DISTRICT TITLE WON BY LOCALS

The Whitman Comrade club basketball team of the Presbyterian church of Salem won the Willamette Valley Comrade championship Monday night by defeating the Koala club of Eugene on the local YMCA floor, 43 to 20. A week ago the local team had won from a Portland team.

The game was hard fought despite the disparity in the score. Dwight Adams was high point man for the local team and Donald led the Eugene players in looping the basket.

The Bungalow Christian church Cormades defeated the Jason Lee Comrades the same evening, 23 to 21 in a game which required an extra three minute period to decide. Bell of Jason Lee was high point man with 13 points.

Workings on Santiam Give Indication of Success, Stated

Much good, both in encouraging legitimate and promising mining ventures and in preventing "wildcat" schemes, could be done in Salem if the chamber of commerce would add to its committees one on mining, the members were told Monday noon by William J. Elmendorf, president of the Seattle Mining club and consulting engineer for many northwest projects including the company which is developing copper workings on the Santiam.

All indications point to success for the mines on the Santiam, Elmendorf summed up after explaining the situation there. No extensive amount of paying ore has been found yet, but the tunnels se far worked, contain "leached" veins which almost invariably Orpheum, Pantages and Western mean rich deposits at lower levels circuits having made their first because the copper compounds run appearances on the Bligh have been dissolved and have sunk to a greater depth.
