First Methodist W. F. M. S. Plans Entertaining Birthday Dinner for Tonight

Of special interest to men and women of the First Methodist church is the 6 o'clock covered dish dinner which the Woman's Home Missionary society will sponsor tonight.

Mrs. E. E. Gilbert is general chairman for the affair, which will be in the nature of a birthday dinner party. Tables will be arranged in an interesting manner to represent each of the four seasons—spring, summer, autumn and winter. These will be in charge of Mrs. Ronald Glover, Mrs. Alandra Hale, Mrs. P. J. Kuntz and Mrs. Jessie Lange.

Mrs. Ada Miller is responsible for the beautiful birthday cake, and Mrs. Fred Miller for the delicious meat pies.

The program following the dinner will be brief, allowing an hour of fellowship before anyone needs to leave to hear Bishop Shepard at the Leslie Methodist church.

Miss Josephine Bross will open the program with a vocal solo, and Mrs. L. L. Nelson will close it with a reading.

All men and women of the First church are cordially invited. The free-will offering will go to the building fund of the national society.

Baraca-Philatheta Class Sponsors St. Patrick's Party

The parsonage of the First Baptist church was the scene of a gay St. Patrick's party given by the Baraca-Philatheta class last Friday evening. About 60 young people were present. Miss Wilma Pratt, chairman of the social committee, cleverly carried the affair out in the form of a trip to Ireland. To start the trip the class orchestra played several American songs, and on reaching Ireland the party was welcomed with Irish selections by the orchestra. While in Ireland the party was entertained by the O'Rielly family, an original Irish play; Miss Myrtle Richardson, as the mother and her five children, Lloyd Gregg, Mary Sheldon, Edith Welborn, James Wyatt and Lavine Bulrgy. Irish games furnished further entertainment during the evening. The parsonage was tastefully decorated with the St. Patrick color scheme. Refreshments were served in the form of Shamrock ice cream and cookies, after which a few Irish songs were sung before departing for the various homes.

When You Leave Home To Travel

There will be any number of things you will wish to dispose of before leaving on your long trip,—Excess furniture, some clothing, books, the children's toys. Or perhaps you'll want to sub-let your home, or rent the garage. Take time now to write a Want Ad, giving a detailed description of the articles you have to sell and relieve yourself of household worries now and later. A well-worded Want Ad is sure to find buyers, and you'll leave home with your mind at rest and, oh yes, with your purse full.
