

Memorial Tribute To Pauline Looney

(By Judge Peter H. D'Arcy.) In the recent death of Miss Pauline Looney of Jefferson, one of the noted pioneer women of Oregon passed from this life to the unknown shore. She was a member of the Looney family, who have occupied such an important position in the affairs of our county and state. Jesse Looney and Ruby Looney, his wife, the father and mother of Miss Pauline Looney, were immigrants to the Oregon Country in 1842. It will be eighty-two years on the 9th day of next April since Miss Looney was born in Marion county.

ters, Mr. Frances Cornell and Mrs. A. J. Fairbanks, were three of the most prominent society women in Marion county, when it was a boy. For their beauty and exceptional qualities and charming manner they were the belles of all entertainments and parties in which the young people participated. The years have brought their sorrow to each one of them, but the pioneer spirit has sustained them in all the trials and vicissitudes which they have encountered. Miss Looney was one of those who could truly say: I always plucked a thistle and planted a flower where I thought a flower would grow. Miss Looney lived long beyond the Biblical period allotted to us, with bright hopes for the future and eternal rest from all troubles and cares of this life. Sincere in her beliefs, she solved the earthly problems, as her best judgment pointed out the way. One by one the old landmarks of pioneer days are passing away. One by one the links which connect a splendid past with the present are severed. All that is mortal of Miss Pauline Looney lies buried in the Looney family cemetery in this county, near the home of her youth and later years. Miss Looney had been an invalid for several years. Prior to her illness she was very active in all matters that tended for the betterment of the people. Born in 1845, she grew up with the history of Oregon and felt a special interest in its progress and development. Miss Looney took a great interest in pioneer meetings and our annual state fairs. At the first state fair held in Salem she was awarded a handsome saddle in a ladies contest for riding, being an expert rider. She could handle a horse second to none among the splendid horsewomen of pioneer times. In the old days the stage line, which operated between Portland and California, stopped to change horses at the Looney farm, near Jefferson. My recollection of this is quite vivid. Miss Pauline Looney, her sisreinforcements. Another regiment of marines, 1500 strong, has been ordered rushed across the Pacific, to his aid. They will be followed, it called for, by whatever other forces are necessary to extend protection to beleaguered Americans. The text of the call for help was not made public. It came as word from Rear Admiral Hough at Nanking of the rescue of the last known American victim of outrages by troops in Cantonese uniform, was being tapped out over the radio. What reason Admiral Williams assigned for his request that the marine contingent at Shanghai be doubled with all possible speed is not known, but the dread that what happened yesterday at Nanking may be repeated tomorrow at Hankow, at Chinkiang, at any other river port controlled by the Cantonese, ran through every official message from China that came in today. From Peking Minister McMurray advised the state department that he had directed consulates in nationalist controlled territory to make every effort to evacuate Americans "in view of the demonstrated inability or unwillingness on the part of the nationalist authorities to protect American lives." From Hankow, Consul General Lockhart reported Americans being embarked for the coast and a tense feeling was present. From Shanghai itself, the great center of American activities in China and the place of refuge for those fleeing from Nanking and other interior ports, Consul General Gecas reported the situation "very tense." "The greatest precautions to insure safety for foreigners are being taken," he said. Gecas also reported on critical conditions at the river ports of Kiangsyr, Taichow, Chiao, Cheng and Chinkiang. A destroyer has been sent from Shanghai in an effort to bring off in safety the Presbyterian missionary group at the former and the Seventh Day Adventists at the latter. Cross Meat Market. The tower, of solid brick construction, standing on Belfortstrasse, has been out of commission for some 15 years, supplanted by more modern methods of water distribution. Its circular shape made the arrangement of the rooms somewhat difficult, but the architects have turned out as satisfactory a job in this particular as could be reasonably expected. John Trumbull, prominent painter of revolutionary days, that his body lie beneath his paintings, is likely to be frustrated by the building of an addition to the Yale Art Museum. Col. Trumbull's grave is marked by a stone slab under collection of his works in the cellar of the museum. The intention now is to move the collection to the new building across the street, without moving the dust of the painter. The collection includes paintings of revolutionary battles and state occasions and miniatures and portraits of historic personages, among them George Washington.

WELL LIKED SALEM MAN PASSES AWAY

Sorrill Home Radiated Good Cheer, Friendliness and Love for Others

William Sorrill was born September 30th, 1843 near Bromsgrove, Worcestershire, England, where his early life was spent. As was the custom he was bound out as apprentice to a cabinet maker when a very young boy but he always had a love for the soil and preferred to help his father till the land. In June, 1868 he was united in marriage to Miss Sarah Ann Young. In March, 1870, the Sorrill family consisting of the father, Henry Sorrill and his wife, the son William Sorrill and his wife, with two younger brothers, Henry and Thomas, emigrated from England to the United States and settled near Jacksonville, Ill. In March, 1883, William Sorrill and his wife moved to York, Nebraska, going onto a farm there and eleven years later, in 1894, he was bereft of the wife. In June 1896 he was united in marriage to Miss Sadie White, of Jacksonville, Ill., and later sold the farm in Nebraska, moving to Salem, Oregon, in 1908, where he has lived ever since near the Englewood school. He was converted over 50 years ago and united with the Methodist Episcopal church at Shiloh on the Jacksonville Circuit, and has ever been a consistent Christian, loved and respected where ever known. In January, 1926, he suffered a paralytic stroke from which he never fully recovered, on February 10th, 1927, the wife, Sadie, died. She had given a year of most devoted care to the frail husband and was not able to survive an attack of flu and pneumonia. Mr. Sorrill passed from this life, March 23rd at the age of 83 years 5 months and 24 days, he leaves two brothers, Henry of Jacksonville, Ill., and Thomas of Quincy, Ill. Mrs. Sorrill was born January 27th, 1869 at Jacksonville, Ill., and spent her early life there uniting with the Baptist church at the age of 14 years and going into the Methodist church after her marriage to Mr. Sorrill. She left two sisters, Mrs. Jessie Spencer of Topeka, Kansas, and Mrs. Lottie Parker of Omaha, Nebraska, besides nieces and nephews. The home thus so recently broken up will be but a memory to the hosts of friends. Mr. and Mrs. Sorrill while they had no family had room in the heart and home for every one. They were both of the happy cheerful Christian type who always make warm friends and especially were they ever near by in time of need and sorrow, to give of themselves and their sympathy. Of the York, Nebraska, friends many had come to Salem too, to make their home and to them were Mr. and Mrs. Sorrill especially dear. Uniting with the First Methodist church upon settling in Salem, they soon found their place and work in the church where they will be greatly missed. Then too, they filled a large place in the Englewood community where they have lived nearly 20 years, always being of the first ones to greet and welcome new comers. The home radiated sunshine, love and good cheer and was filled with flowers grown and cared for by Mr. and Mrs. Sorrill and so gladly shared with every one. In the passing on of these two noble people the friends and neighbors feel a very great loss. No one could come in touch with their lives without receiving help in some way. They got so much out of life for they were always giving to others. The remains rest in the Jason Lee cemetery and thus they both have entered upon the life beyond. Mrs. Spencer, the sister of Mrs. Sorrill, and T. G. Sorrill, the nephew of Mr. Sorrill who have been here the past six weeks, express their appreciation of the loving sympathy expressed in words and flowers at this time.—Contributed. Com'l (*) Mule Adopts and Mothers Baby Calf; Inseparable COLLEGE STATION, Tex.—(AP)—A mare mule on the ranch of Will J. Rutledge of Kenedy, Texas, has adopted and mothered a baby calf. When the calf was only two or three days old, the mule, at the age of fifteen, literally took it away from its Brahma mother and nourished it. The pair are inseparable companions after four months association. Agricultural college authorities here say that the unusual feature in this case is the ability of the calf's foster mother to give milk to its adopted off-spring. The calf has grown fat.

Cafeteria Diners Placed on Many German Railroads

BERLIN (AP)—Cafeteria dining cars on special week-end vacation trains of the German Railway administration are being tried out in the winter sports resorts of Bavaria. If successful, they will be extended throughout the country this summer. On a stretch of Bavarian railway there has been attached a so-called "kitchen car," which is fitted out, not like the more aristocratic dining cars, but with a kitchen range and plain tables. A cook is busy at the range getting ready steaming hot frankfurters, and sauerkraut and similar dishes, and every passenger helps himself on the cafeteria plan. The ration is to be consumed at the tables, which are without tablecloths or napkins. In so far as there is room on the range, travelers can warm their own coffee or dishes that they have brought along. Buster Brown Shoe Store. MODERN SOLOMON TAKES 40TH WIFE

Ruler of Zulu Nation Passes Up Previous 39 for Real "Love Match" JOHANNESBURG.—(AP)—King Solomon of the Zulu Nation has just emulated his Biblical namesake by taking a fortieth wife. At the ceremony he stated it was to be his last wedding, since this was really and truly a love match. It was love at first sight, they say, when King Solomon met Zondi, daughter of Shembe, a Christian Zulu prophet. The royal lovers were married under a Christian marriage ceremony at high noon in a forest glade. Shortly after the sun reached its zenith, the shy bride was led from the women's quarters by her attendants. She wore a sky-blue pleated, brocaded skirt surmounted by a shimmering, white silk jumper heavily fringed. On her head was a crown of Madonnablu silk. A dainty gold ring hung in her nose. The King was nattily attired in the orthodox top hat, morning coat, grey striped trousers, patent leather shoes and suede gloves. He carried, with great pride, the walking stick recently presented to him by the Prince of Wales. Under the Hymeneal canopy, the prophet Shembe spoke of the law of the Zulu kings and the expectations of the people for a royal heir. To the marriage vows, pledged by joined hands laid on top of a Bible, Zondi's replies were inaudible but Solomon's "Yebo" was reverent and decisive. After the ceremony the King rose, tucked his wife's hand under his arm and escorted her away amid shouts of "Solomon wandhla, Solomon wandhla."
