The Salem Boys' Chorus, the Schubert Octette, and the high school girls' chorus, have all been secured by the Spanish War Veterans to appear on an outstanding program which the organization will sponsor on Friday, April 15, at the Armory.

The proceeds from the affair will pay for the colors which the Veterans have recently selected.

Heretofore, the Camp has distributed its funds in relief work, leaving nothing for the purchase of suitable uniforms. This season the Veterans decided to assure themselves of appropriate uniforms first of all, for use in patriotic parades.

Other attractive musical numbers will be featured. Of special interest will be the series of musical stunts. Prizes will be awarded.

The public is invited to patronize the program a week from Friday.

Notes Concerning Mary Schultz, Salem Violinist, are Received With Pleasure

The following information concerning Mary Schultz, brilliant violinist, and former Salem girl, has been happily received for publication.

That Mary Schultz, violinist, a native of Salem, has gone far in the art, is evidenced by the many laurels she has received from the critics of the cosmopolitan city on her recent performances. "Mary" has had the distinction to be selected as assisting artist for three leading singers, Evelyn Chelborg, soprano; Miriam Moreman, soprano, and Louis Caton, tenor.

Miss Schultz's first New York appearance with the Misses Chelborg, soprano, and Barrett, organist, at the Wanamaker auditorium inspired the critic to chronicle the following:

Three girls combine talents in afternoon program. Mary Schultz, whose work is familiar to radio audiences through the broadcasting of the federation of churches program, has distinct gifts as a violinist and played with a delicate precision of tone and technical assurance."—Herald Tribune.

Facing a most critical audience Tuesday evening, March 22, in Stamford, Conn., the Stamford Advocate writes: "Miss Schultz, the young violinist assisting in the program of Miss Moreman, soprano, can be classed high in the ranks of violinists. She is an artist with a soul." In rendering her numbers she ran the gamut of emotions.

On Thursday of the same week Mary appeared before one of the largest audiences in her career at the Town Hall, New York City, assisting the Steel Mill Tenor.

Here are a few comments from the cosmopolitan dailies:

"Mary Schultz made her debut as an assisting artist and revealed definite promise as a violinist."—Evening World.

"Mary Schultz assisted with violin solos which she had to endure."—New York Times.

"Mary Schultz displayed technical ability and a good tone."—Herald Tribune.

Charles Albert Baker, one of America's foremost pianists, was accompanist for Miss Schultz.

Forty-One Guests Are Honored At Heritage Banquet at First Methodist

Forty-one girls, most of whom were Standard Bearers, were guests at the Heritage Banquet, given by the Woman's Foreign Missionary society at the First Methodist church, Tuesday evening. The parlors of the church were attractively decorated, the colors of the two societies, blue and gold for the W. F. M. S. and dark blue and white for the S. B. society, predominated in the color scheme. The pennant of each society hung on the pillars at the front of the rostrum, white streamers of blue and crepe paper hung between them and at the back of the rostrum were the Service Flag and Clock Roll of the Standard Bearer society.

On the rostrum, also, was a basket of flags of different countries, where missionaries are at work, while keeping watch over all was a large silk American flag.

Six long tables were beautifully spread for the banquet, dark blue candles in crystal holders matched the blue strips of crepe, while lovely daffodils and golden bells added to the beauty. Mesdames E. T. Barnes, M. C. Findley, J. W. Phenecio, P. F. Stolzeise, B. Blatchford and Almira Hale, were in charge of all arrangements, Mrs. R. V. Hollenberg and Mrs. A. A. Lee of the program. In a unique way each woman found her guest a Standard Bearer girl, and then marched to the tables, Mrs. R. V. Hollenberg, president of the local auxiliary, was toast-mistress for the occasion and in a cordial way welcomed the guests of the evening.

Vocal duet—Mildred Cook, Dorothy Taylor.

Short talks on the three missionaries supported by the Standard Bearers of Columbia River Branch were given by Miss Adella Chapler on Bernice Cornelison, working in Argentine, South America; Mrs. O. L. Clark, on Miss Laura Austin, working in India; Miss Adona Cochran on Miss Marie Church, at Seoul, Korea. Piano solo—Doris Phenecio.

The Last Will and Testament of the W. F. M. S. was read to the girls by Mrs. M. B. Paroungian.

Nineteen Standard Bearers, our co-legaees, then gave an interesting number, as each one held an artistically designed card, representing each of the 19 countries where our 795 missionaries are at work, naming some of them in piano solo—Eugenia Savage, the soloist.

Neva Stolzeise, as teacher, assisted by a class of 8, conducted a quiz on the study book just completed, "Gall Hollister's Heritage."

The last number on the program was the nicely rendered song, "The King's Highway," sung by all Standard Bearer girls.

STIRRING DAYS AT SEA FOR LEGIONNAIRES

sheets and at their finger tips will be a bell to summon polite and attentive stewards. Instead of stealing lightness and fearfully through mined and submarine infested waters as in wartime, the big ocean liners of the second A. E. F. will blaze with light and resound with merriment from stem to stern.

On the Legion trip the steward will not begin pummeling at your door until the seasonable hour of 8:30, and then you needn't pay attention unless you choose. The veteran will leisurely crawl from between the white sheets and after dressing take a dip in the salt water swimming pool just around the corner. After that comes a turn on deck in the bracing sea breeze and then bacon, ham, eggs, grape fruit, and coffee served by the spotlessly dressed stewards in the dainty breakfast room. There will be white linen and shiny silverware on the tables. The days new, received by radio, and printed in the ship's paper, will be placed at the table. There will be absolute freedom of the ship on the second trip over.

After breakfast will come a turn about the ship, and a glimpse of the waves surging about the bow. Games of shuffleboard, tennis, quoits, golf and aquatic sports will start early in the day on the spacious decks. Dancing to the music of numerous Legion bands will be in good form at anytime, day or evening, on the decks.

Most of the ships will carry a recreation director who will keep letic contests every day, with keen things moving. Concerts and rivalry between states and individual posts of the state will add zest to the trip. The skipper will be there with his gold braid, the call of the watch will be heard from the crow's nest and there will be sailors to swab the life boats and polish the brass instead of doughboys as in the war days.

An appetizing luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock. In the afternoons some of the veterans will seek the ever popular smoking room or well stocked library. Others will bask in the sun or loll in deck chairs while they listen to the orchestra. A game of bridge here, an amateur photographer there, and attentive stewards serving bullion will be familiar scenes in the afternoon. Tea will be served at 4 o'clock. Then late afternoon and sunset, all will gaze over the glistening stretches of water, with faces ruddy in the reflected glow.

The Legionnaires will then make their way to the spacious dining saloon. The cuisine there will be far beyond the fondest dreams of the doughboys of war days. Dainty and appetizing foods in many courses will be served by the polite stewards. The menu will carry everything from Hors d'Oeuvres to Demi Tasse and will be equal if not surpassing that of the most fashionable hotels.

In the evening, peaceful decks, veterans stretched languidly in deck chairs, couples, arm in arm, walking slowly, dreaming and whispering, the shuffling of feet as the couples move in the moonlight to the rhythm of a ship's orchestra playing a waltz, or fox-trot. Then comes the hours of merriment, known to those who have attended Legion conventions in the past. Veterans outdoing each other in their good natured stunts and impromptu parades. At a late hour the veterans will break away from their friends of the sea voyage and seek their state rooms. Pressing a button an attentive steward will bob into your room for an order of fruit. In a few seconds he is back with a silver platter heaped high with oranges, apples, tangerines, and bananas. After sometime spent reading the latest magazine issues the sway of the ship over the crests and into the hollows of the waves to the vibration of the giant propellers will lull veterans to sleep. Then will come dreams of France and the days of the first A. E. F.

Ocean liners of seven great trans-Atlantic steamship lines will participate in the movement of Legionnaires. They are: The United States Lines; Canadian Pacific Line; Cunrad-Anchor Lines; French Line; Holland America Line; the International Mercantile Marine Company; and the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company.

An attractive two-color "On to Paris" steamship folder showing the animated deck scenes and an exterior view of the ship assigned to the particular state delegation has been prepared. The folder will be sent upon request made either to the Department France Convention Officer whose address is given above or to the France Convention Committee, National Headquarters, The American Legion, Indianapolis, Ind.

EDUCATORS DECLARE MUSIC "ESSENTIAL"

soon, 10 French horns, 11 trumpets, six tubas, twelve harps and five percussion instruments and organ. Besides the appearance of the complete orchestra, the string choir appeared in two special programs, and a multiple string quartet and a symphonic band was also heard. The players in the large orchestra were chosen from a much larger number recommended by local supervisors of instrumental music. Their expenses were paid by boards of education or by other local organizations.

Conducting the various groups were Joseph E. Maddy, of Ann Arbor, for the full orchestra; E. B. Gordon, Madison, Wis., for the string choir; W. W. Norton, Flint, Mich., the symphonic band, and Theodore Linberg, Wichita, Kans., the multiple string quartet. Among the numbers played by the orchestra were the first movement of Beethoven's "Eroica" symphony, the Finale of Tschwaikowsky's "Pathetique" and the "Capriccio Espagnol" of Rimsky-Korsakoff.

Addresses of endorsement of music were given before the convention by W. F. Webster, superintendent of school at Minneapolis; J. H. Newton and H. S. West, superintendents of Denver and Rochester, respectively; T. W. Butched, president of State Teachers' college, Emporia, Kan.;

Florence M. Hale, state agent of rural education, Augusta, Maine; Dr. Phlander P. Claxton, ex-commissioner of education, and T. E. Finigan, former commissioner of education in Pennsylvania.
