

DEFICIT BUGABOO CALLED MAGNIFIED

Herbert Gordon Explains Ways and Means Work to Reaffirm at Lunch

Oregon's state deficit bugaboo has been magnified in the legislature for political purposes, it was declared by Representative Herbert Gordon, chairman of the house ways and means committee, in an address before the Marion-Polk county reeve board Thursday noon.

Aside from the $1,500,000 building program, the ways and means committee's report will show, when it is issued within a few days, that there will be no more of a deficit this year than for several years past, Gordon said.

Gordon emphasized his approval of the highway program, but said that eastern and southern Oregon have not yet received their just share of highway appropriations, despite the fact that they supported the program when it was originally adopted, whereas the Willamette valley, which since has received most of the benefit, was largely against it.

Cotton also addressed the boys at the senior high school, at Parrish Junior high, and met with the junior of the Y, the secretaries and the leaders' groups.

CONSIDER UNION SCHOOL Jefferson People Making Plans For Special Meeting

Constituents of the Jefferson school district and its outlying districts are reported to be considering the feasibility of organizing a union school district, and the authorization of a new modern building.

This project will be the principal subject of discussion at the next meeting of the Jefferson community club to be held February 22. Tax payers in districts near Jefferson are urged to attend and present their views on the matter of changing their school system.

If adopted the Jefferson union school would be much on the same type as that already in operation at Gervais and St. Paul where costs have been greatly decreased by consolidation, which creates strong centralization in the management.

PHONE RATE PROBE FINALLY POSTPONED

Salary Increase Bills Cause Flare in Senate; Governor Upheld

The memorial introduced by Senator Dunne, which requested a federal investigation of the telephone rates effective in Oregon, was indefinitely postponed yesterday. Twenty-four senators were opposed to the adoption of the memorial.

The resolutions committee to which the memorial was referred for consideration returned an adverse report signed by Senators Eddy, Mann and Moser. Senators Marks and Hare refused to concur in the report, but did not oppose its adoption on the floor of the senate. Senator Hare indicated that he was in sympathy with the memorial, but that he had declined to file a minority report.

Senator Dunne made it plain that he had not introduced the memorial in the spirit of malice but for the sole purpose of determining for all times whether the telephone rates now charged in this state were reasonable.

"If the telephone concern is clean," said Senator Dunne, "it would not have objected to the investigation."

The statement by Senator Davis that he would not vote for any more salary bills during the present session of the legislature resulted in a brief flare up in the senate during the afternoon. "In view of the governor's intimation that he would veto all salary increase bills I intend to vote against all of them during the remainder of the session," said Senator Davis.

Senator Davis voiced his sentiments during a discussion of a bill introduced by Representative McGowan providing for an increase in the salary of the county judge of Harney county.

He urged that the bill be re-committed to the committee on county officers.

Senator Klepper charged that Governor Patterson was inconsistent in vetoing local salary bills for the reason that he yesterday appeared before a committee of the senate and urged favorable consideration of a measure authorizing a salary increase for his private secretary.

"The governor came before our committee," said Senator Klepper, "and asked us to do for him the very thing he refused to do for Senator Davis. What is good for the governor is good for the legislature. We should pass this bill despite the attitude of the governor." Senator Klepper's comment was based on the action of Governor Patterson in vetoing a local salary bill introduced early in the session by Senator Davis.

Senator Joseph implored the senate to proceed with the passage of salary increase bills in an orderly manner and not be bluffed out by the governor.

"Let us cut out this horse-play," said Senator Brown, "and recommend this bill as requested by Senator Davis."

Senator Eddy declared that the senate should not spend all its time waging Gorrilla warfare upon the governor, but should get down to business.

"If the governor is guilty of some little inconsistency that is no reason why we should precipitate a clash," said Senator Eddy. "Let us dispose of our business as rational men and cooperate with the governor. Let us not cater to headlines in the newspapers." Senator Butt made it plain that he intended to support the governor as long as he was right.

"Up to this time," said Senator Butt, "the governor has shown a disposition to be consistent with his pre-election promises. We should not embark on a course of antagonism. The people elected Governor Patterson by a large majority and they expected that he would keep his promises."

The bill finally was re-committed over the protests of a few opposing senators.

The senate adopted a majority report of the Multnomah county delegation recommending passage of a bill increasing the salaries of the sheriff, clerk and assessor of Multnomah county from $4500 to $6000 a year. With the exception of Senator Staples all members of the Multnomah delegation in the senate signed the majority report.

A bill authorizing the Port of Portland to sell bonds to defray any additional costs that incur in the erection of the proposed new bridge across the Columbia river at Longview also was approved. It was explained that this legislation was needed in order to protect navigation on the upper Clumbia river.

SEEK ADVERTISING TRUTH IN SALEM

Portland Speaker Warns Rortarians of Freak Advertising Planned Here

Arguments pointing to the desirability of organizing a better business bureau in Salem to safeguard the truth in advertising and to combat the numerous schemes that transients employ in swindling the American public out of a billion dollars a year, were advanced by Robert N. Mount, manager of the Portland better business bureau, in an address before the Salem Rotary club at Wednesday's luncheon.

Incidentally, Mount declared that a group of "financiers" now operating in Portland is planning to place a subdivision in Salem and conduct the scheme known as the "three lot" swindle here this spring.

The plan is to give free chances on lots, awarding the first prize to everybody who accepts a ticket. Then the victim is required to pay the expenses of transferring the lot, after he finds that it is worthless. Next they offer to exchange this lot for a really good one, but this is in the "restricted district," so to get it the victim must buy a second lot adjoining it.

If the Rotary club's code of ethics were adopted and practiced by all business men, it would do much more good than all the laws to regulate business that are on the statute books, Mount said.
