

NEWS OF THE STAGE AND SCREEN

Elsinore Theater
In various sequences of "The Clash of the Wolves," the Warner Classic featuring Rin-Tin-Tin, June Marlowe and Charles Farrell, showing at the Elsinore theater today, January 29, only Rin-Tin-Tin wears as much make-up as any of his human fellow actors.

Kendall, a clever harmonica player and blackface comedian, will entertain with catchy melodies and funny stories which he will present in his portrayal of the happy-go-lucky type of darkey. His comic dancing and distinct stories will bring laughs galore. The Aerial Flowers in "Youth and Agility" perform their feats on the flying rings with grace and agility.

Oregon Theater
"The Kid Brother" has been selected as the title of Harold Lloyd's new Paramount release which is scheduled for showing at the Oregon theater beginning January 29.

Lloyd's new opus, which has been in production for six months, is rated by those who have seen it as the comedian's finest endeavor to date. In gag sequences it is said to surpass anything that the star has done heretofore.

Committee Favors Change in Workmen's Compensation

The house labor and industries committee yesterday reported favorably on house bill 270, amending the workmen's compensation act by providing that the state or its subdivisions, when engaged in hazardous occupation, shall not have the right to reject provisions of the act.

This bill is a substitute for house bill 151. The committee reported unfavorably on house bill 15, because it conflicts with number 129 in regard to the number of years a barber must serve before he can take the state barbers' examination.

JOHN KNIGHT ON 78TH BIRTH DAY

Veteran Court Crier Put in Full Day at His Duties, as Usual

"John Knight, veteran federal court crier, yesterday celebrated his 78th birthday by opening and adjourning the session of Judge Rudkin's court as usual. He was born in the village of Bethel, Shelby county, Missouri, Jan. 25, 1849, and in 1863 came to Willapa, Wn. Later the family moved to French Prairie, near Aurora, where other members of the Lutheran religious colony at Bethel had located.

"Mr. Knight was a balliff when the Wilson administration came in, and an effort was made to remove him, but Judge Bean checked this by appointing him crier, which position he has still held. "Mr. Knight's hobby is The Oregonian, which he never fails to read during the morning session of court. He has read it for 64 years, he said."

Mostly Correct
The boys from the Portland Oregonian of Wednesday last is mostly correct. It is not correct as to the Aurora colony. That colony was not Lutheran, though its founder, Dr. Wm. Kell, was a religious leader, as well as a wonderful organizer, a physician, and a wise and just man. The colony had a model church life, but it was not denominational. It was sui generis in its religious teachings, but they would be considered Christian in the truest sense now. It was a religion of mutual service; all for one and one for all, helpful and sympathetic—and practical. John Knight served a couple of terms as sheriff of Marion county. He owned a farm at the Labish "four corners" on the Pacific highway, and he was a pioneer onion grower on the beaverdam lands there. Every old timer in Marion county, and most of them throughout the state, is personally acquainted with John Knight.

in Mexico, he added, is no business of this country, but is an internal affair for Mexico to settle for herself.

The only reply to the speech came from two of Senator Hefflin's democratic colleagues. When the Alabama said that he had "received letters from a hundred or more highly intelligent men and women telling me that if I couldn't be silenced any other way, they would do it by poison, with a bullet, or by other means." Senator Copeland of New York interrupted to suggest that the army, navy and marine corps be called out "to protect the precious life of the senator from Alabama." "The army will not be used to protect me, and neither will it be used to uphold the Catholic church in Mexico," said Hefflin. "You can't laugh this situation off. It is too deeply imbedded in the minds of the people."

Senator Broussard of Louisiana interrupted when Hefflin declared that one person had written him that the Knights of Columbus was "the standing army of the Pope." "Does the senator from Alabama subscribe to that statement?" asked the Louisiana senator. "I don't know whether it is true or not," replied Hefflin. "I am a Knight of Columbus," returned Broussard. "In '98 I
