

SIDE LIGHTS OF THE STAGE and SCREEN

Motor car without a motor is the newest "freak" to find its place in motion picture. The "engineless flier" figures prominently in "Rubber Tires," a screen version of Frank Condon's humorous story of the auto camps, which Alan Dale directed for Cecil B. DeMille, and which shows at the Elsinore May 12.

Harrison Ford, who plays the male lead, if he is to follow his sweetheart, Bessie Love, who has motored Westward via the auto camps with her family, must have an automobile. He has only $25, but with this small sum he is able to buy a Ford wreck which boasts no engine. He purchases the car, and pulling the broken down automobile stall, works his way across country with the aid of unsuspecting and gullible motorists.

This is but one of a series of humorous situations in "Rubber Tires," as prepared for the screen by Zelda Sears and Tay Garnett.

Clara Bow in "It" will be the special picture at the Elsinore theater on Friday and Saturday May 13-14.

Lillian Gish in "The Scarlet Letter" will be shown at the Elsinore theater on Sunday and Monday, May 15-16.

"Millionaires" would be worth seeing simply for the sake of their excellent acting; but it offers in addition the amusing yet pathetic story of an East Side tailor and his family who find themselves in sudden possession of millions without any flair for spending it properly. They try to slide into Society on the strength of their money and find it rather rough sledding.

Capitol Theater In telling a story of theatrical life it is absolutely necessary that the director and scenarist adhere to realism, not only for the sake of the picture itself, but for that of the millions for young men and women who view the picture.

This is the statement of Harry Millarde, who directed "The Taxi Dancer" for Metro-Goldwyn-May-er, which shows at Capitol theater, May 12-13-14. Joan Crawford in the title role.

The story tells of a young Southern girl, who, overcome by her desire to win fame as a dancer, leaves her sheltered home and goes to New York. There her pilgrimage from one manager to another is shown, her consequent fleeting success and failure is vividly portrayed in a way that would not induce any stagestruck girl to leave home.

"We have a great responsibility in making a picture of this kind," says Millarde. "If we paint the prospect in glowing colors, dozens even hundreds of girls might be influenced to leave their homes for a future that in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred means failure, or what is often worse, just a taste of success."

The Filipino Sycophants, premier exponent of syncopation and jazz, will be the attraction at the Capitol theater May 12. It is the only musical organization of its kind on the Pacific Coast.

Captain W. F. Cooper brought these Filipino boys direct from the conservatory of music at Manila three years ago.

JERSEY EXHIBIT PLANNED MAY 25

Five Counties Cooperate in Arranging for General Exhibition

OREGON NORMAL SCHOOL, MONMOUTH, Ore., May 11.—(Special.)—May 25 is the date agreed upon for the annual Polk county Jersey cattle show, which will be held as usual at Independence, according to Frank Laughary, president of the Polk county club.

Professor Ragan, of the husbandry department of the University of California, has been asked to judge the Polk county cattle. The service rendered the show last year by Professor Ragan was of such value that the decision of the committee to ask him to judge this year's show was unanimous.

Immediately following the series of Jersey shows being held in many of the counties during this month, five counties have perfected plans whereby the first prize winners and champions of the series of shows will be exhibited at the fair grounds at Salem on Saturday, May 28. The five counties which will take part in this special show include Marion, Clackamas, Yamhill, Linn and Polk. This promises to be of more than passing interest to breeders of the entire state as well as the local cattle men.

According to present indications the entries of pure bred Jerseys from Polk county will outnumber last year. Special classes will be open for the entries of the members of the junior Jersey clubs, but their stock will also be eligible to compete in the regular open classes.

Drone of Plane Heard at Night, Newfoundland Report
ST. JOHNS, N. F., May 11.—(AP.)—The possibility that the missing trans-Atlantic flyers, Nungesser and Goll may have landed at some remote and uninhabited spot in Newfoundland was considered tonight after two persons on a steplike motor through the Mist last Monday morning.

Patrick O'Brien and Captain John Stapleton, residents of Harbor Grace, 65 miles north of here, said they had heard the drone of an airplane engine, but had been unable to see the plane because of the fog.

Newfoundland, although its rocky coast is dotted with numerous fishing villages, has great stretches of rough wild country without habitation or communication for miles.

This well-known organization presents many new features this year, among which will be the colossal spectacle "Aladdin and the Parade of Gold," starring the Chinese beauty, Lola Lee Chong, and a cast of 1000 performers; the zebra round-up, with the largest herd in captivity in the world, and 180 performing horses, including "Sam Marcus," the $16,000 equine star.

STRAW HAT DAY FRIDAY THE 13TH; BIG PARADE

(Continued from Page 1.) be lucky. The straw hats are bringing the luck. They come in to their own on that day and so will chase old man gloom away. For weeks spring has been heralded in the community by the singing of birds, the bursting of buds and the beautiful flowers. So far man has failed to follow very closely the lead of Nature; but this will end with Friday the 13th.

Mayor T. A. Livesley has formally issued a proclamation setting aside the day as the official Straw Hat day for Salem. The merchants of the city are cooperating in staging this Straw Hat day. Extensive preparations are being made for adequate and fitting observance of this occasion. A parade will take place at 11 o'clock in which floats, autos, hats and every conceivable thing to add to the novelty of the affair will participate. It will be a colorful forenoon, according to the plans of the clothing and furnishing men of the city.

Notables of the city will be presented with straw hats as a part of the special features of the day. Balloons will be turned adrift and many other things will take place, which will add to the gaiety of the occasion.

"Old Jupe" to Help

But what of the weather on Friday the 13th, some one may ask. Local citizens have petitioned Jupiter Pluvius to help them in this observance of Straw Hat day. "Old Jupe," who has been having considerable fun during the last two weeks in the Willamette valley, smiled and pledged his cooperation. So as far as he is able to make it possible the sun may shine, and balmy spring weather may prevail on Friday the 13th.

This afternoon and evening strawhats will be featured in the windows of the local stores. There will be hats of every shape, size and kind, hats for young and old and hats for everyone.

LIVING and LOVING

Honestly? Diogenes with lantern went prowling through Greece's byways to find an honest man.

Suppose he had stayed at home and in the stilly darkness of his chamber turned the flood light of his wisdom full upon his self. Would he then and there have found him whom he sought?

"We wonder. There is not little satisfaction in discovering and uncovering the defects of a friend. It is rather exciting sport to attack the other fellow and to fling his shortcomings in his face. But where's the fun in tearing down one's own defenses, in laying one's self open to one's own scorn?"

Just for curiosity's sake we wish we knew whether Diogenes, so meticulous in measuring his neighbor's virtues and vices, ever cheated himself, or whether because, stripped of all pretense and not daring to reveal himself unto himself, he became doubtful of the existence of a certain cardinal virtue in mankind.

Methods have changed since Diogenes roved and ruminated, but the search for the honest citizen apparently still continues.

Recently a fair co-ed at one of our colleges, disregarding the lantern as quite out of date in comparison with the light thrown upon the subject by a questionnaire, endeavored to prove that there is—or there isn't—such a one-existent.

The truth, the whole truth, nothing but the truth! Can you, will you, admit it? Knowing full well that no eye but yours will ever read it, what would you have written in answer to these test questions?

"Are you better looking than the average?" "Hm! Well! What an embarrassing question. You always thought you were, rather, but that it ill behooves you to admit it.

Or Goodness, no not really; but you've taken infinite pains by artifice to make up for nature's omissions until almost you've been deceived by your own deception. You preen or you ruefully shake your head, reluctant to express even to yourself your innermost opinion. Why? Here's an excellent chance to weigh modesty and conceit in the balance and make sure which of the two is wanting.
