CHRISTIANITY HIGHEST STATESMANSHIP

Strange things are happening in China. There is no China, in the sense meant in the name of the United States, or France or Germany or Great Britain-

Though that country has a territory of 4,277,170 square miles and about 450,000,000 population, against the 3,026,791 square miles and 110,000,000 population of the United States. China is larger than the United States and all her possessions. including Alaska and the thousands of islands in the Philippine group. Japan is a mere speck on a big map in comparison; or the British Isles. India, with her 350,000,000 human beings, is not half as large as China, nor a third as great in natural resources-

But China is a country of many languages and dialects and races, and no central government that is more than a mere name. It has many governments, mostly of military overlords of states or districts. And nearly all of them oppressive, unjust and dishnoest. It has many religions, mostly of poor quality-

And the great trouble with China is that it has no patriotworthy of the name, outside of the little that has of late been inculcated by Christian missionaries. The Chinese people, as individuals, are mainly honest in business dealings, while their officials are mainly dishonest grafters. And there is scant cooperation, and less altruism or unselfishness.

Through Secretary of State Kellogg, with the approval of President Coolidge, the United States government has made it know to the leaders of China that our country is willing to make new treaties, in line with the wishes of their forward looking nationalists, if China has any responsible authority to make treates with-

But there's the rub. The Cantonese in the south, under Marshal Chiang, have an army that is largely a frenzied mob. the wives and children helping in Marshal Chiang, have an army that is largely a frenzied mob.

The caliber of Chiang himself is not well known, excepting that he is a clever young man. In the north, the power is in the hands of old Chang of Manchuria, a former bandit who in the hands of old Chang of Manchuria, a former bandit who had during the past week 112

Salem Y free employme has not reformed his morals. The central Chinese forces under Marshal Wu are weak, and Wu himself has little to 42 sent out to work. The 70 will commend him above a selfish and vaulting ambition. The strongest force in China is that of Marshal Feng, the Christian general, whose armies when led by him have never been defeated, nor can be defeated by native forces. Feng's army s made up of Christians. They open the day with prayer a balanced growth if it is to be and the singing of Christian hymns; a strange sound in a permanent. heathen land; 36,000 well trained soldiers joining in the songs familiar to people in all Christian lands.

If the time shall come soon when the condition precedent of Secretary of State Kellogg can be complied with, in both letter and spirit, and have the sanction of united authority in China, it will have to be brought about by the teachings of the Christian missionaries in that country, and especially through the work of the Y. M. C. A. forces there-

By idealism; by unselfishness; by the precepts of the Sermon on the Mount and the lesson taught by the story of the Good Samaritan-

By a cooperation and patriotism that will make the Chipese people altruistic; that will change selfishness into unselfish service. This is a big task. Nothing short of the main platform of the Christian religion, the Sermon on the fount, can accomplish it-

And the demands of Secretary Kellogg cannot be fully complied with short of its consummation, at least in a measurable degree, working from the leaders of China down through the ranks to the common people; to the teeming millions,

So it has come about that Christianity is the highest statesmanship in this period of her struggles in all China.

There is no other cementing force that will suffice. No other saving force that will make a central government with full power permanent. All the other religions are powerless for this purpose-

And who shall say the Christian missionaries and the Y. M. C. A. forces have not now in their hands the future peace of the world?

A patriotic, altruistic, united China-

A Christian China-

At the Burnes celebration in Salem last night was brought out in the brilliant addresses the great importance to humanity of the message in lyrical poetry Robert Burns gave the world in his conception of the rights of the common man. It was an important time for such a message, when the thirteen colonies of America were in their struggle for freedom; when the events across the English charnel were leading up to the French revolution, and the common people everywhere were beginning to appreciate the less ins taught by the lowly Nazarene of the universal brotherbood of man under the fatherhood of God. Robert Burns saw but a little way in the dark night; but the words he wrote penetrated a great way in the full daylight that was dawning as he came to what eemed an inglorious end of his earthly life.

This week promises, in the message of Governor Pattern, a solution of the serious question of balancing the budget as state of Oregon.

What is the key thing that will make Salem a big city? What do you say? There was during the past week a good deal of discussion of this point. This will be explained in future articles in The Statesman. It is important.

The transfers of Salem business property at record prices shows the growth of the capitol city in a way that gives confidence in greater growth.

Experts Spend Time Investigating Methods to Make Planes Slow Up

Washington (AP)-Nearly as each effort is now being devoted by airplane inventors and producers to the job of making the machine go slow as has been devoted in the past to making them go

Files of the commerce department's new air navigation section show lengthy exhibits on the subject with portrayals of devices which have been tested in actual service as well as those based exclusively on theory.

Where the airplane operators most desire slowness in planes is at the moment of landing. The highly developed racing machines have a landing speed of nearly 90 miles an hour. The machines being adapted to commercial service land at a slower pace, but even so the difficulties and annovances from too great speed on the ground are numerous.

Birds meet the same problem as airplanes in landing, but there is not much for mechanical structures to take from their demonstration. The fast flying bird when alighting throws its body up against the air and kills almost instantaneously the last of its flying speed by a few powerful blows of its wings.

The airplane makers have had to turn to mechanics. One of the best of the devices thus far evolved to accomplish the purpose is being perfected by English construcfors, in the so-called "slotted" wing" construction, which permits the manipulation while landing of great but balanced wind resistance. Americans have been able to get some very good results with powerful automatic brakes, which have proved effec-

The difficulty here is in developing wing strength to withstand the stresses thus applied, but out of the attempt has already come accomplishment which the experts rate as valuable.
