Did you read the log—
The log of the Salem-Dallas highway?
There is a plan for the most beautiful highway in the world, that would add millions to the value of property along the way.

The Statesman advertisers have taken a lot of space this morning—spread the paper out to 40 pages; and yet there is a lot of good matter crowded out. This is the largest regular edition of a newspaper ever published in Salem. But there will be many others. This city and country are growing.

The Slogan man is very proud of his school boys and girls who contest each week with articles on the current subject. They are a fine, bright, upstanding bunch; every one.

Salem Y free employment bureau had 198 applicants for work the past week, and found jobs for only 66 of them. But there will very soon be a different story.

You can say one thing for the Chinese; they haven't claimed that God is on their side.

Socrates was a great philosopher, but doubtless his wife took in boarders.

Man is born with certain inalienable rights, which are not worth much when he meets a big guy driving a truck on the highway.

Science note: A caterpillar can turn into a butterfly, but that's nothing. An automobile can turn turtle.

English people are not drinking enough, according to an Oxford magazine. Maybe prohibition would solve the problem.

An old-timer is a woman who remembers when she used to tie her hat down with four or five veils before going motoring.

Michigan man says crime will fall off when more people start buying their own homes. The trouble is that between punctures

WANT ADS
One of the best pages in this paper—no pictures of five dollar shoes that look like twelve dollar values but just plain desires of many people expressed in their own language.
Customers have asked us why we are not showing drawings of our new styles in our advertisements. Well, first if we did it would break us up in employing artists to make the drawings, for styles certainly are changing fast, next we would be trying to sell you one shoe and possibly that one shoe would not be at all suitable for your foot.
But with so many general patterns and combinations good today we only want to sell you our sincerity and the policy of our store.
With our unparalleled position of being daily in touch with the WALK-OVER stores in New York, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Chicago, Milwaukee and weekly with Paris, London and Brussels, we actually do give you styles ahead.
No obligation to look and inquire at—
