127 Many Congressmen Propose Freak Measures for Laws of This Country

WASHINGTON. - (AP) -United States of America would be known as the United States of the World, the senate would be abolished, the president and vice-president would be elected for eightyear terms, and many other revo-lutionary changes in the federal government would prevail, if some senators and representatives had been allowed to amend the Con-

Of all the amendments proposed during the 140 years since the Constitution was ratified by the Dr. J. E. Long's Institute to States, however, only 19 have been adopted. Only four of those are among the 1350 proposed in the last 38 years and the endless controversy which has grown out of the Eighteenth Amendment has caused some legislators regardless of their position on the wet and dry question to believe it will be increasingly difficult for the Constitution to be amended in the

The Norris Amendment would change the time of meeting of congress, would do away with the "short" or "lame duck" sessions, turn to her maiden name, and and vice presidential office terms.

Want Prettier Schools for French Youngsters

PARIS.—(AP)—France is real happy children and that happy children do better work.

"Art in the School," is a new organization working in many towns. A recent report by a branch at Montpellier illustrates its need and effectiveness.

The solemn commission was amazed at the "sadness" of the schools, the drab walls, inadequate light and the desks and chairs often painted black, the most economical color. As the average French boy and girl wears a black sateen jumper-also for economy in laundering-the effect was too funereal even for the committee of taxpayers.

It was agreed that light colors and even primitive decorations with easily made stencils would change the atmosphere.

In many towns these investigators have found examples of the value of joy in work in schools where the schoolmistress, being a person of intelligent taste, took it upon herself to make the school look cheerful, painting and decorating with the help of the children. The change in the children's attitude toward chool work and the improvement in marks proved that paint played a part in mak-

Big Hotel Has Group of Serenaders Dressed in White Trousers

HONOLULU .- (Special.) -A men. group of Hawaiian serenaders known as the "beach boys." who croon and strum the plaintive melodies of the southern seas each night on Waikiki beach, have put on white trousers and are doing their part to entertain guests at the new Royal Hawaiian hotel, the $3,000,000 hostelry which was opened February 1. Rumor has it that the management of the hotel had a hard job persuading the native musicians to devote part of their time to displaying their carefree talents indoors. However, they finally decided to give if a trial and bashfully enter the spacious lobby for their concerts. The "beach boys" are an established institution at Waikiki and each year thrill thousands of travelers with the native melodies some of which they compose themselves. Sam Kahanamoku, brother of the famous Hawaiian swimmer, Duke Kahanamoku, is a member of the group.

Have Plenty of Freedom

PARIS.—(AP) — Women of Persia are among the freest and happiest in the world today, although they still wear the all-enveloping veils supposed to signify slavery, says Madame S. Dalatobadi, Persian feminist leader studying at the Sorbonne, Paris. Mme. Dalatobadi is the daughter of a Musselman priest and is herself of the orthodox faith. She has played an important part in obtaining educational rights for zing that cheerful schools make persian women. They now have equal educational facilities with men, she says.

Man and Wife Operate Corn Shucks Factory With 12 to 20 Helpers

MIAMI, Okla .- (AP) -Sharing mportance with the question, what makes a hot tamale hot, perhaps is where do the tamales get the corn shuck kimonas in which they traditionally are clothed?

Mr. and Mrs. E.M . Enos, of Miami, can answer the question to a large extent. They operate a corn shucks factory near here, employing from 12 to 20 persons during a five month season. They wash, grade, and bale the shucks and sell them to jobbers who in turn sell them to street corner vendors everywhere.

It has remained, however, for the copper industry to discover and practice a transformation of metals that really pays. In the plant of the Anaconda Copmper Company at Butte, Montana, there is a process employed which takes old iron and makes it yield new copper. It is copper that other vise would be lost to the consumr because it is locked up in the aste water pumped from the

Instead of being allowed to flow way with the copper it holds in colution this water is conducted to tanks from which it drips onto scrap iron. Water has a greater affinity for iron than for copper and when the mine water comes in contact with the iron it "lets go" the copper it holds and takes up the iron in solution as it trickles onward. The copper remains on the surface of the iron, from

In the "recovery" section of the Anaconda plant they glow with a coat of copper deposited by the mine water on its way to final discharge. This coafing when removed is subjected to the usual smelting and refining processes which assure copper 99.9 per cent pure. The transformation is one of the economies which keep down the cost of copper and add to the supply of the metal available to industry.

> Kenneth rushed in from play with hair rumpled, clothes soiled, and hands dirty, and seated himself at the table. "What would you say if I should come to the table looking as you do?" inquired his mother. Kenneth surveyed his well-groomed mother thoughtfully, then replied: "I think I'd be too polite to say anything."
