Hurling defiance at what was termed "the organized forces of iniquity who propose to bring back and legalize the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor," the organization in its resolution declared that its members stood ready to combat wet candidates at the polls and "retire them to private life." Endorsement was given the Anti-Saloon league, the Women's Christian Temperance Union and kindred organizations.

9TH INNING RALLY WINS FOR ALBANY

A "fielder's duel" rather than a pitchers' battle was fought out on Oxford Park diamond Memorial day, and the Albany team won it from the Senators, 5 to 3. Inasmuch as the Alcos won, it might be considered a triumph for Ralph Coleman, who did the heavy lifting for the visitors; but since the Senators clubbed 12 hits off the OAC baseball coach, it wasn't so much from that angle.

The real feature of the day was the small number of throws the pitcher had to make, and the correspondingly great amount of work required in the infield and outfield. At that, it was an exciting contest throughout, with the big thrills saved up for the last inning which started with the teams tied at two all.

Albany had amassed that many runs in the first inning on hits by Ross, D. Stridmater and McReynolds and a sacrifice by Quisenberry. After that they were held scoreless by Russell and more particularly by his support, until the ninth.

Meanwhile the Senators had gradually counted up two markers; one in the fourth when Coleman hit a two bager, went to third on Steer's short single, and scored on Ridings' sacrifice fly; and another in the sixth when Bill Steers became peeved because Coleman made him duck, and slammed out a three bager, scoring on Jacobberger's infield hit.

In the ninth, Coleman was safe on an error, and after two were out, scored on Dowling's two bager. Ross hit for three bases, scoring Dowling, and came home himself on the third extra base hit in succession, a double by Quisenberry.

The Senators made noble and all but a successful effort to come back. Jacobberger and Ridings signed, and Hawk was safe on a fielder's choice, Ridings being forced at second, Edwards banded out a single to center field, scoring Jacobberger. Then "Frisco," sent in Clinton, who once before broke up a ball game here as a pinch hitter. Clinton made a noble effort but flied out.

The feature play of the game was a catch by Steers so deep in left field that "Red" Rupert, Albany manager, claimed vociferously that it hit the fence and bounced into Bill's glove. Another source of thrills was the rifle shot throwing of two youngsters on the field; Hawk at third for Salem, and Wingo, Albany catcher.

CELEBRATING BAJRAM AT KRUTJA IN THE SAME WAY THAT YOUNG AMERICA CELEBRATES THE FOURTH OF JULY

KRUTJA, Albania.—(AP)—Bajram, the greatest of Mohammedan festivals, was celebrated with zest this year by the children only. Older people were too preoccupied by the country's troubles. In this, the most ancient of all Albanian towns, the children assume themselves very much as American boys and girls do on the Fourth of July.

There are no firecrackers in Albania, but there are toy pistols, and a large quantity of signal fuses left by the armies that occupied the country during the war.

LYNCHING THREATENED Youth Declares He Has Violent Antipathy for Women

POMONA, CAL., May 30.—(AP)—Threats of a lynching tonight caused officers hurriedly to remove Durward Wittenmeyer, 16-year-old confessed slayer of Mrs. Fannie L. Weigle, from the city jail here to the county jail at Los Angeles.

Wittenmeyer, under suspicion because of his blood-stained clothing, and the fact that he had been paroled Thursday from a reform school where he had been sent for an attack on a woman, according to the police, made two confessions, one to his father, George Wittenmeyer, and the other to the officers.

The youth declared he at times had an acute antipathy for women which impelled him to attack the first woman he met. Not even his own mother would be safe when such an impulse struck him, he declared.

LINDBERGH COMING HOME EARLY, PLAN

May Sail on George Washington This Week; Newspapermen Banquet

LONDON, May 30.—(AP)—Captain Charles Lindbergh's desire to return home at the earliest possible moment has brought into consideration his sailing on the George Washington June 2, though final arrangements are still held in abeyance. It is said that the aviator and those who have cooperated in his plans may reach a definite conclusion tomorrow.

The youthful American hero's whirl of entertainment in London comes to an end Wednesday, with a banquet by combined American organizations, and it is reported that he may begin packing his monoplane immediately, so that it can be taken along with him on the George Washington in the event that he decides to return on that boat.

Rounding out one of the busiest days of his career since he flew himself into world fame, Lindbergh sat down at a banquet tonight and confronting him on his plate was a pile of five luscious ham sandwiches, with a jug of water near by, as a gentle reminder of his trans-Atlantic menu in the good ship "Spirit of St. Louis."

The birdman was the guest of honor at the Association of American Correspondents banquet given in the Abraham Lincoln room at the Savoy. The American ambassador, Anson B. Houghton, who sailed tomorrow on the Leviathan for New York, also was a guest. Charles Stephenson Smith of the Associated Press presided.

Lindy, when he saw the sandwiches, blushed like a school boy and enjoyed the heartiest laugh he has had since he reached England. The sandwiches were hastily removed by the head waiter, of which Lindy good-humoredly complained, because, as he explained, he had not had a chance to get a bite of even one of them. The water was iced, the first real honest-to-goodness ice water since he left New York.

As the sandwiches slid out of sight, the menu card took their place. It was designed to indicate the progress of the flight which brought the name Lindbergh into the newspapers and the hearts of people throughout the civilized world.

On the front page were the crossed flags of Great Britain and the United States. Inside was a caricature of Captain Lindbergh in flying costume. The first item was cocktails "Spirit of St. Louis," then consommé Atlantique, followed by melon Detroit, Haumon Dingle Bay, Pommes Gazoline, Concombres de Terre Neuf, Pousin Rosevelt Field, Cour de Laitue Cherbourgaise, asperges Le Bourget, sauce Vainqueur, Fraises de Chavalier Lindbergh, Corbelle d'Honneur and Cafe a la Crocydon. As the dinner progressed the orchestra played "Dixie," "California, Here I Come," "The Last Rose of Summer" and many Yankee airs which made Lindy prick up his ears and want to talk about the land from which he came. Several cablegrams from the United States wished him all the good luck in the world and assured him that when he arrived at the Battery some 117,000,000 Americans, or at least a good part of that number, would be at the Battery to greet him.

The youthful captain, who now has become somewhat accustomed to public speaking, made a short talk; patting the reporters on the back—not only the London reporters, but those in San Diego, St. Louis, Little Falls, N. Y., Paris, Brussels, everywhere—the reporters who had cooperated, he said, 100 per cent in chronicling everything he did and even in anticipating some of his plans for the future.

The banquet concluded at 9 o'clock, in the first place to give Ambassador Houghton an opportunity to motor to Southampton so that he might go aboard the Leviathan, and also to allow Lindy a chance to get to bed before midnight for the first time in about two weeks.

"DARK STRANGLER" MURDER REPEATED

Slayer of Buffalo Woman Believed Man Who Operated in Northwest

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 30.—(AP)—A man of good general appearance, capable of carrying on an extended conversation along religious lines, and yet believed to be wanted in two Pacific coast cities for murder, also was sought here tonight for the slaying early today of Mrs. Jennie Randolph, 55, a rooming house landlady.

Under the name of Charles Harrison, he engaged a room in Mrs. Randolph's house last Saturday afternoon. Last night he and Mrs. Randolph sat up until after midnight discussing religious matters, of which she was a deep follower. This morning her body was found under the bed in Harrison's room and he had disappeared. She had been strangled with a roller towel.

The police found that Harrison's description tallied closely with that of an Adrian Harris, sought in Portland, Ore., and Seattle, Wash., for murders of a similar character committed last November. In both cities, the police say, women in rooming houses had fallen victims.

Medical Examiner Earl G. Danner tonight said there was evidence that the woman had first been beaten in the face with bare fists, and there were other signs of bitter struggle.

Harrison had given his occupation as a painting contractor. He was described as being about 33 years old, about 5 feet 7 inches in height, of a somewhat stocky build, of dark complexion and speaking with a slight Scotch accent.

Portland police, when informed of the murder of Mrs. Jennie Randolph at Buffalo, N. Y., were of the opinion that the slayer was the man wanted here for the murder of four Portland women and one Seattle matron. The description sent out by Buffalo police tallies in almost every respect with that of Adrian Harris, the man believed to have killed Mrs. Blanche Meyers here in November. Harvey Thatcher, lieutenant of detectives, said tonight that he was confident that Mrs. Randolph's slayer was the "dark stranger."

"The man who killed Mrs. Meyers used the same methods and also was known to have discussed religion," he said. Immediately upon the disappearance of the "strangler" from the Portland district, several women in the middle west and in the east were strangled to death, all in much the same manner as in the case of Mrs. Meyers and the other Portland women.
