 Will start its campaign for funds and pledges on Tuesday

river, in order to unbind the fetters of the commercial fishing industry of this state; and the Marion county vote was 6695 for and only 4460 against it—

And now there are two bills in the legislature, one to repeal the law enacted by the people, and the other to delay the time of its taking effect till the last day of next year.

There is little danger that the first one will pass; it would be too raw, the legislature brazenly flying in the face of the whole people—

But there are some members who will have the effrontery to vote for the bill providing for the delay.

It is unthinkable that such a measure could have any chance of success. And it is unthinkable that the other bill, providing for further cleaning up the Columbia, should die in committee or for any other reason not be passed.

It will be good business for Salem to help fill to the last seat and the last inch of space in the Elsinore on Monday night. And the Portland Symphony Orchestra, one of the greatest organizations of the kind in the United States, deserves that much and more.

Bits For Breakfast

 Greatest in that line ever in Salem—

Will be at the Elsinore Monday evening, and will be greeted by a big house; likely a house packed to the last inch, as it should be.

The legislature will end its 40 session on Friday night next, but predictions are that it will not adjourn sine die then. The authorities quoted say the house may be ready to adjourn then, but that will be impossible for the senate to be ready, unless there can be enforced a gag rule and a lot of peeing up done. If the senate does not adjourn, the house cannot. The $5 a day expenses would

FOR THE MERGER

The people of the Willamette valley hope to see the merger of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern and the Burlington lines consummated, and the Oregon Electric property developed as it should be—

For this will mean a greater outlet for our products in all the vast territory served by these lines—

Will mean a more intensive development of our industries on the land and in the towns and cities, in order to make increased traffic for the far flung system that will be enabled to function more perfectly and economically by the merger.

Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern, on whose shoulders rests the mantle of his old chief, Jim Hill, is the moving spirit in this gigantic undertaking.

And such a system as is proposed, operated in the spirit of the dynamic force and enterprise of Jim Hill, will do great things for the Pacific northwest, and all the rest of the territory served.

UNTHINKABLE

By a vote of 102,119 for and 73,086 against it, the people of Oregon at the November election carried the bill to do away with fish wheels and partially clean up the Columbia

Floyd T. Fox, Silverton, came home a few days ago. He had spent the month of January at the intermountain shows. He took high honors on Dorset, Shropshire and Oxford sheep at the Ogden live stock show and the National Western Livestock show at Denver.

An all-college championship match will be played at the close of intramural meets and prizes awarded winners.

Nursing, Hobby of Queen Mary, Duties Prevent Her

LONDON.—(AP)—Queen Mary probably would have been a professional nurse had she not become the wife of England's king.

Nursing is a hobby with the queen, but her official duties have prevented her from taking it up in the thorough manner Princess Arthur of Connaught has.

Queen Elizabeth of Belgium is greatly admired by Queen Mary because of her skill as a nurse and her intimate knowledge of modern surgery. The Queen has recently been reading many books on child welfare, not only because she has accepted the responsibility of caring for little Princess Elizabeth, during the absence of the Duke and Duchess of York in Australia, but because it is a subject in which she has always had keen interest.

Foch's Early Trainers Both Die Within Fortnight

PARIS (AP)—Two generals who gave military training to Marshal Foch died within a fortnight of each other. Foch was associated with them in the early days of his training and often admitted that "he learned about warfare from them."

General Haton de la Goupilliere, dead at the age of 88, was entrance examinee at the Polytechnic school when Cadet Foch applied for entrance. He put young Foch through a vigorous training before he admitted him.

General Berge, 98, served under King Philippe. Foch was his aide-de-camp as a young captain.

LIVING and LOVING
 BY FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

What in general does man most admire? Beautiful women. What in particular? A beautiful woman.

Judging him by his performance, past and present, this at least has always been woman's private opinion.

Now, in the beginning of things it was ordained that the female of the species should strive to please the male, and the first step in the performance of this office was that she should make herself not hard to look upon. So it follows that finding favor in Adam's sight has remained the chief business of Eve since the days in Paradise.

She to whom on her natal day Nature was kind found her burden easy and her effort light. Stupid she might be; it did not matter. She was beautiful and it was enough. But for the woman who lacked something of physical perfection the task was harder.

"Oh, Lord, if I can't be beautiful, let me be as beautiful as I can!" she prayed. And realizing full well that the Lord helps those who help themselves, she took active measures to support Him. She made the best of the beauty she had. She disguised what she hadn't.

"Little pats of powder, little daubs of paint make the homely lady look like what she ain't!"

Her system worked. Man saw beauty where it really did not exist and was attracted. Man was deluded, but he liked it.

Through the ages by such bits of harmless strategy did the Ugly Duckling win her Drake.

That is, the strategy to woman seemed harmless. Knowing many things that from man are concealed, she believed circumstances warranted the action.

Mr. H. G. Wells, fearless thinker and famous novelist, now comes to the fore and declares that all this straining after beauty on the part of woman has been sheer madness and in the long run is getting her nowhere at all. According to Mr. Wells, Eve wins her Adam but she loses him by the same method, because she allows her temporary success to flood her soul with devouring ego.

Mr. Wells said: "There are too many beautiful women!"

"Falling any inner radiance, the modern woman must secure the limelight. In the pursuit of an enforced and superimposed individuality goes all the vigor that might have enabled her to develop more essential qualities. Her hair, her skin, her figure, her behavior, her emotions must be tortured to distinction."

"The goddess is built up. You take it home with you out of the clamor and you take its marvelous clothes off and you wash off what you can of its grease and powder and you find a poor little human body of no remarkable quality at all!"

Well, anyhow, the possibility that in future beauty will need brains to give it ballast gives us something to ponder on. If we are beautiful we may take to cultivating our intellect in case the time should ever come when we might need it. If we are less favored we may be more willing to trust to our wits to raise us from mediocrity, instead of to the ubiquitous beauty doctor.

LADIES!

Don't wave your hair daily—or even every week. Here's a way to keep it wavy for days at a time.

BEFORE you use your iron, or curlers, DAMPEN the hair with DANDERINE. Just a few DROPS on comb or towel. Your locks will then behave for a MONTH! Of course, you know what Danderine does to dandruff; dissolves every speck, within five minutes of rubbing into the scalp. But as a wave-preserver on the hair itself, Danderine is a JOY. The best dressing in the world because it doesn't show. Any permanent wave or water wave lasts much longer and looks much nicer when Danderine is used instead of water to "set" the wave.

Milk Shortage in Paris Makes Canned Kind Needed

CHICAGO.—(Special)—American evaporated milk manufacturers with headquarters here received word today from their European branches of a serious shortage of ordinary milk in Paris, which has resulted in an order from the perfect of police that for the present canned milk shall be served in all cafes.

By itself, comparatively little milk is drunk in Paris, but the Parisian's morning beverage, which forms about half his breakfast, is a half and half brew of strong coffee and milk. And in the cafes, of course, coffee is on tap all day and all night. So the perfect's order has brought about a great increase in the demand for evaporated milk.

PUNISHMENT OF ALL POPULAR IN FRANCE

PARIS.—(AP)—"Collective punishment," the disciplining of an entire group if the person at fault cannot be identified, still survives in French schools. It has been called a relic of the dark ages in education. The National Association of Parents has protested against it repeatedly. It often has been disapproved by high school authorities. It nevertheless remains a tradition, particularly in the lower grades.

Entire classes frequently get a low mark on a certain recitation because the boy or girl who violated some school rule refuses to confess and his or her comrades will not turn state's evidence.

Many educators here deplore the custom but others consider it effective. Its supporters argue that a class is a unit of society and it is society's duty to aid justice. Its opponents contend that as collective punishment means sentencing the innocent it leads to
