The House That Service Built

Latest photos of Bartolomeo Vanzetti (left) and Nicola Sacco, whose sentence of death, pronounced by Judge Thayer of Dedham, Mass., has renewed virtual world-wide protests against their conviction on July 14, of murdering a paymaster. The state supreme court has just upheld this conviction and the date of execution has been named as the week of July 19. The protests assert the two men were convicted during anti-radical hysteria and on prejudiced and flimsy evidence, the convicted men having taken part in radical movements.

George Mack Passes in Los Angeles; Was Deputy County Clerk Here

George Mack died in Los Angeles on Tuesday, April 19th. He leaves his wife, Loru, daughter of Mrs. M. N. Chapman of Salem, and two daughters, Mrs. A. K. Parker of Enterprise, Oregon, and Mrs. Hugh Gibson of Santa Ana, Cal., and two grandsons, Knox Parker and Mack Gibson, besides his mother and sister living in California. He was aged 65 years.

Mr. Mack had not been well for a long time, and he died in a Los Angeles hospital following an operation for a chronic stomach trouble. As a young man, he lived in Silverton and Salem, and was very well known and popular here. He was deputy county clerk of Marion county in the late eighties and early nineties, when M. N. Chapman was county clerk, and Loru Chapman, afterwards his wife, was also a deputy.

Mr. Mack was a favorite in musical and other circles of Salem in the old days, being a member of the band of those times. He was in charge of the First National Bank of Joseph, Oregon, for a number of years before going to Los Angeles, where the family has lived for a long time, and where Mr. Mack was well known and prominent in business life.

There is no one among Marion county old timers who will not regret the passing of Mr. Mack, nor one who will not wish to be included in expressions of sympathy for his bereaved relatives.

Sawdust Ear Most Common Ailment Among Movie Folk

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—(AP)—A sawdust ear is one of the commonest occupational ailments of the movies.

Among the hundreds of carpenters, millworkers and set builders never seen on the screen, but nevertheless vitally important in the pictures, sawdust in the ears or eyes is the commonest complaint treated by studio physicians.

The players, of course, have their own group of ailments, ranging from "kissy eyes," a painful burning of the eyeballs and lids caused by powerful lights, to hyper-emotionalism, explains Dr. H. J. Strathearn, a physician, who is called plain hysteria by the family doctor. It sometimes follows intense love-scenes.

The professor was putting the finishing touches on the sidewalk he was laying down. Tommy, age six, had been watching the proceedings with great interest, and at length deemed the time right for trial, started to cross before the mixture had time to dry.

When the professor displayed some slight pique, a passerby observed: "Why, professor, I thought you liked children."

"I like 'em all right in the abstract," the professor replied, "but not in the concrete."

HIGH SCHOOL PLAY READY FOR STAGE

"The Youngest" to Be Presented at School Auditorium Friday Evening

"The Youngest," by Phillip Barrie, one of the very finest dramas which high school students can attempt, has been chosen by the senior class of the Salem High school for presentation tomorrow night in the school auditorium.

Herman Kehrl, of the history and public speaking departments, is coaching the nine young dramatists who comprise the cast.

The plot concerns the financial outgrowth of an old will with which Richard Winslow, "The Youngest," has found he has a
