SEVENTY-SIXTH YEAR SALEM, OREGON, TUESDAY MORNING, MARCH 15, 1927 PRICE FIVE CENTS

OREGON TO GET $43,000 UNDER FEDERAL RULE

State Forester Must Present Budget of Prevention Expenditures

ALLOTMENTS DECIDED

Special Consideration to Be Given to Some Association Forced to Make Additional Preparations

Oregon will receive more than $43,000 from the federal government according to the Clarke-McNary fire prevention law. This amount is due during the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1927, according to information received by the state forester recently. The funds will be used in fire prevention work on both state and private lands.

The financial cooperation between the state and federal government is contingent upon the state having a well organized protective system which is designed to give the same degree of protection to denuded forest land that it does to merchantable timber.

In order to receive federal funds it is necessary for the state forester to present a budget of the proposed expenditures for fire prevention work within the state during the ensuing year. The amount of the federal reimbursement or allotment is fixed at a certain percent of this budget.

The state forester, in turn, requires all private fire prevention associations within the state to submit budgets covering their contemplated expenditures for the ensuing year. The allotments to the various associations are based upon the amount of these budgets and the amount of denuded forest land coming under the jurisdiction of the various associations.

GAME BODY HAS MONEY PROBLEM

COMMISSION MUST BUDGET EXPENSES FOR NEXT YEAR

E. F. Averill Prepares Statement Allowing Expenditure of $323,075

PORTLAND, March 14.—(AP.)—With the prospect of having 10 per cent less money in its treasury during the fiscal year of 1927, the Oregon state game commission today tackled the problem of budgeting its expense to meet the difference.

In view, however, of the prospect of different personnel on the body after the next scheduled meeting, no definite action was taken.

The proposed budget, prepared during the past few weeks in the office of E. F. Averill, state game warden and secretary of the game commission, allows total expenditure of $323,075. This is approximately $35,500 less than was spent during the fiscal year of 1926. While the income is estimated at approximately that of last year, the commission takes into consideration a number of unpaid bills and a deficit of about $12,000, shown in the report issued January 31, 1926.

The retrenchment problem, as explained today, narrows down to the possible trimming of the game commission payroll, the elimination of The Oregon Sportsman, and the general slicing of several other accounts.

The deadline for fishing below the falls at Oregon City will remain unchanged from the 1926 position, the commission ruled today, after hearing discussion by two visiting groups. Both groups urged the construction of a fishway on the west side of the dam. The commission requested Averill to take the matter up with the Crown-Willamette Paper company, whose turbines are declared to be killing many young salmon each year.

Edwin Keech, Stayton, delivered a lengthy plea on behalf of the wishes of 400 Marion and Polk sportsmen that Henry Stevenson, deputy game warden, be left in office.

LIVESLEY FAVORS CHANGES IN CITY

PREDICTS DOUBLING OF POPULATION IN TEN YEARS

Mayor Urges Cooperation In Making City Among The Most Beautiful In The State

Instituting a commission-city form of government, putting in new bridges across streams in the city, installing a city market for farmers' produce, rebuilding the drainage and sewer system on the basis of a 50,000 population, and procuring an incinerator for garbage—these are some of the things that Mayor T. A. Livesley would like to see brought about in Salem, he declared in an address at the chamber of commerce luncheon Monday.

The present city council and committees are as efficient as anyone could be under the form of government that Salem has, but they cannot be expected to devote the necessary time to city business when they are not paid for it, the mayor said.

The First National Bank building, erected by Livesley in the past year, represents his faith in Salem's future, he stated. Livesley objected to the use of the term "monument," in connection with the building, declaring that he had built it, not as a monument but as a necessity. The city's population will double within the next five or ten years, he predicted.

"Nature has done a great deal for us. We ought to do our part in making Salem a city beautiful," Livesley said in discussing the replacement of old, fragile bridges with new, attractive ones instead of patching the present structures.

COMMONS HEAR PACT

British Admiralty's View of Three-Power Pact Is Presented

LONDON, March 14.—(AP.)—The British admiralty's view of the three-power naval conference at Geneva, proposed by President Coolidge, was laid before the house of commons today by W. C. Bridgman, first lord of the admiralty.

Making the reservation that he could hold his present attitude only as long as the admiralty was able to carry out its sacred duty of maintaining a fleet equal to that of any other power and providing reasonable security for British sea communication, Mr. Bridgman expressed the belief that nothing but good could come of such an exchange of views.

He insisted that perfect frankness between the powers concerned was essential for the success of the conference. Likewise, they would have to respect and consider each other's special difficulties.

The Sumter case was set for Thursday, while that at Hartsville, along with one against a gasoline dealer alleged to have sold motor fuel without a permit, was set for next Monday.

GOVERNMENT WILL PAY

U. S. to Pour $700,000,000 in Notes Into Money Market

NEW YORK, March 14.—(AP.)—The United States government tomorrow will pour approximately $700,000,000 into the money market in payment of $650,000,000 of treasury notes, due on March 15, and interest on the public debt. Within a few days this huge surplus will have been absorbed by the public's payment of about $575,000,000 in income taxes and the withdrawal of $123,710,000 of government funds from federal reserve banks. When these transactions have been completed, toward the end of the week, the government's intake will be within a few millions of its output, and the March tax payments will have been accomplished without a serious ripple in the money market.

Interest payments to be met by the treasury department include about $30,000,000 due on Liberty loans and treasury certificates.

CANTONESE HAVE INTERNAL FIGHT

POLITICAL DEVELOPMENTS IN CHINA IMPORTANT

Police Investigate Death of Marine Sergeant; Body Found Floating in Whangpoo

LONDON, March 14.—(AP.)—So serious is the fear of looting in Shanghai by the Shantung forces which are defending it that the French authorities have called for reinforcements of 1,000 colonial troops, says a Shanghai despatch to the Westminster Gazette. Barracks for the troops already are being prepared.

A Shanghai despatch to the Westminster Gazette says that orders have been issued to the approximately 800 Americans and British in Nanking to evacuate the city.

The despatch says the orders apparently were due to fear that Nanking would fall into the hands of the Cantonese in the next few days, less by force of arms than by treachery, as it is believed that sections of Sun Chuan-Fang's recently defeated troops are ready to secede to the Cantonese.

SHANGHAI, March 14.—(AP.)—With the next serious fighting expected at Nanking, political developments today assumed an important aspect in both Hankow and Peking.

Related advices from Hankow received by the Associated Press told of a bitter internal fight in the Kuomintang, or Cantonese republican revolutionary party, whose central executive committee is now in session there.

Working on the theory that he was murdered, police are investigating the death of Sergeant James B. Montague, United States marine corps, whose body was found today in the Whangpoo river. Sergeant Montague, a native of Virginia, served in the marine corps for many years and was with the forces that arrived from San Diego on the transport Chaumont.

Despite reports that a truce had been declared by the contending factions, there seems little doubt that the dissension is adversely affecting the city.

MANY MADE HOMELESS

Prospectors in Camp Saved From Additional Hardship By Old Custom of Going to Bed Fully Clothed

TONAPAH, Nev., March 14.—(AP.)—A 60-mile gale, accompanied by hail and snow, tore down Weepah's tent city today. Everything moveable went down the canyon in a wild whirl of tin pans, tin camp stoves, gasoline cans, and canvas housing.

The storm swept over the camp from the direction of the Silver Peak mountains. As the gale struck the tent city, dwellers there awoke suddenly to find their homes being lifted bodily from over their heads.

The time-honored custom of going to bed fully clad prevented additional hardship, for the prospectors were in condition to grapple with the storm as soon as they awoke. They made a mad scramble to save as much as possible of their belongings.

Camp dwellers went without breakfast this morning. All their cooking utensils had blown away. Many found refuge in the camp of Judge J. A. Houlahan, where there are four houses of substantial construction and a cyclone cellar extending eight feet underground, with a well rounded roof of cemented rocks. Pat McAuliffe welcomed the refugees in the absence of the judge, who has been detained in Carson City at the legislative session.

There were no women or children in the camp, and as soon as the storm had blown out its fury and the sun broke through the clouds the miners began hunting their lost property and reclaiming it.

Had there been a fence rail within fifty miles of Weepah town.

PROTEST MAKING OF CAMP GROUND

BARBER POLE QUESTION POPS UP IN ZONING MEET

Public Hearing Set For 7:30 At Each Meeting; Street Condition Told

Protests against the establishment of a public camp ground between Brooks avenue and Portland road in the north end of Salem, were voiced by residents of that district before the city planning and zoning commission Monday night.

According to M. F. Van Laanen, who headed the protesting delegation, the camp is to be cheaply built and in general will not be a credit to the community, he declared.

The commission informally advised the delegation that the proper procedure would be to prepare a remonstrance and present it to the city council.

After the north end residents decided that the establishment of a camp ground would be a violation of the zoning ordinance, and drafted a request to the city attorney to take steps to prevent its construction.

A permit had already been issued to the persons proposing to build the camp ground. It was issued in the name of Margaret Wright.

P. J. Hibler, barber located in the basement of the new First National Bank building, appeared before the commission in connection with his application for permission to install a barber pole on the curb in front of the building. He was informed that the application was in the hands of the lights committee of the council, and that the commission therefore had no jurisdiction over it.

Hibler replied that L. J. Smeral, chairman of the committee, had said the petition would be returned to the zoning commission.

He also objected to publicity.

CITY OFFICER SUICIDE

Texas Doctor Shoots Municipal Manager, Kills Own Self

Johnson a few hours earlier as the climax of a growing disagreement between them over operation of the city health department.

Goddard was dead in a city jail cell where he was being held without charges pending outcome of Johnson's wounds from Goddard's pistol. The city manager may recover, the hospital said.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 14.—(AP.)—A quieter tone prevailed in the Palm Beaches tonight following a period of excitement when a determined run on the Citizens bank, prompted by the closing of three banks in Palm Beach county abated early this afternoon leaving only short lines of depositors at the windows.

Two of the three banks remaining open here did not experience runs. They observed the regular closing hours. The Citizens bank, however, announcing that plenty of funds had been obtained to pay every depositor, remained open until six o'clock to meet all requests for payments.

SALEM TO HAVE STILL WATER; SURVEY PLAN

Campaign Started Couple of Years Ago by Local People Bearing Fruit

MORE ACTION NEEDED

District Engineer at Portland Asking for Information on Which to Base Report for Government Use

Salem is to have still water to the sea. She is going to be connected by water borne vessels with all the chief ports of the world. The effort started a couple of years ago to get the United States government to take this matter up is bearing fruit. Immediately after the campaign was launched, Congressman W. C. Hawley had inserted in the rivers and harbors bill an item calling for a survey of the Willamette river from Portland to Salem, with a view to finding the feasibility and practicability of getting still water in the Willamette from Portland to Salem—which really means only from Wilsonville, or old Champeo, to Salem; for there is still water now the rest of the way from Salem to Portland.

Whole Delegation Interested. The Salem people who had a part in this action found the work of the Oregon delegation in gross interest and willing help bring about the consummation of this most important project.

Senator McNary, when he was at home last summer, told one of the Salem parties who helped the matter before the attention of the delegation, that he had interviewed the chiefs at Washington, and found them enthusiastic. They believe the movement is timely, and that it should have been started a long time ago.

What It Will Mean. Still water in the Willamette will mean that barges will be loaded here, to be drawn to Portland by boats or tugs, and their cargoes loaded in the stream at Portland onto ocean going vessels. It will mean freight rates perhaps as low as 5 cents a ton cost to the coast.

ICY DEATH ENDS HUNT FOR FOOD

LAKEVIEW WOMAN FOUND BESIDE FROZEN CHILDREN

Husband Away, Provisions Gone, Family Starts Out Into Blizzard. LAKEVIEW, Ore., March 14.—(AP.)—Driven by hunger from the cabin that had sheltered her, Mrs. D. W. Amburger was found tonight by posse, lying beside the bodies of her two small children whom she had tried to shelter from the terrific snowstorm that is sweeping through the mountains near here. Both tots had frozen to death. Trembling and exhausted beside them was their mother, frozen to the knees, and fighting to the end to save a remaining infant from the slow death that was creeping upon them. The woman had started out on a forage for food for the hungry children and had been overtaken by the storm. The husband and father had been gone for several days.

The frantic woman, who is about to become the mother of a fourth child, was on the verge of hysteria when found by a party of searchers who had been combing the timber for her for the past 48 hours. She had visited a farm house shortly after noon Saturday and had obtained some food there. Although Amburger returned to her cabin Saturday night, it was not until Sunday that she reported the matter to authorities and they took up the search.

For two days it had been storming almost constantly in the hills. Men who visited the woman's house said nothing to eat was found.

Amburger has been placed under guard pending his return to Lakeview. He was arrested on a charge of possession of a still and is being held under guard pending further investigation regarding the disappearance of his wife and children.

The tots who died in the storm were one and five years old.
