Ad Mackie and Allie Taylor to Battle as Headliners in Fast Card

FAST FISTIC MIXES DUE FOR WEDNESDAY

Taylor to Arrive on Day of Fight; Both to Make 127 Pounds Before Gong

When Ad Mackie meets Allie Taylor in the main event at the arena Wednesday night, that fight will mark a new attempt on Mackie's part to get to the top of the ladder in the featherweight class.

Working away faithfully every day, Mackie says he is going to be in the best condition of his career, and is going to surprise the fans by stopping the Bend wildcat. The Portland fans, at least, will not be surprised if he does, according to reports from Mackie's home city.

If Mackie wins from Taylor, he will take another whirl at fast company, so naturally a whole lot depends on this scrap.

Some fans, recalling that Mackie and Taylor have been fighting a long time, might conclude that they are about to start on the down grade. Far from it. Neither of them has reached his 27th birthday. Mackie has plenty of time to rise to the top in his division if he can make it.

Mackie has always been a good fighter, but has been handicapped by lack of a good manager. To Morgan, Bud Ridley and Danny Nunes failed to stop him. For Wednesday night's fight, Harry Hansen will be in Mackie's corner, and Hansen, who used to handle Taylor, thinks he has the thing dooped out.

"Mackie will be on top of Taylor all the time, and will throw so many punches that Taylor will think he got in front of a snow slide," Hansen says.

But if Mackie does stop the speedy millworker from Bend, it will be the first time Taylor has been counted out in seven years of combat.

If Salem fans don't turn out in battalions and regiments to see this fight, they aren't as live as those in the bigger cities along the coast, for Taylor is being sought for main events in all of them. Word comes from Bend that Charles Carroll, Taylor's manager, was called out of bed at 2 o'clock the other morning by a phone call from Seattle, where the matchmaker wanted to sign Taylor for a bout. Carroll had to turn him down for the time being, as Taylor fights here Wednesday and at Tacoma against Wildcat Carter February 24.

For the bout here tomorrow night, Mackie and Taylor will have to make 127 pounds. They are not expected to weigh more than a pound different.

Taylor was to be here today, but on account of the armory being in use tonight, he will not arrive until Wednesday. The fighters will weigh in at 2 o'clock that day.

Baseball Prospects at OAC Encouraging

Heavy Schedule Of Games Being Arranged By Managers

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, CORVALLIS, Feb. 7.—Prospects for a winning baseball team are thought to be good with twenty pitchers turning out regularly. Many of these are from last year's rook squad and men who were not in school during last season.

Howard Mackie, star pitcher from the rook squad, is now working out. He caught in the Montana games last summer and is expected to be one of the best prospects for his league ball in the northwest.

"The tentative varsity baseball schedule calls for one of the hardest seasons any baseball team at O. A. C. has ever played," said Ralph O. Coleman, baseball coach, after looking over offers from various colleges and independent teams.

"Occidental college from California is planning a trip north and wants a game. The Vasa university team of Tokyo, Japan, is making a trip to the United States this spring and may be included on the schedule."

A barnstorming trip before the regular season season starts is being arranged. Games with Portland Pacific coast league and teams in the timber league in western Washington, will be played on the trip. In all O. A. C. plans to play 15 or 20 games this season.

Former Oregon Line Coach Enters Clothing Business

EUGENE, Ore., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Harry Ellinger, former head line coach of the University of Oregon football team, and Eugene Vidal, present backfield coach, will enter the mercantile business in Eugene within another week or 10 days, when they open a men's clothing store and haberdashery, they announced today. Both are ex-West Point players.

Mr. Ellinger stated that he had decided to go into business here rather than return to the east where he had previously lived. He will have charge of the store while Mr. Vidal is at work on the campus and gridiron.

STRIBLING VICTOR OVER E. HUFFMAN

Georgia Heavyweight Makes Debut in Rickard's Elimination Tourney

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(AP)—William L. (Young) Stribling, making his debut in Tex Rickard's heavyweight elimination tournament, cutted and jabbed his way to victory over Eddie Huffman of Los Angeles tonight in a bruising rough and tumble match before a crowd of 6,000, the smallest of the indoor season.

It was Stribling's first bout in New York since he was whipped by Paul Berlenbach for the light heavyweight title last May, but the southerner, while he clearly outpointed and outboxed his rugged rival, failed to add materially to his prospects as a heavyweight contender, in the judgment of most ringside critics.

A majority of the experts gave the 22 year old Georgian six of the ten rounds, awarding the other four to Huffman, but there were few exciting moments about the bout, that was punctuated carefully by acrobatic clinching and slapping, battering exchanges at close quarters. So monotonous were Huffman's awkward attempts to take the aggressive and Stribling's steady defensive countering that the crowd booed and jeered both boxers during a large share of the last four rounds.

Both men were barely over the light heavyweight figure, scaling 177½ each, but Stribling made good use of his advantages in reach, boxing ability and speed. Huffman was the aggressor in nearly every round but he found the Georgian's defense difficult to penetrate, meanwhile being a mark for the southerner's left jab and right uppercut at close quarters.

THREE BIG GAMES FOR WILLAMETTE

Albany College Quintet to Play Here Tonight; Fast Game Anticipated

Three intercollegiate basketball games, two of them Northwest conference contests, will be played on the Willamette university floor this week. Tonight Spec Keane's Bearcats meet the fast Albany College quintet, which gave them a hard battle at Albany two weeks ago. The game will start at 7:30 o'clock.

The big basketball show of the week, however, is the two game series with College of Idaho, which has lost two games to Whitman but has beaten all of the other teams in that part of the northwest outside of those in the Coast conference.

College of Idaho gave Whitman a close race in one of its games with the Missourians, and on that basis is counted on to give the Bearcats plenty of competition too.

If Willamette wins these two games, it will be back in the race for the conference title, despite their defeat at the hands of CPS last Friday. That game was a bitter pill, but the Bearcats were far from their usual form, and since they have two more chances to beat the Loggers, are not so badly off as they might be.

In the game at Tacoma, the Bearcats could have won on free throws if they had been "on" even at shooting those, for they had 17 chances and gained only four points by them.

If they were "off" against the Loggers, the Willamette players were decidedly "on" in their game with Multnomah club at Portland, persons who saw it reported. Incidentally, the scorekeeper in Portland mixed his figures. Reidel should have been given credit for 22 points instead of Hawk. "Shadler," as the tall forward is called on the campus, played the best game of his career on the club floor Saturday night.

Ashby, Willamette guard, was injured in that game and will be unable to play this week. The Bearcat squad drew an addition this week when Nash, who has been playing with the Black Cats, registered at the university and turned out for basketball.

Other athletes who have entered Willamette this week with the opening of the new semester are Kaufman and Dietz, former Woodburn high school students. Both play baseball, and Dietz is a quarterback when football season rolls around.

Oregon Hoopers to Meet Cougars at Eugene Tonight

EUGENE, Feb. 7.—(AP)—The University of Oregon's championship-bound basketball team will attempt to climb another rung up the ladder tomorrow night here with the Washington State Cougars serving as opposition.

The Webfooters had little difficulty in trouncing the Cougars at Pullman recently and, accordingly, they do not expect to encounter a great deal of trouble tomorrow night on their own floor. The Cougars have dropped several games this year, but showed enough class to down Idaho on the eve of the major league schedule meetings. They were Ty Cobb, Herb Pennock and Roger Hornsby.

Announcement by Cobb that he had "made up his mind" on offers for next season was accepted by friends as indicating he would cast his lot with the Philadelphia Athletics. Pennock, world series pitching hero of the Yankees, appeared on the scene as a holdout, while Hornsby revealed his readiness to accept arbitration of the stock tangle which stands in the way of his appearance in New York uniform.

A conference between Pennock and Manager Miller Huggins disclosed for the first time that the slim left-hander is dissatisfied with the terms of his contract. Pitcher and pilot were closeted for more than an hour. At the end of the confab, Pennock announced his demand for a substantial increase had not been met. He will return here Thursday for another conference.

Although Hornsby said he did not seek the aid of the New York club in disposing of his St. Louis stock, the erstwhile Cardinal pilot said he would offer no objection to arbitration. Selection of a committee of three—one from the Giants, one from the Cardinals and one representing Hornsby, has been suggested.

A five pie tie for first resulted at the end of the 25 flyers in the interstate amateur flyer cup shoot. In the "Miss and Out" shoot off, Ira Carroll, Kansas City, took the cup with seven straight hits.

ILLINOIS MAN CAPTURES Amateur Target Trophy

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Mark Arle, a Chicagoan, Ill., captured the interstate amateur target cup and tied for first in the 100 target event in the opening session of the 3rd annual interstate trapshooting tournament here this afternoon.

Arle shared the 100 target trophy with C. M. Powers, Decatur, Ill., each with a score of 98. He took the interstate amateur cup with a score of 87.

THREE STARS FILL DIAMOND SPOTLIGHT

Cobb Makes Up Mind, Pennock Holds Out, and Hornsby to Arbitrate

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Three major league stars, cast in widely different roles, held conspicuous places in important baseball developments here today on the eve of the major league schedule meetings. They were Ty Cobb, Herb Pennock and Roger Hornsby.

Announcement by Cobb that he had "made up his mind" on offers for next season was accepted by friends as indicating he would cast his lot with the Philadelphia Athletics.
