

SIDE LIGHTS OF THE STAGE and SCREEN

"Frisco Sally Levy," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's vividly human comedy romance, opens at the Capitol theater Sunday. It concerns a girl dancer, two lovers, and a quaint, lovable home where a Jewish father and an Irish mother preside over their daughter's destiny. It has pathos and humor and everyday realism, and is a faithful portrayal of life in the modern city. Sally O'Neil, the heroine of "Mike" and other famous screen successes, plays the girl; Roy D'Arcy, the villain, and Charles Delaney the hero. Trouble, for a time, hangs over the little home. The villain, a wealthy Jewish broker, tries to lure Sally away from the honest love of her Irish policeman. There is some swift-moving Irish temper before the unexpected climax. It was directed by William Beaudine, responsible for some of the screen's most famous entertainments, among them Mary Pickford's "Little Annie Rooney."

Elsinore
Bebe Daniels has raised her ever mounting standard of excellence another notch. "Senorita," which shows at the Elsinore today, is the best thing that the fascinating Bebe has ever done.

The story of "Senorita" is the kind that this fascinating Paramount star does the best. It is packed with romance and adventure and amusing situations. We see her first as an up to the minute American girl, winning a polo match and, despite her alluring femininity, doing everything that a man can do in the field of sports and doing it better than most men.

And then we see her visiting her grandfather in South America and learn that he has always considered her as being a boy. Rather than disappoint him she dons masculine disguise and then the fun begins. With her background of sport she outrides, outshoots, outfences and outwits the caballeros of her grandfather's estate and those of his ancestral enemy. Of course there is a love story, and Bebe is seen alternating in the garb of a boy and in that of a fair senorita. James Hall has the leading male role in support of Miss Daniels and William Powell that of a swaggering bully of the pampas who is the cause of all the dirty work. Joan Standing, Josef Swickard and Raoul Paoli complete the cast.

The Fanchon & Marco production for today and tomorrow at the Elsinore theater is a varied bill and is so arranged that it will be a great pleasure to everyone attending.

Oregon Theater
Once in an age there comes to the screen a picture that can be truly classed as epochal. Such a production is "The Yankee Clipper," which shows at the Oregon theater today.

"The Yankee Clipper" is epochal in that it brings to the motion picture public something new, refreshing and exhilarating in the way of entertainment. For which this reviewer is duly grateful.

The something new offered by "The Yankee Clipper" is the revelation of a chapter in American history hitherto untouched by writers for and producers of the silent drama. It is that period of a quarter of a century just prior to and during the Civil war, the era of the famous clipper ship which brought glory to the American shipbuilding industry and won for this country the commercial supremacy of the sea.

The refreshing element in this fine picture is the unhackneyed plot of a drama that grips your attention in the first reel and holds it through a well developed continuity to the final smashing climax. The exhilaration is supplied by the genuinely thrilling realism of a storm at sea, with the "Clipper" battling her way through a terrific typhoon around Cape Horn, and the justly, red-blooded battle in which handsome and rugged Bill Boyd quells a gang of villainous mutineers after a great fight in which no holds are barred.

UNITED CHURCHES REMAIN UNDECIDED

Suggestions for Meetings and for One Church Find Some Favor

SILVERTON, Ore., May 28.—(Special)—In contrast to the stormy meeting held at Trinity church by Emmanuel congregation on the evening of May 20th, the business meeting held Friday night proved peaceful.

In opening the meeting the Rev. S. Y. Lindseth, acting chairman, announced that if as many members turned out for Sunday morning services as did for the business meeting a new church would, indeed, be needed.

St. John's church, in which the meeting was held, was packed, it being necessary to bring in extra chairs and place in the aisles to accommodate all. The Rev. Mr. Lindseth also remarked that if too much disharmony were displayed he would adjourn the meeting.

L. H. Meyer, chairman of the ing and that it suggested a trial was desirous of harmonious feeling, saying that if the board, board of directors, spoke for the vote on the recommendation that the congregation should "take steps to dispose of the two buildings and build a new church in a central location, this program to be completed in two years. In the meantime the two churches should be used alternately until the new church was completed. If one church is disposed of, then services be held in the other until the new one was completed." This recommendation was defeated by 210 to 85 votes.

Oscar Loe then submitted a motion to the effect that the two churches be used alternately for two years and during that time St. John's church should be enlarged and then the use of the former, Trinity, be discontinued. This motion was defeated by a vote of 148 to 140. Hans Steen made a motion to the effect that Emmanuel congregation continue services alternately in the two churches for an indefinite period with the idea that the congregations merge more gradually until such a time as a plan meeting with the approval of a larger majority could be made or "until," as Mr. Steen expressed it, "the people could all see fit to make some other change." This carried with 158 for, to 125 against. Previous to this vote the Rev. Mr. Lindseth announced that it was his opinion that a two-thirds majority should carry this if it were to be effective, so this motion was considered a trial vote.

B. Tingelstad, who is a member of the Union committee, then spoke for all English services in the one church with Norwegian services in the other. At a former meeting a similar motion, in which St. John's church was specified for the English services, was defeated for the reason that St. John's church, which is situated on East Hill, is not centrally located while Trinity church is. Whether or not this motion would carry should Trinity church be mentioned for the English church was not learned as Mr. Tingelstad said that as far as he was concerned either church would do, and he would suggest the matter be considered for a time.

The meeting was adjourned until the evening of June 3.

injure himself by eating too fast. Later he was taken to the Cozy kitchen by W. L. Cunningham, the proprietor, and given a dinner.

In the stranger's pocket an identification card was found asking that in case of accident a priest be called. Father J. Sherring of St. Paul's parish was called. Father Sherring took the stranger home with him.

In telling his story it was brought out that he had left Pittsburgh, Pa., in a large car. He had tried to secure work in California at his profession, that of cook, but failed. He was forced to sell the car, the proceeds of which went for living. No work could be secured, according to his story, so he left Eureka, Cal., last Monday for Oregon. He informed his listeners that he had had nothing to eat since Monday.

Klamath county will spend $92,000 on county roads.

PIONEER OF OREGON DIES IN MONMOUTH

Orville Butler Crossed Plains in 1849 and Settled in Oregon City

OREGON NORMAL SCHOOL, Monmouth, May 28.—(Special)—Orville Butler, pioneer of Oregon, died at his home at Monmouth Friday morning at the age of 86 years, nine months and 18 days. Mr. Butler had been in his usual health, had eaten his breakfast and was walking in his garden when an attack of the heart seized him and the end came at about 8:30 o'clock.

Orville Butler was born at Pittsfield, Pike county, Illinois, Aug. 8, 1840, and with his parents crossed the plains in 1849. The family settled at Oregon City and one year later moved to Portland—then known as Stumptown. The Butler home was situated on the site where now stands the Multnomah county court house. The family moved to Eola where his father took up a donation land claim near the proposed site for the state capitol, and where the father engaged in the mercantile business for many years.

The farm now owned by Governor Patterson was a part of the original Butler donation claim. The lack of one vote sent the capital to Salem instead of Eola. In 1876 Orville Butler and family left the Willamette valley and moved to Washington territory, but returned to Oregon in 1891, where they have since resided.

While the Butler family was living at Oregon City and Orville was about 12 years of age he witnessed the hanging of five Indian chiefs who were held responsible for the Whitman massacre.

In 1875 Orville Butler was married to Mary Lee, and seven children were born to them. They

PRATUM VICINITY ATTRACTS PEOPLE

Many From Here Attend Revival Meetings in Salem During Past Week

PRATUM, May 28.—(Special)—That Pratum is a very attractive place for people to live is unanimously admitted by almost everyone who has ever been here, and an average Sunday school attendance of 300 proves beyond a doubt that this is a very desirable community. However, there is a question in the minds of the people here why this community should be so attractive to escaped convicts. It is well remembered that when Kelley and his partners drove through this place and hid in the woods east of the town. Then late Thursday night or early Friday morning the convict who escaped recently entered the Pratum Mercantile store, owned by V. J. Kriebel, and took what he could use.

Many people from here have attended the revival meeting at the First Evangelical church in Salem during the past week.

Mrs. Paul Silke and her youngest son, Paul William, are at Dillonvale, Ohio. She was called back there to attend the funeral of her mother.

The narrow fill between here and Fruitland is being made wider by Hersen & Lambert.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Henry, who were married at the Mennonite church last Sunday, returned from their honeymoon trip to the coast and are now living on Mrs. Mary Butler's farm. Mrs. Butler has moved to Salem.
