

RUNS TWO LEAGUES, FARM AND BUSINESS

Topeka, Kansas, April 16.—Although he runs two baseball circuits, Dale Gear, president of the Western league and the Western association, finds time to be a farmer, a lawyer and a manufacturer.

Gear is the owner and manager of a company which produces a breakfast food. This enterprise fits in with the care of two baseball leagues, since the dull season on the mill and the busy season on the diamond come at the same time.

While Gear's baseball interests are extensive, his farming is intensive. He raises grapes and small fruits on a ten-acre tract. His agricultural income compares well with that of farmers who cultivate larger areas.

Gear acquired law with baseball. He pitched his way through law school. In the summers of the early nineties he did the hurling for a Winfield, Kansas, club, thereby earning the money needed to keep him at the University of Kansas during the remainder of the year.

Oscar's right arm became an asset of Fort Worth in the Texas league in 1896. The following year it served Cleveland in the old National league. In 1898 it helped win the Western league pennant for the Kansas City Blues.

Later Gear managed the Kansas City club for three seasons. About a decade ago he tried to devote his attention exclusively to law, breakfast food and such things. But he longed for a part in the affairs of the diamond.

The Pacific Steamship company announces their purchase of two modern up-to-date steamers to operate between Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego. These two steamers, the "Mary Weems" and "Ester Weems" are now operating on the East Coast between Baltimore, Philadelphia and Miami and were owned by the Baltimore & Carolina S. S. company.

Three decks will be devoted to passenger service, the top deck having staterooms, promenade space and an observation room; the second, or upper deck, has a commodious lounge and a comfortable smoking room in addition to numerous public baths; and on the main deck is located the dining room and staterooms.

the "Admiral Peoples," and the "Ester Weems," will become the "Admiral Benson," and will operate on the Portland-California route in conjunction with the steamers "Admiral Dewey" and "Admiral Schley," now on that route, and furnishing two sailings a week between Portland and the south.
