

KELLOGG ASKS WAR IMMUNITY, SHANGHAI

Or require extensive landing operations by foreign naval forces to guarantee protection. Undoubtedly the Kellogg plan is founded upon the repeated public declarations of Foreign Minister Eugene Chen of the Cantonese factions and Wellington Koo, who holds now a similar post in Peking, that both sides desired to prevent foreigners from molestation and had no desire to bring about an actual exodus of foreigners at Shanghai. It is to be expected that Minister MacMurray has probably already taken steps to present the proposal directly to Chang Tso-Lin, Manchurian warlord and the dominating figure in the alliance of northern provincial military governors, which is opposed to the Cantonese efforts to spread the power of that faction over northern China.

ROME, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini has made it clear, in answering Great Britain's memorandum addressed to all the powers having interests in the Far East, that he is ready to join the British in the use of force if the situation at Shanghai becomes critical.

At the beginning of the Chinese crisis Great Britain sent a memorandum to the various powers, explaining the policy she intended to follow, and asking for their views. This was a policy of conciliation, with proper protection of the lives and property of foreigners in China.

Mussolini, after mature study of the situation and frequent exchanges of view with Sir Austen Chamberlain, British secretary for foreign affairs, replied on February 2, with a note in which he accepted the main lines of the British policy. He made reservations, however, on certain points in which the interests of the two countries do not exactly coincide.

While the substance of the Italian note is generally known to be along the lines of Great Britain's desires, the text is not yet available. Sufficient is known, however, to make it certain that Italy stands with England on the chief points at issue.

Mussolini's note is considered by those familiar with conditions an able one, since it came at a moment when England seemed almost entirely isolated. Thus the support of Italy represents an important psychological factor which may have the effect of inducing other powers to imitate her.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—(AP)—With the cabinet committee in practically continuous session on the Chinese problems, transports steaming to the Far East with the British defense forces, and an apparent lull in the clashes between the war lords and between the rival Peking and Canton governments, Great Britain settled down today for the customary quiet week-end, which Downing street promises is not likely to be disturbed by fresh developments in the Chinese crisis. Yesterday's cabinet parleys brought no change in the British policy with regard to holding the troops at Hong Kong, although this action remains at the forefront of possibilities.

A splendid suggestion—That of David W. Eyre, president of the United States National bank—

That the members of the service clubs and Salem Chamber of Commerce, and others who can afford to assist, form a financing service to assist in securing and helping factories in Salem.

This is done in Portland. It is a service very much needed here. It would help in securing industries in the city to manufacture and market the products of industries on the land. That is a combination that will keep Salem growing and the surrounding country developing and prospering. A combination that will build safely and solidly. Nothing can stop the upward march along the lines of permanent growth with that kind of a combination.

GIRL ROBS BANK TO PAY COLLEGE TUITION

ed that she had been alone. The finding of a boyish campus hat with her name printed on the brim led to her identification. Telegraph wires in the alley behind the bank and telephone wires within the building had been cut in a manner that officials believed pointed to the participation of accomplices.

Professor C. C. Josey, in whose home the girl worked for her board and room, said she had been a little "queer," but had no criticism of her previous work or behavior.

One phase under investigation was the insistence of several sales girls from a local store that a number of dresses found in Miss Meyers' room had been stolen from the store last October.

Questioned by Perkins, Miss Meyers declared her need of the tuition money for the second semester's freshman work was her only motive in attempting to rob the bank. She intended, she said, to take only $24 and to repay it when she could.

Tools used by the girl were stolen from a local garage last Monday night, including the electric drill, and she carried them to the bank in a suitcase.

One of the rear doors of the main banking room was "jimmied" to gain admission, after she had tried unsuccessfully to climb through a transom.

She had connected the drill with a light socket when Patrolman Denny Sullivan peered into the room and saw the tools. The girl had fled on his approach.

With another patrolman, Sullivan went around the building a few minutes after his discovery, found a broken window, and soon the girl's sobs led them to the stairway where she crouched.

Dr. Josey said he had given the girl a place in his home at the request of her mother, who came here with the girl from Valley City, N. D., last summer to get her started at the university.

"So far as I know, she did not have any boy friends," Dr. Josey said tonight. "I insisted on her being in the house by 10 or 10:30 each night. She did not seem to have any intimate friends, either boys or girls."

TWO MILLIONS MAY BE SPENT ON BUILDINGS

state board of control. Two buildings will be erected at the Oregon state hospital under an appropriation of $180,000 approved by the committee. Of the total appropriation $130,000 will be expended in the construction of a nurses' home, while $50,000 will be used in the erection of an industrial building. It was said that the nurses' home would release approximately 100 beds in the main hospital, and provide for the demands made upon that institution for a period of two years.

Appropriations aggregating $490,000 were authorized by the ways and means committee for the "three state normal schools." For the Monmouth and eastern Oregon normal schools the committee appropriated $175,000 each, while for the southern Oregon normal school there was appropriated $150,000. The appropriation for the Monmouth institution will be used in erecting class rooms and library. A new dormitory will be constructed at the southern Oregon normal school.

The $175,000 appropriated for the eastern Oregon normal school will be expended in the erection of the first unit of the new plant. Additional appropriations will be requested at subsequent legislative sessions for dormitories and other buildings. This school was authorized by the voters at the general election last November.

The committee appropriated $80,000 for the state training school for boys. This money will be used in erecting two additional cottages at the Woodburn plant. Each of the cottages will have accommodations for approximately 35 boys.

An appropriation of $50,000 for new cells at the state penitentiary also was approved. There also was reported out favorably a bill carrying an appropriation of $50,000 for an administrative building and heating plant at the children's farm home at Corvallis.

The armory building program totals $110,000. Of this amount there was appropriated $25,000 for an armory at Cottage Grove, $35,000 for an armory at La Grande, $35,000 for an armory at Astoria and $25,000 for an armory at Forest Grove.

In addition to these appropriations the ways and means committee has before it a request for approximately $530,000 for new buildings at the Oregon Agricultural college. These include a physics building, animal husbandry building, chemistry building, and heating plant.

In event the appropriations for the Oregon Agricultural college are reported out favorably the cost of the building program would be increased to $2,705,000.

Officials estimated that an additional $100,000 would be expended by the state during the biennium in smaller and less expensive buildings at the various state institutions. These would include greenhouses, sheds, garages, barns and other structures necessary in the operation of the institutions.

It was possible, legislators said, that some of the appropriations approved by the ways and means committee would be reduced or eliminated when the bills are considered on the floor of the house.

WILKINS GONE FOR NEW TRIP TO NORTHLAND

Detroit, chosen as second pilot of the expedition, will leave here next week in time to receive the planes at Seattle. A second mechanic is to be engaged at Fairbanks, where the first real test of the planes will come in the flight over the Brooks range to Point Barrow, 600 miles north.

A third plane, one of the large Fokkers used by Captain Wilkins in his explorations last year, is at Fairbanks and will also be taken to Point Barrow. It is planned to have all three planes take off together for the flight over the mountains. To get over the Brooks range, Captain Wilkins said, the planes will have to reach an elevation of 10,000 feet and forced landing in the mountains would mean a long hike for the fliers.

One of the smaller Detroit planes, said to be easier to maneuver and land on ice, will be used by Captain Wilkins and Eielson on the flights 600 miles out over the Polar basin. The explorer plans to make landings on ice, take soundings of ocean depths and thus determine the likelihood of the existence of land nearby and its probable direction. Determination of the direction of polar ocean currents is another important objective of the expedition.

"To make these observations," said Captain Wilkins, "it will be necessary to land on the ice. We will take chances of making safe landings and take-off after we get our observations. Such operations of course are exceedingly precarious. Consequently we are going fully prepared to foot it out, so with the ice flow across the polar area to Siberia, or wherever we can strike land, and live chiefly on the game we can find on the way."

"The two planes left at Point Barrow will be prepared to bring us to us in case we can keep our
