JUNE

Tell all the world that summer's here again With song and joy; tell them, that they may know How, on the hillside, in the shining fields New clumps of violets and daisies grow.

Tell all the world that summer's here again That white clouds voyage through a sky so still With blue tranquility, it seems to hang One windless tapestry, from hill to hill.

Tell all the world that summer's here again: Folk go about so solemnly and slow, Walking each one his grooved and ordered way-I fear that, otherwise, they will not know!

First Linen

Commercially Manufactured on the Pacific Coast

Hundreds of People are buying it in towel lengths as souvenirs to send to all parts of the world; we know of some that has gone to Canada, England and Germany and many parts of the United States.

The Oregon Linen Mill has to rush this linen to us off from the loom while it is still damp. So busy have we been that customers stood waiting while our scissors were snipping it off right and left, and telephone orders are constantly coming in for linen to be sent here and there.

This is the only linen mill in the United States manufacturing from domestic grown flax

This Flax is actually grown within a radius of twenty miles from Salem

All pure linen free from starch, absolutely not a thread of cotton in it, comes direct from the linen mill here in Salem, good hefty toweling, noted for its absorbent qualities.

The price is much less than half price of all regular Imported Linen
