April 26, 1927 And he that reapeth receiveth wages and gathereth fruit unto life eternal; that both he that soweth and he that reapeth may rejoice together. And herein is that saying true, One soweth and another reapeth.—St. John 4:36-37.

SAWING WOOD, SELLING PRUNES

That is a very welcome summary, printed in The Statesman of this morning—

The summary of a meeting of the directors of the North Pacific Cooperative Prune exchange, at which it was found that all its 13,000,000 pounds of dried prunes of its grower members, for the 1926 crop year, are sold, and the last of them will be packed before the end of the month.

Moses P. Adams, Salem district director of the exchange, says the managers of that prune cooperative have been minding their own business and sawing wood—in other words, packing and selling prunes—

And they have been doing this at a very low cost; less than three-quarters of a cent a pound to the grower members for packing, and not to exceed half a cent a pound for office overhead.

The managers of the big cooperative are planning a new membership campaign. They hope to handle 20,000,000 pounds of the dried prunes produced this year.

They have made a good impression with the 1926 product on the consumer markets in this country, in England and Scotland and Canada and elsewhere.

This is all very good, constructive work. It shows the way out for the Oregon prune industry, with a superior product, intelligently packed and properly marketed, with a chance at repeat orders this year and during the years of the future.

Extend such methods over the whole industry, with a near 100 per cent loyal membership of the growers, and the Oregon prune industry will be stabilized, and stay that way.

Y. W. C. A. COMMUNITY HOUSE

The Salem Y. W. C. A. owns two acres of land two miles above Mehama, near Taylor's grove. This land was deeded to the Y W by Jos. H. Albert—

And the Salem Y W has on hand $308.35, the balance of a fund donated by the Salem Lions club, after some surveying and other expenses in connection with the two acres were paid—

And now the directors of the Y W are planning to add to this $308.35 fund. They hope to make it $1000 within the next few days, in order that a building may be erected—

And they plan for a camp house 40 by 50-feet, with a good roof and a good floor, the balance for the present to be open, with provisions for closing with canvas or other material during stormy weather.

They hope to add sleeping cabins later. Then the building planned now can be finished for an assembly hall—

And some day they hope to have a big log house and other buildings that will go with a large community camp—

But the thing now is to get the first building up, ready for the summer season that is coming on.

The ladies are planning a rummage sale and candy and cooked food sale, for the last three days of this week, as noted in the news columns—

And the whole city ought to help them in this, in furnishing materials and buying them—

And it would not be amiss for some good people to add cash gifts—

Because the matter is urgent. Summer is almost here. This is to be a community camp house, where all women, whether Y. W. C. A. members or not, will be made welcome.

See that the good women of the Y W get the total of $1000 needed, quickly—

And this will be a good start. Sleeping cabins may be added later, and some day a huge log house, and all the other things going to make up a great summer camp for this organization—

And then, some fine day, a magnificent building all its own for the Salem Y. W. C. A.

TURNING TO B. C.

The Utah-Idaho Sugar company, for which a campaign was carried on in the Salem district last fall, with a view to getting sugar beets grown here in considerable acreage, looking to a factory next year, is now being invited over into British Columbia, where a factory is proposed.

This company already has a factory in the Alberta district, Canada, and, as most readers know, a large and growing factory at Bellingham, Wash.

We must have beet sugar factories in the Willamette valley; many of them.

There is no other one thing that will do as much in developing dairying and swine breeding and the live stock industry generally here—

No other one thing that will add so much to our agricultural wealth, and, by the same sign, the solid growth and prosperity of our cities and towns.

The man who imagines the movement will not persist for sugar factories here in the Salem district is short sighted. It is unthinkable that this opportunity for community development should be abandoned or neglected. It must be pursued, and will be.

Mail service is put back on the Southern Pacific train leaving Salem for Portland at 1:05. This will give distribution the same day in Portland and towns further north, and it will give quick connections for eastern points. That is a very welcome announcement. Get your letters to the post-office by 12 noon. See news item.

The skimmed milk that California dairies and creameries were glad to dispose of a few years ago at almost any price now serves as a foundation for a gigantic industry; the powdered milk industry. There are now eleven plants salvaging this product and transforming it into a manufactured article that goes all over the world. One concern produces twelve to fifteen million pounds annually of this and other milk by-products. Washington has two such plants, and Oregon one. The Willamette valley ought to have scores of such plants. Will have, as soon as the beet sugar industry is developed, as it must be.

Red Cross fund lagging— Ought to be speeded up and finished today.

The Y. M. C. A. managers are at work completing the $1000 fund for the community house near Mehama. This is urgent. Everyone must help.

Golden Gate Ferry Boat Rammed by Steamer, Sinks

SAN FRANCISCO, April 25.—(AP)—The ferry boat Golden City was cutting her way full speed ahead across San Francisco bay on Sunday night; 40 seconds before she was rammed by the steamer Newport, moving into the harbor under a slow bell, the engine room crew of the ferry testified before a federal inquiry here today.

While the investigation was going on parts of the wrecked ferry boat drifted about the bay and beyond the bar. The hull itself plunged to the bottom early today while a tug was attempting to tow it ashore. The tow line was severed with an axe to prevent the wreck from dragging the tug down with it.

The loss, estimated at $250,000 is covered by insurance.

STATE RESTRAINED IN FISH BILL CASE

Temporary Order Issued; Law Violates U. S. Constitution, Alleged

PORTLAND, April 25.—(AP) A temporary restraining order enjoining the fish commission of the state of Oregon from enforcing the law passed by the people last November governing commercial fishing on the Columbia river, and known as the "anti-fish wheel bill," was signed today by Federal Judge John McNary.

The action of the federal court followed the filing of a suit by P. H. McGowan of Pacific county, Wash., against I. H. Van Winkle, attorney general of Oregon; John C. Veatch, Fred P. Kendall and C. A. Leinenweber, members of the state fish commission, and M. T. Hoy, master fish warden for Oregon.

It was alleged in the complaint that the law as passed by the people in November is in conflict with several sections and amendments of the constitution of the United States and that it is in specific conflict with a compact between Oregon and Washington, approved by other guards stationed within, by congress, relative to the regulation of fishing on the boundary between the two states, the Columbia river.

by a large majority, it is alleged, is in direct conflict with the provisions of the action of congress approving the point regulation of commercial fishing on the Columbia river. The law as passed last November prohibited fish wheels on the Columbia and also prohibits traps and seines to be operated above Cascade Locks. The plaintiffs allege that the operation of this law during the fishing season of 1927 would damage them in the sum of $50,000.

Knows From Experience Willie had accompanied his father to the tailor's. When his father had selected the material for his suit, Willie asked the tailor or if he might examine the sample. The lad appraised the goods very carefully, being interrupted by the tailor, who told him he was looking at the "wrong side."
