

SALEM HIGH SPURNS MINNIVILLE

Champions Hard to Stop, Scrubs Break Down Super-Varsity in Opener

Holding their opponents to no field baskets in the first half, the Salem high basketball team ran up another huge score Tuesday night on the local floor, with McMinnville high as its victim. The game ended 57 to 8.

Three flashing red-shirted players, bearing down on one lonely guard, was the spectacle that the crowd saw almost constantly throughout the first half, and most of those rushes resulted in points for the local team. McMinnville got possession of the ball but seldom, and when it did, some feeling closely akin to stage fright prevented their doing anything effective with it. If some Salem player hadn't committed a branch of the rules, the Yamhill county boys would have been blanked for the first two periods. The score at half time was 49 to 2.

Coach Seggel of McMinnville must have steeled his boys down between halves, for they braced noticeably when play was resumed and began working the ball into scoring distance. Then they displayed the making of a real team, for they exhibited both speed and fight. The three baskets they scored were all on shots from difficult angles.

Lyons, Slegmund and Olinger did the most effective work for Salem high, with the center scoring the greater number of points. However, all of the able men who got into the game fitted well into the teamwork, and credit for running up such an overwhelming score belongs to the combination rather than to any few individuals.

GAME WELL PLAYED; WOODBURN PLAYS HERE NEXT

Parrish junior high school's quintet beat Monmouth high school here last night 17 to 7. Monmouth led at the end of the first quarter, 5 to 1, but after that the Parrish defense tightened and held the invaders to one field basket in the final three periods.

Burgess and Pettit played strongly on the defensive holding the Monmouth forwards scoreless. Kitchen and Walker proved a strong scoring combination.

The game was fast and cleanly played. Parrish's next home game will be against Woodburn February 5.

Princeton Plays Fair Says Mahan of Harvard

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(AP)—"If Harvard would do less crying and more hard playing, it would not only win more football games but would occupy the place in the world of sportsmen it deserves."

Such is the opinion of Eddie Mahan, brilliant Harvard half-back and captain of the Crimson eleven in 1915, as expressed in an interview in the New York Sun today. Mahan upheld Bill Roper, Princeton coach, as a teacher of "clean, hard football."

Expressing regret for the article in Liberty by Wynant Hubbard, accusing Princeton of "dirty football," Mahan said he felt the Harvard players cited by Hubbard as having been injured by unfair tactics should either deny the accusations or stand as the "real protagonists."

"If there is any doubt in their minds they should be sportsmen enough to give Princeton the benefit of the doubt," Mahan was quoted.

Election Committee Holds First Meeting Tuesday

The committee on elections held its first meeting yesterday afternoon and reported favorably on house bill No. 33. This bill proposes to abolish the candidates' pamphlet in the primary election. A. R. Schunway, representing the grade, said that this was the only means could get before the voters. Elbert Bede and other newspaper men of the state pointed out that it cost the state in the neighborhood of $3,000 to issue the pamphlet. If the publication was used by the voters to such an extent that it would make it self supporting there would be no reason to discontinue it.

It was agreed by the committee that Representatives Kneehl and Norvell prepare a bill together and substitute it for bills No. 104 and 110, as these bills are very similar and deal with the method of securing signatures on petitions on initiative and referendum measures.

EDUCATORS ASK TIME TO WORK OUT NEW BILLS

attempting to reform the legal profession by laymen. The weaknesses that have been pointed out in the teaching profession is evident in all humanly. It is my opinion that if the teaching profession cannot put over an educational program that is demanded by the world, legislation will not bring about the needed reforms. Education cannot be regulated by machinery.

"I have my doubts as to whether education is in such a bad state in Oregon as this bill would imply." Has there been any scientific test to prove that such a situation exists? Even if the bill is approved, the attitude of the teachers will remain the same as at the present time. I am not convinced that disorder exists in our public school system."

Mr. Nelson urged that time be allowed the educators of the state in which to work out a bill which would provide satisfactory results.

C. A. Rice, superintendent of the Portland public schools, declared that it was the sense of the teachers of that city that reorganization of the state educational system should be delayed for at least two years. In the meantime he said, a bill probably could be worked out by educators which would cure many of the educational defects which are declared to exist.

"The Eddy bill, if approved, would upset the entire educational structure in Oregon," said Mr. Rice. We think passage of the bill would be a step backward. If the bill is approved a single textbook adoption would apply to the entire state despite the fact that the city of Portland now has a law under which it makes its own textbook adoptions. We believe the teachers are better qualified to outline a course of study than are members of a lay committee."

In conclusion Mr. Rice objected to passage of the bill for the following reasons:

That it would take the selection of textbooks out of first class districts.

That textbooks might be selected by laymen.

That reorganization of the state board of education would be made without expert study.

That the board would be clothed with too much authority.

That too many duties would be imposed on the board.

"You can't legislate thoroughness in a school system," continued Mr. Rice. "The only solution is to arouse more interest among the teachers. Give us time to conduct an investigation, and we will prepare a bill that is worth while."

Letters received from a number of educators protesting against passage of the Eddy bill were read by George A. Briscoe, superintendent of the public schools at Ashland. He concluded by stating that the Oregon State Teachers association already has gone on record favoring a reorganization of the educational system in Oregon, but that it desired sufficient time to make a careful study of the situation before offering any legislation.

Mr. Briscoe said he was opposed to passage of the Eddy bill. Neither Senator Eddy nor Dean Alden, of Willamette university, who were members of a committee appointed by the 1925 legislative session to make a survey of the educational system in Oregon, spoke at any length in connection with the bill at issue. They said they would appear before the educational committee at some future date.

The state board of education, as proposed by the Eddy bill, would be composed of seven members appointed by the governor. Three members would be practical educators actually engaged in the profession of teaching, while four members of the board would be selected from other walks of life. The state superintendent of schools would be the executive officer of the board.

It would be the duty of the board to adopt textbooks, outline the courses of study, fix the proper standards of education and have general supervision of the educational system.

Senator Eddy made it plain at the meeting that it was not the intention of the new board of education to proceed blindly, but that it was vested with authority to obtain expert advice.

SHORT LINE TOLL ROAD GETS COMMITTEE FAVOR

Washington and the Roosevelt highway, now nearing completion in Tillamook county.

The bed of the new roadway would be 23 feet in width with a macadamized surface 16 feet wide giving access to three lanes of traffic. The highest point on the indicated route is 1500 feet, taking the motorist through a scenic country which rivals the Columbia highway for beauty and safety.

The chamber of commerce of Portland, as well as Forest Grove, were reported to be in favor of the bill.

If the Longview bridge is built, the present route would lead many people to the bridge and, it was argued, would result in some going into Washington, which would be the route of the Wilson River toll road, go through Portland.

Supporters of the bill stated that due to the scenic value of the coast, as well as being a summer resort, it would greatly make for reasonably easy toll collections. It was pointed out that the traveler would save more than the toll charge in gas, oil, time, etc. by the use of the short cut on the toll road would provide.

committee also heard Mr. Kozor for a few minutes explain the difficulties which are now arising continuously in regard to checking up of titles of ownership of automobiles. Mr. Kozor stated that a bill of some sort be introduced which would incorporate the certificate of title law with the motor vehicle law, thus simplifying administration in this matter.

If HB 32 is passed by this session of the legislature, the state will have its new highway complete by January 1, 1929, and instead of being a direct liability on the purse strings of the state, the road will take the form of an investment, paying for itself in eight years, to be a free public highway after that time.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES AT JASON LEE MEMORIAL

In spite of the inclement weather, interest in the evangelistic services now being conducted at the Jason Lee Memorial M. E. church in downtown Salem is increasing rapidly. A full audience is attending the services at the Sunday morning and evening services, and in spite of the cold and slush, caused by the melting snows, the services of the past two nights have been well maintained. The enthusiasm of the people attending is of a high order, and the evangelist is meeting the highest expectations of all.

Miss Mahood appeared for the first time at the 5:30 hour before the women of the community to give one of her health lectures. The fame and practical value of these lectures have reached many in the city who are eager to avail themselves of this opportunity. Miss Mahood will be heard by increasing numbers not only in the lectures of the afternoon, but also at 7 o'clock in the evening in her Bible studies in the gospel of Mark.

The program for today will be evangelistic service at 2:30 p. m. Theme, "The Power of Courage." Health lecture by Miss Mahood at 3:30 p. m., and a great public service at 7:30 o'clock, and Bible study by Miss Mahood at 7 p. m.

WILLAMETTE WAITS FOR MISSIONARIES

Success of Season Depends on Result of Whitman Games This Week

Games which the Willamette university basketball team will play against Whitman college here Thursday and Friday nights, will start at 7:30 o'clock, it was announced Tuesday, contrary to a report that 8:15 was the hour.

Preliminary games will precede each of these contests, but they will start earlier so that the varsity games can start at 7:30.

Coach Spec Kooze of Willamette has announced that he will start the same combination that opened the game against Pacific last Friday night; Hartley at center, Litchfield and Riedel as forwards and Ledbetter and Ashby as guards.

When Willamette plays University of Oregon here Wednesday night of next week, a double header of unusual appeal to local fans will be staged, for in addition to the varsity game, the Salem high quintet will play a preliminary game against the U. of O. freshmen.
