God and You

A LENTEN MEDITATION

By the Rev. Charles Stelzle

God is love.

He loves the world, but His love is personal and individual.

To love means to have a desire for another's good.

There are some ardent souls who have a strong desire to become the Lord's high executioners.

But God desires to save the world, not to condemn it.

He sent Jesus into the world as a messenger of love.

This was the supreme manifestation of God's love to the world.

HYAS KLOSHE TILICUMS

"Hyas Kloshe Tillicums! Mike hyak clatawa state house seven okeke tenas polakly. Hyas shontay, hyas tin tin, hyas wa wa, hyas kloshe tillicums. Wake muck-a-muck, wake skookum chuk, hyas tum tum. Old Timers Committee."

The above call of the committee of the old timers for the meeting of old time residents at the state house this evening, in the hall of the house of representatives, will be well understood by the men and women who lived in the Oregon Country in the pioneer days—

For it is in the language that was the only language known in those times by all the people living west of the summit of the Rockies and north of the California line—

Understood by the Methodist missionaries who made the beginnings of Willamette university that started Salem—

Understood by the people with Marcus Whitman at Walla Walla—

Understood by the settlers who attended the "wolf meetings" where the beginnings of organized society in this section were made—

And by the men at old Champog, where the provisional government was decided upon, to be carried on under the egis of the Stars and Stripes instead of the British ensign, and the first organic laws of the Oregon Country were formulated—

Known to all the people who lived under that forerunner of territorial government—

And by all the men who under that government met and framed the Constitution of the Oregon state government at Salem—

And by the people of various tongues and to all the Indian tribes with their numerous dialects who were under the sway of Dr. McLoughlin in the period before the missionaries and settlers came—

The universal language of a great country and several great states in the making.

A free translation of the summons of the old timers to the state house tonight is found in the news columns of The Statesman of this morning. It means that the old timers are to hurry to the hall of the house of representatives at 7:30 this evening, for a general good time, where there will be much music and lots of talk by good, happy, neighborly folks, where there is to be no eating or drinking or imbibing of strong drink, but where good fellowship will prevail, in the spirit of the pioneer people among whom every one was a neighbor, and where all the latch strings hung on the outside.

It is good to recall the brave days of old; to remember our obligations to a race of pioneers who were among the salt of the earth. High class men. Brave men and true women. Men with vision. Orators and statesmen with high ability. Workers who were willing and never wearied in well doing.

PRUNE MEN WAIT ON CALIFORNIA

The following letter, under date of last Saturday, by R. H. Kipp, manager of the marketing department of the Portland Chamber of Commerce, and directed to the "newspapers of the prune growing districts," is gladly printed, for the information of the growers of the Salem district, the most numerous and having the largest acreage in Oregon:

"In view of the fact that considerable time has elapsed since a committee of five was appointed to try and develop a plan for organization of the dried prune industry of Oregon and Clark county, Wash., we feel the growers and others interested may desire to know why the delay.

"The committee held one meeting but as conditions were not yet ready, no plan could be considered. The California plan is awaiting further development until it is ascertained whether the private packers and distributors can agree on their organization.

"The committee feels it is necessary to wait at least a reasonable time to see how they are able to get together in California before attempting to formulate a plan for Oregon.

"This method will save a lot of time and expense to Oregon for California is now spending a lot of time studying and working out many of the details that the Oregon committee of five can make use of.

"The committee of five expects to meet as soon as the California interests have concluded their plan and this should be not later than the middle of March.

"As soon as further steps are taken the press of the state will be notified."

There will be, in the Slogan pages of tomorrow, inspiration and direction for making Salem, "The City Beautiful," the most beautiful city in this country, or any country. Which is not only possible, but probable. Yea, certain, in due course.

A WESTERN MAN

(From the Blackfoot, Idaho, Bulletin, edited by J. L. Brady, formerly of Salem.)

Bitter experience has taught the west that no eastern man is big enough to take a nationwide view of this country. Roosevelt could do it but he was essentially western in spirit. The west does not want special privileges but it does want a square deal. It cannot get this with an eastern man at the head of the government.

If the farming interests propose to combine and have their way, which they can do if they stand together, they can find no better man than Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon. He is not a politician and therefore cannot be frightened from doing his duty. He is one of those plain citizens who loves his country because he is red blooded. He has the courage of a Roosevelt, the intelligence of a Root and the patriotism of a Lincoln. In this tremendously important hour when the American farmers everywhere must find themselves if they would survive no fitter leader could be found than Charles L. McNary. What Lincoln was to the emancipation of a race McNary would be to the farmer. He would give a square deal to everyone, and he would not stand for them getting less. We must have our own leader to win. The east will never hand us anything.

Which is Chinook for your summons to the big doings at the state house tonight, if you are an old-timer.

Senators McNary and Steiwer and Representatives Hawley and Sinnott are up on their toes. They have moved to get the extra cent duty on cherries, under the flexible provisions of the tariff law. They will no doubt succeed. The Oregon men in congress command attention in the councils of the nation. They stand up towards the head.

John Larson himself took the stand and declared that on at least six occasions he went to South Bend to testify in fish cases and that no question about the trips had been raised by the fish commission.

"I have always tried to cooperate with the state of Washington in every respect," he said, "and I tried to notify Mr. Eakin that I was going when I went over in January, but he was not home."

In commenting on the language used in his official duties, Larson declared the fishermen were "every bit his equal."

"They called me the same names I called them," he said. "That kind of made me angry. I don't think any of you gentlemen would have stood for it."

Bishop Purchases Tiffany's Corner

Corner of Block Part of T. G. Bligh's Estate

Sale of the Court street Bligh building occupied by Smith & Watkins, Fleener Electric company, Columbia Tire company, and Ferris & Powers, to C. P. Bishop, president of Bishop Clothing & Woolen Mills store, at a purchase price of $80,000, has been announced by W. H. Grabenhorst & company.

The building was formerly owned by Anna Bligh Tiffany and Fred E. Tiffany, as a part of the Bligh estate. It has an 81-foot frontage on Court street and 116 feet on High street, being one story in height.

Bought for investment purposes, the building will be held for such until further developments in the city.

The building was a part of the T. G. Bligh estate, consisting of business buildings built in the past few years. Starting with the small theater on State street, he built the Court street building and made the plans which were followed by his wife for the Capitol theater and business block at State and High streets. The theater, now managed by Frank Bligh, still remains in the estate, as a credit to the city. The new Salem hotel is also credited to Mr. Bligh.

TO STOP NAUSEA

IN THE MORNING

Or Goneness in the Stomach At any Time

Try a little diaspensin. You may be so sick in the morning that the odor of food adds to your misery. And yet one or two diaspensins instantly settle your stomach, the nausea disappears, and you actually become hungry.

Diaspensin is composed of powerful digesters. They work on everything you eat, digesting starchy foods, milk, cream, eggs, meat and also absorb acids and gas. Heartburns, biliousness and dizziness disappear almost instantly.

Nausea may come from many causes but diaspensin works quickly in any case. Expectant mothers get real benefit from diaspensin, not alone in freedom from nausea but more nutrition from better digestion.

Get a 50 cent package of Pape's Diaspensin at any drug store. You'll never tolerate nausea again.—Adv.

Notes that his investment is a wise one. He is connected with the large system of woolen mills controlled by the Bishop family.
