What were the sorrows of Satan?

The popular conception of Satan has usually been that of a sinister individual who derived great pleasure from the work of conducting a subterranean rottiesserie. Worries, cares, and sadness have always been foreign to his supposed make-up.

Marie Corelli gave him a new description in "Sorrows of Satan" which shows at the Elsinore today and Thursday. She decided that to be effective, temptation must be attractive. He moved in the highest social circles. Paris, London, Berlin, Moscow were all familiar to him.

Yet he was sorrowful. A brooding sadness enveloped him.

She chose to emphasize the ancient idea that Satan was a fallen angel. Throughout, when he pursues his occupation of putting temptation before weak characters he is saddened by success. It delays the time when he can return to the angelic state.

Those are his sorrows!

It sounds mystical and unreal, but never was there a more vivid, matter-of-fact description of modern life.

Oregon Theater

"Don't Tell the Wife," Irene Rich's latest starring vehicle for Warner Brothers, directed by Paul Stein, is a swift-foot merry comedy of Paris and young love.

Huntly Gordon supports Miss Rich as the husband who becomes interested in a vivacious blonde, portrayed by Lilyan Tashman. Irene fights with his own weapons by lavishing attentions on William Demarest, the blonde's fiancé. This doesn't work, and when Huntly has to wait up, for wife's return things come to the breaking point.

Otis Harlan, as a divorcee, is a friend of the family, tries to fix things by giving them plenty of rope to find how much they really do care for each other. He gives them a phony divorce and performs false marriage ceremonies for the two couples whom he thinks will sicken of the bargain before any damage is done.

They apparently don't and the fat judge chases them to tell them the true state of affairs. Quite accidentally they have picked the same hunting lodge in which to spend their honeymoon—a very merry situation for all concerned, not to mention the audience.

"Don't Tell the Wife" from a scenario by Rex Taylor shows at the Oregon theater May 4-5.

Capitol Theater

Did you ever yearn to run away and join a circus or go to New York and become an actor, or anything like that? Then you'll appreciate Alberta Vaughn's latest starring vehicle for F. B. O., "Uneasy Payments," which show at the Bligh's Capitol May 4, for the last time.

The theme of the picture revolves around a girl who wins the village Charleston contest, and armed with this, goes to seek the bright lights of Broadway. Her amusing and unexpected adventures form a picture that is both fast in action and abundant with comedy situations, and one that provides delightful entertainment for the audience. Director David Kirkland has achieved a vivid portrayal of life behind the footlights of the modern theater, and has visualized much of his own twenty years of stage experience in the finished picture. Jack Ludden plays the leading support role with Gino Corrado, Victor Potel, Betty Francisco, Lucille Ward, Lottie Williams, Billy Gilbert, Amber Norman and Eugene Stone in prominent characterizations. The screen play was written by Dorothy Lost from an original story by Walter A. Sinclair.

Physical Ed Head Trips, Falls and Breaks Ankle

OREGON NORMAL SCHOOL, Monmouth, Ore., May 3.—(Special)—Laura J. Taylor, head of the physical education department at the Monmouth normal school, had the misfortune Saturday to trip on a stairway in the dormitory and suffered a broken bone in her ankle. Aside from the painfulness of the injury the accident happened at a very unfortunate time for Miss Taylor is director, and in fact originator, of the annual May Day fete to be given on the normal campus on the seventh of this month, and it is through her efforts and skill that the annual fete is the success it always has been. However, plans for the regular program have not been given up and with the aid of crutches Miss Taylor is again directing rehearsals.

BETHEL CALF CLUB WINS MANY PRIZES

Series of Seven Meetings Arranged Under Supervision of Leader

OREGON NORMAL SCHOOL, Monmouth, Ore., May 3.—(Special)—Bethel Jersey Calf club of Rickreall is now on its fourth year and according to a statement just issued by their leader, S. L. Stewart of McCoy, the club has received over $499 in prizes at the state and county fairs and their stock has increased in value to more than $1000.

Ernest Sears of Rickreall was elected president of the Bethel club, which has six active members, who meet regularly once a month in a combined business and recreation meeting. These meetings are conducted under the same rules as any public meeting and the boys become familiar with the rules of order. The interest aroused through short courses and lectures by authorities on cattle raising prepares the boys for what will probably become the life work for many of them.

In speaking of the value of the calf throughout the county, representative Stewart said, "If we could only interest more of the parents in this line of work, it would be only a short time until Polk county would be one of the leading counties of the state in pure bred stock. I think it is safe to say had it not been for club work not one of these boys would have had a pure bred animal today."

A series of seven meetings have been arranged and is being carried out by the Bethel club members and their leader. The first meeting was a get together meeting and each member gave the weight of his cow or calf and told what kind of hay and grain he was feeding. At the second meeting the gain in weight of the stock was reported and a lecture was given on stock judging. The third meeting will be a joint meeting with members of the Girls' Canning and Sewing club and a picnic will be held, after which trips will be made to inspect all club members' stock. At the succeeding meetings the same work is carried on with stock judging of some pure bred Jersey herd. This is done under a competent instructor. The last two meetings will be largely devoted to plans for attending and entering their stock in the county and state fairs. Auditing the accounts against the club after the return from the fairs will close the series of meetings for the 1927 season.

Cook-Rite Cooking Club To Hold Picnic

Liberty Teams Wins: PT to Meet; 130 Acres Planted

LIBERTY, May 3.—(Special)—The Liberty Sunday school baseball team played the Pioneers last Friday evening at the Liberty diamond. The score was 10 to 3 in favor of the local boys.

The Cook-rite Cooking club, one of the three industrial clubs under the auspices of the liberty school, will hold a picnic next Saturday. This club is composed of 22 girls and boys, is the first of the clubs to complete the work. They are a 100 per cent club, as every member has completed the required lessons and work. Miss Etta Westenhous is the leader, and has proven herself a capable instructor, as the results prove. They will give a demonstration of their cooking, and also serve the refreshments at the P. T. A. meeting next Friday night. The sewing club led by Mrs. Henry Gilbert will also give a demonstration of their work at this meeting. The garden club, led by Mrs. Kate Holder, has also done excellent work, and are all up with their work, but can not complete the work at present as they have to give their gardens time to grow and mature. The garden club will also have a picnic next Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Hoag at Monmouth.

The regular meeting of the Parent-Teacher association will be held at Liberty Hall Friday night, May 6th. The program committee asked the Forensic society, the literary society of the school, to give the program. The Forensic members have consented to do so, and invite the public to come and hear their program. Encourage the pupils in their efforts with your presence.

Bruce Cunningham now has 130 acres planted to potatoes. He recently rented 80 acres near Eola in Polk county.

ATTORNEYS CONFER ON LAND GRANT TAX

State of Oregon Seeking to Recover Some Money From 18 Counties

Guy Gordon, district attorney of Douglas county, held a conference here yesterday with John Carson, district attorney of Marion county, in connection with the suit filed recently by the attorney general to recover for the state a part of the funds received by Marion county under the so-called Oregon & California land grant tax refund act.

At a meeting of the county judges of the 18 Oregon land grant counties held in Salem recently District Attorneys Cordon and Carson were retained to conduct the defense for Marion county. It was said that the outcome of the suit against Marion county would affect all the counties which benefited under the tax refund law. District Attorney Cordon is legal adviser for the Oregon and California Land Grant association, and appeared before a number of congressional committees at the time the law was under consideration.

Under the terms of a stipulation entered into here today between the attorneys for the state and the defense the arguments of attorneys have been set for June 1. The court originally ordered that the writ of mandamus should be made returnable May 6. Attorneys said the delay in hearing the arguments was necessitated because of circuit court terms which demand their attention.

The aggregate tax refund under the congressional act exceed $5,000,000. Of this amount the state alleges that its share is approximately $1,300,000. It was said that the costs incurred in defending the suit filed by the state against Marion county will be borne by all of the 18 Oregon land grant counties.
