicate that the state would be expected to pay for our meals and lodging. It is such measures as the one now at issue that have brought contempt upon the legislature. Our representative form of government is breaking down, and we have arrived out just legislation. I sometimes hesitate to do anything in the legislature which would give the citizens of Oregon additional grounds for criticism."

Senator Eddy said he doubted the wisdom of circulating a round robin which he understood had been signed by 16 members of the senate in an effort to obtain favorable action on the resolution. "I am not in sympathy with the theory that we should vote as puppets, when some one pulls the string."

"I wonder," queried Senator Strayer, "how many of us would be here today if we had advertised in the press and on the platform that upon our arrival in Salem we would vote ourselves a pay increase? I venture the answer not one of you men who were opposed in the campaign would have been elected under such a condition. We were sent to the legislature to represent and not to misrepresent."

"I don't think it is right to violate a solemn compact which I entered into with the voters of my district. The people want you men to place your cards on the table and not resort to subterfuge. It who has promised a business administration to vote ourselves $20,000 when the money is needed for the orphans and wards of this state. I am opposed to the resolution."

It was the contention of Senator Bailey that an additional salary of $200 would not make any man honest. He branded the resolution a subterfuge, and urged its defeat.

Senator Moser explained that when the constitutional salary of $3 per day for legislators was fixed the best meal obtainable cost 25 cents, while rooms could be obtained for $1 per night. He declared that conditions has changed, with the result that the present compensation for legislators was not sufficient to obtain the bare necessities.

"I think this resolution is right and I have no apologies to offer," said Senator Hall. "If this resolution is adopted I expect to donate the additional $200 to the orphans' home at Corvallis."

Senator Dunne of Clackamas said that he signed the much aroused round robin in broad daylight and that he had nothing to hide.

Senator Joseph jokingly referred to the remarks made by Senator Staples. He declared that Senator Staples was a banker, had ample funds, had been provided with an easy job on the ways and means committee and apparently was having a good time. He referred to some of the other legislators as being hungry, and humorously remarked that the additional compensation might come in handy in tiding them over the session. Senator Joseph voted against the resolution.

Senator Hare dealt at some length with the constitutionality of the resolution, which he predicted would be upheld by the courts. He referred to the salary of the state treasurer which was fixed by the constitution at $800 a year. This official, Senator Hare said, was now receiving $4,500 a year despite the constitutional limitation.

"Representative government in Oregon is not tottering as Senator Eddy has implied," said Senator Hare. "It is my opinion that the Oregon legislature stands higher in the estimation of the people today than for many years past. Conditions are steadily growing better."

"If the time has come when a man must get down and crawl in the dirt to satisfy some long whiskered taxpayer our system is wrong."

It was the contention of Senator Hare that the resolution was right, and was not a raid on the state treasury as had been charged by some senators in opposition to the measure.

Senators who voted for the resolution were Banks, Beals, Bell, Butler, Carner, Davis, Dunn, Hall, Hare, Hunter, Klepper, Mann, Miller, Moser, Norblad and Upton.

Voting against the bill were Senators Bailey, Brown, Butt, Dunn, Eddy, Elliott, Jones, Joseph, Marks, Staples, Strayer and Corbett. Senators Kiddle and Reynolds were absent.

BILL ASKS $5,000 TO FINISH ARMORY

Structure Needs Completion Badly or Greater Expense Coming Soon

A bill was introduced in the house Tuesday by Mark Paulson, which asks an appropriation of $5,000 to complete the armory at Silverton. It is now in the hands of the house ways and means committee and will no doubt be reported out some time during the coming week.

The Silverton armory has never been completely finished and at the present time there is a great need for floors to be laid in the basement and for other finishing work. Unless this is done soon a much greater expense will be entailed. When the armory was first proposed the city of Silverton raised $10,000 and Marion county $10,000 for it. The legislature appropriated $10,000 and Silverton post of the American Legion and private individuals raised over $3,000. This amount was not enough to complete the proposed $40,000 structure and so for several years it has remained unfinished.

Representative Paulson is sponsoring the bill seeking the appropriation and says he believes it will meet with approval inasmuch as it will save the state money.

Basketball critics of the Pacific coast conference are almost unanimously agreed that the championship of the northwest section this year lies between Idaho and Oregon, with Idaho having a little more backers than Oregon. The Webfoots won the northern championship last season, walking through its 10 conference games without a loss, but this year will be short some of the players who helped in the victory. Two new

University Team Has High Scoring Average; Championship to Defend

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Jan. 19.—(Special).—With 11 victories and an average of more than 49 points scored in every game played this year, the Oregon basketball team will attempt to repel the invasion of the Idaho quintet here Saturday night in the first conference game to be played in the $175,000 hoop pavilion just erected on the Webfoot campus.

Coach Bill Reinhart has worked hard to eliminate any evidences of "leading-lady" basketball, and the results seem constantly better. Idaho has a well-balanced team with a powerful offensive and a brilliant defensive. The contest Saturday will be the crucial one of the year for the two schools.

men, Scott Milligan, guard, and Gordon Ridings, forward, both of Eugene, have won places on the quintet. They have had some difficulty in working into their new positions and Oregon fans have commented on the tendency of the three veterans to hold the ball or pass it among themselves to the exclusion of the newcomers.

Senate Bill 24 Referred To Author for Reaction
The extent of the business done by the committee on cities and counties at a meeting held yesterday at 2:30 was to refer senate bill 24 by Strayer back to the author with recommendations that it be presented in the form of an amendment instead of a bill. Also to recommend the passage of house bill 163 providing for county treasurers to be required to deposit all money in their hands in banks.
