Miss Jane Hillpot Becomes Bride on Monday at Ambassador Apartments

An exceedingly attractive bride in the early spring season was Miss Jane Hillpot, whose marriage to Mr. Charles C. Breckenridge of Boise, Idaho, was solemnized at 6 o'clock Monday evening, March 28. The wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lucas (Genevieve Campbell) at The Ambassador. Rev. Martin Forshethian was the officiating clergyman.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Ray Lucas and by Mrs. Harold Mero (Irene Larsen) as bridesmaids. Mrs. Lucas was lovely in a frock of ashes of roses georgette, elaborately embroidered. Mrs. Mero was charming in rose-ann georgette. Both attendants wore corsages of violets, freesias and roses. Mr. Harold Mero attended the groom as best man.

The bride, who is a beautiful blonde, chose midnight blue Canton crepe for her wedding gown. Gorgeous embroidery motifs and rich shirring added to the beauty of the costume, which was worn with a small crepe hat. The bride carried an elaborate shower bouquet of bride's roses, freesias, violets and cream sweet peas.

The ceremony took place against a background of butterfly roses, daffodils and carnations.

At 7 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Lucas entertained Mr. and Mrs. Breckenridge at dinner. Covers were placed for Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Breckenridge (Jane Hillpot), Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mero (Irene Larsen) and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lucas (Genevieve Campbell). A lovely bowl of tulips, roses and freesias centered the table on which tall yellow tapers glowed.

Following the dinner an informal reception was held for the young couple and a group of 30 of their friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Breckenridge are spending several days in Salem as the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lucas. Early in April they will go to Portland to make their home, where Mr. Breckenridge is associated with the Northwest Electric company.

Mrs. Breckenridge is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. L. Hillpot. Mr. Breckenridge is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Breckenridge of Boise.

Mrs. Breckenridge, who has been an intimate friend of her girlhood, passed through all her girlhood, a graduate of the Salem high school with the class of '23. Mr. Breckenridge, a University of Idaho man, is a member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

Veterans of Foreign Wars Plan Fine Program for Get-Together at Armory

Singing, music and a minstrel show will be the main features of the spring-time social which will be staged by the Veterans of Foreign Wars tonight, March 30, at the armory. This affair is staged primarily as a get-together of Marion post and its auxiliary.

Miss Dorothy Brant will sing, while as to the music and minstrel, the committee in charge refuses to divulge any names. There will be some of the same noted edibles that the post has had heretofore, and the ladies are bringing baskets that will be auctioned in the old popular way.

The meeting will be held at the armory in the veterans' room and will be opened with a brief address of welcome by one of the best speakers on the Pacific coast. In fact those in charge of the affair has spared no expense nor effort in arranging for an enjoyable time.

In addition to the fun assured and the lunches to be served it is understood that non-members attending will not be asked to become members at this occasion—it, fact it is expected that will not be considered as necessary.

American Legion Auxiliary Sponsors Another Successful Benefit Affair

Another enjoyable card party in the series which the American Legion auxiliary is sponsoring with such consistent success was an event of Monday night in McCornack hall.

Cyneraria and hydrangeas in shades of orchid, decorated the rooms.

The bridge prize of the evening went to Mrs. G. W. Shoemaker. Mrs. Frances Randall won the prize at five-hundred.

Special entertainment was given by two boys, Kenneth Allen and Eddie Burnside.

The committee for the evening included Mrs. Kink Bartlett, Mrs. Norval Jones, Mrs. Guy Young, Mrs. Frank Jirak and Mrs. Chalmers George.

Those playing at the tables were Mrs. Norval Jones, Mrs. Guy Young, Mrs. Frank Jirak, Mrs. Chalmers George, Mrs. G. B. Shoemaker, Mrs. R. C. Stevenin, Mrs. Lloyd Demarest, Mrs. J. R. George, committee; Mrs. King Bartlett, Mrs. James Jennings, Mrs. F. M. Moore, Mrs. Karl Hinges, Mrs. Edwin Viesko, Mrs. Richard Meyer, Mrs. Paul Burris, Mrs. C. L. Newman, Miss Elsie Victor, Mrs. L. "Snow-White and the Dwarfs" Is Given Enthusiastic Reception

The Parrish Puppet Players, youthful amateurs, who are in reality members of the 8-A class at Parrish junior high school, opened a three-day engagement yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in room 23. The performance was greatly enjoyed by a capacity audience. Fifty were turned away and invited to return for the same program at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Miss Vivian Hargrove, art instructor at Parrish junior high school, directed the marvelously clever project. The boys of the class fashioned the stage sets, and the girls, the puppets and their appropriate costumes.

Each of the five acts was a tiny gem of histrionic merit.

The stage properties, notably the cherry-red spool bed, and the little "fnis" dog, were delightful. Perhaps the most notable role of all was that of a piquant and versatile "Snow-White," taken by Elaine McCarroll, who sang softly and executed her strings with fine gradations of feeling.

Assisting the leading young dramatist were Orville Hale, as Redbeard; Pansy Slavens as Queen; Mildred Tully as the mirror; Wava Wilson as the prince; Siviter Horn as the first dwarf; John Barker as the second dwarf; and George Williams as the third dwarf and Mary Jane Lau as the dog.

Myrtle Burk was in charge of the advertising; Claude Cross of the stage sets; Alberta Causey had the responsible role of wardrobe mistress.

Last summer Mrs. McClean conducted a cooking school of a similar nature in La Grande. The project, which was most successful, included not only the preparation of the food, but also the setting of the table and the serving of the various dishes.

Donie Bush Bans Liquor and Golf

Pittsburgh Pirates Chief Has Simple but Strict Training Rules

PASO ROBLES, Cal.—(AP)—Donie Bush, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, has been actively identified with baseball activity for 22 years, but he has no ready-made recipe for turning out pennant winners. His system is "to win one game at a time, forget yesterday, and not worry about tomorrow."

He has very definite rules, however, in the handling of a baseball club. Here is a brief sketch of his regulations:

No golf on baseball playing days.

No liquor drinking.

No later bed time than 11 p. m.

Bush says his objection to golf "is not on account of its supposed interference with batting form."

"I don't know so much about that, but I do know that a man cannot be at his best in a ball game if he has tired himself out beforehand doing something else," the manager asserts.

"My training rules are few and
