Fordson Service School Held at Independence

OREGON NORMAL SCHOOL, MONMOUTH, Feb. 9.—(Special)—Approximately 100 farmers attended the Fordson tractor service school held at Independence yesterday under the auspices of the local dealer and the services of an expert Fordson mechanic.

Crake, now in the Portland office, and formerly in the Detroit field with the aid of an assistant took charge of the disassembling and assembling of the machines and the demonstration proved of great value to those using tractors. Crake has the distinction of having been with the Ford people when they assembled their first tractor, and his demonstrations before the classes proved his skill and knowledge of every detail of the machines.

The agricultural classes from the Independence high school spent part of the day in observing. The students will be called upon to write an essay on the demonstration work they observed.
