

SWEATERS CAUSE STUDENT ACTION

Willamette Freshmen Asked to Turn in Lettered Garments; One Refuses

A desire to "tell the world" of their athletic prowess before they are officially permitted to do so, has actuated a couple of Freshman football players at Willamette university to purchase and don "W" sweaters, in spite of the fact that the awards are not to be made until an athlete attains sophomore standing. This was brought to light in executive committee meeting yesterday.

To discourage the activities of the "tramp" athlete, to encourage freshmen to return to college for a second year, and to prevent "W" sweaters from going to men who might not be considered fit representatives of the university athletic department, the ruling to withhold athletic awards until a person attains sophomore standing was made a few years ago.

One of the men involved in the present instance was requested by the executive committee recently to turn in his sweater but he refused, stating that the rule had been violated before, without penalty.

The executive committee yesterday decided to refer the matter to a special student body committee composed of William Walsh, senior class president; Paul Geddes, and one other member to be chosen later. This committee will take what action is necessary to secure the return of the sweater.

If the offenders spurn the edict of this committee, it is said the matter will be referred to the faculty which may take the final sanction of expulsion, if necessary.

Salvation Army Young People To Make Trip

Local Group to Stage Original Number on Special Program

The local Salvation Army corps plan to send a delegation of 20 active young people to the Army's annual young people's convention, held in Portland on May 7, 8 and 9. Commissioner Adam Gifford and other Western leaders will be present for the occasion, which will draw similar groups of young people from all over the state.

The local delegation will put on an "original" number as their part in connection with the big public demonstration usually held on the first night of the congress. This will include an original poem which tells of some of the good things with which Salem is blessed, besides original choruses and a "yell" to be given by the entire group.

The delegates will be dressed uniformly in the Army's blue, while the girls will all wear red ties, with either bonnets or the familiar trench cap worn by Army Jassies in France, only the caps will be blue this time.

A caravan of autos will transport the delegation from Salem to Portland, leaving early Saturday afternoon, with Ensign and Mrs. Pitt acting as chaperons.

Colorado Sticks on Reef 36 Hours; Damage Slight

NEW YORK, May 2.—(AP.)—The battleship Colorado today finished a voyage of 40 hours from an anchorage in the North river to the Brooklyn navy yard where she will be given an inspection to determine her injuries, if any.

The 40-hour trip suffered an interruption of 36 hours while the 32,000 ton vessel was lodged in Diamond reef, the battleship sticking her nose into the mud and rock of the reef early Saturday and remaining there until last night. After many tugs had wrestled with the problem, the vessel was pulled off into deep water about 8:30 o'clock.

The Colorado was anchored for the night and moved on today for the drydock survey. There was smoke coming from the battleship's stacks, but the tugs were about also and seemed to be making their presence felt as she was moved along.

Work on construction will begin May 1 at Harper, on federal reclamation project.

ENDURANCE AUTO PARADES TODAY

112,075 Miles Traversed When Machine Arrived at Vick Bros. in Salem

The nationally famous 100,000 mile Oakland automobile arrived here last night for a 24-hour stay at Salem, and today is to complete an elaborate program in the city that includes an inspection by Governor Patterson at the state house and a parade through the downtown district with four Rogue Indians in the lead.

Last night the car was on exhibition at the showrooms of Vick Brothers, local Oakland and Pontiac dealers, who are hosts to the car during its stay here, as well as on the downtown streets where special lights beneath the glass hood and the spotlight playing upon the huge mileage register on the roof attracted a large crowd who inspected the remarkable engine.

This afternoon the car is scheduled to proceed to Portland where it will remain one day before continuing to Seattle. From that point its itinerary extends eastward through Montana and the Dakotas to the factory of the Oakland Motor Car company, at Pontiac, Mich.

Before its arrival here yesterday the car was paraded at Albany, Corvallis and Eugene where the drivers of the car were received by Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall, president of the University of Oregon, and where they gave Dr. and Mrs. Hall a short ride in the endurance Oakland.

The speedometer showed 112,075 miles when the car arrived at the Vick Brothers showrooms, a distance traveled within the past nine months.

The car was piloted here by Karl R. Schnorr, former race driver.

With him were J. H. Ressler, manager of the tour, W. G. Carr, Oakland factory official, and C. P. Shaw and Don Harway of the Campbell - Ewald Advertising agency, one of the largest national agencies in the country. These men will be with the car during its entire stay in Oregon.

"The car is touring the country to show the stamina and endurance qualities built into the Oakland automobile," explained George Vick, general manager of Vick Brothers. "It piled up 100,000 miles in six months on a treadmill at Detroit, a distance equivalent to four times around the world and equal to ten years of normal family driving.

"This phenomenal run was completed without any adjustments or repairs other than the kind any driver could make for himself. Immediately Oakland officials sent the car on tour to show the prospective automobile purchaser that with proper care the car manufactured today will undergo ten years of normal use.

"The car left Detroit on tour January 31 and since then has blanketed the east, central and southern sections of the country. Its itinerary will take it to nearly 500 of the largest cities in the country and will add 20,000 miles to the impressive treadmill mileage record. The run is not expected to be completed until the middle of June."

Mr. Cronise was 73 years old at the time of his death and was exceptionally well known in the Willamette valley. Ralph Cronise, a son, is manager of the Albany Democrat-Herald.
