'ISMS' FROWNED ON

PREPAREDNESS FAVORED BY DAR AT CORVALLIS MEETING

CORVALLIS, March 25.—(AP)—Communism, bolshevism, socialism, "liberalism" and ultra-pacifism were all lumped together as radicalism to receive the frowns of the delegates to the annual state conference of the Daughters of the American Revolution who listened to an address on this subject by Miss Anna M. Lang of The Dalles, Ore., national vice president general.

A thorough campaign of education by every chapter was decided upon as necessary to acquaint the public with the seriousness of the situation as seen by the conference.

Following Miss Lang's address the conference adopted a series of resolutions previously adopted by the Woman's Patriotic Conference on National Defense, a national organization composed of 33 patriotic societies, of which the Daughters of the American Revolution is one. Miss Lang is Oregon chairman.

These resolutions indorse the general policy of preparedness, including that of the chemical warfare division, deplore the campaign against the reserve officers' training corps and citizens' military training camps, denounce the attempts to "delete our school histories of the heroism of battles and honor rolls of our valiant fighters" and indorse laws requiring all teachers of public or private schools to take the oath of allegiance to the United States.

Richard Barthelmess Barely Escapes Injury

TACOMA, March 25.—(AP)—Richard Barthelmess, star in "The Patent Leather Kid," the war scenes of which are being filmed at Camp Lewis, narrowly escaped being seriously injured late this afternoon when an armored tank almost ran him down, according to a report by an official in charge of production work at the post.

The last "shot" of the day was being taken and the wind machine, used to blow away smoke after powder charges have been exploded, had been turned off. A puff of smoke was hanging over the "set" where Barthelmess and his film associate, Arthur Stone, were at work before a camera.

A tank suddenly loomed up before the camera, missing Barthelmess by less than a foot, and plunged into a trench, persons near the scene reported.

BARRETT BROTHERS GARAGE OPENS SOON

Big Free Dance Scheduled for Tonight; Construction Work Excellent

The Barrett Brothers new garage, located at 2045 N. Capitol street, just north of the Hollywood theater, will be opened tonight with a big free dance. The floor is being especially prepared for the evening's entertainment and a fine orchestra has been secured.

The new garage building has been constructed out of re-enforced concrete and is 50 by 121 feet in size. It has a balcony and several small rooms. The front has been artistically finished and is graced with a large electric sign. Every effort has been made to make the building modern in every respect.

The proprietors will conduct in this splendid new structure an up-to-date garage. Modern conveniences have been installed and preparations made to give the very best of service possible.

Bert Townsend of 1853 N. Capitol street was the architect and contractor for the Barrett Brothers garage. He reports that just 60 days from the time the work started everything was completed. He believes this stands as a record in the community.

Mike J. Carter of 656 Center street was the plasterer in charge and an excellent class of work was done in the new structure. This part of the work was also done in record breaking time, which attests to the efficiency of the workmen employed.

CARLSON PRESENTS VIEWS ON MEXICO

President Calles Declares Country Working Out Own Salvation at Present

The conflict of Secretary Kellogg's interpretation of international law and the cause of Mexican humanity places a real problem in the hands of American citizens, according to Dr. Frank E. Carlson, pastor of Waverly Heights Congregational church, Portland, speaker at the Lions club luncheon Friday. Dr. Carlson has just returned from a comprehensive tour of Mexico, where he interviewed every possible officer of prominence.

Senator King exhibited copies of the order and subsequent correspondence between Brigadier General John Russel, high commissioner in Haiti, and General J. S. Burrill, American army officer in charge of the Haitian gendarmes, to prove that the final decision on the order rested with the American high commissioner.

When he reached Santo Domingo he said his attention was called to the order of the Haitian president barring him. The senator said he then wrote to the state department protesting the order and intimating strongly that if the state department saw fit, it could, through General Russel, have the order rescinded.

The state department's reply, Senator King said, was that it had advised President Borno, through the Haitian minister, that refusal to permit the senator to visit Haiti would result in "unpleasant consequences to all concerned."

INDEPENDENT HAITI FICTION SAYS KING

Order Barring Senator From Country Discussed in Statement on Return

NEW YORK, March 25.—(AP)—Senator William H. King, democrat of Utah, declared tonight that the refusal of the state department to have the order of President Borno barring him from Haiti withdrawn, was "an effort to keep alive the fiction of Haitian independence" and had only served "to focus the attention of Americans upon the domination of this government in Haitian affairs."

In an interview at the Hotel Pennsylvania, after he had disembarked from the United States transport St. Mihel, on which he came from Santo Domingo, Senator King said that, if the state department had so desired, it could have compelled the Haitian president to withdraw his order.

Senator King exhibited copies of the order and subsequent correspondence between Brigadier General John Russel, high commissioner in Haiti, and General J. S. Burrill, American army officer in charge of the Haitian gendarmes, to prove that the final decision on the order rested with the American high commissioner.

When he reached Santo Domingo he said his attention was called to the order of the Haitian president barring him. The senator said he then wrote to the state department protesting the order and intimating strongly that if the state department saw fit, it could, through General Russel, have the order rescinded.

The state department's reply, Senator King said, was that it had advised President Borno, through the Haitian minister, that refusal to permit the senator to visit Haiti would result in "unpleasant consequences to all concerned."
