kota, the state which will be his host for the summer.
The first day of the two day journey was a banner day for the children as both Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge spotted them but frequently and waved and smiled. One little tot in a bright red hat was held aloft by its mother while Mrs. Coolidge tugged at the president's coat to direct his attention and told him to throw the youngster a kiss. He did so, almost shyly, but even more reticent was the wave that came back to him.

The evening entertainment program also included a showing of the motion picture taken during Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's visit to Washington and included a view of the monument ceremony at which Mr. Coolidge decorated the flyer with the distinguished flying cross.

Former Salem Residents Gather at Willis Home
A large group of long time and former Salem residents were guests Sunday at the Spring Valley country home of Col. and Mrs. Percy Willis, former Salem residents but now of Portland. The Willis home, one of the finest in Spring Valley, and famous for the merry gatherings held there 30 years and more ago, has recently undergone a number of substantial improvements.
Baseball, horseshoe pitching, horseback riding, running and jumping, and the exchange of many pleasant reminiscences served to recall to many of those present similar visits of an earlier day.
Those present were Capt. and Mrs. Charles A. Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. George S. Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Jordan Purvine, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hinkle, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Paget and son Peter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Purvine, Mr. and Mrs. J. Eugene T. Prescott, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell C. Paget and daughter Patricia, Mrs. James A. Remington, Mrs. Nellie Teneyhill, Miss Remington, Miss Helen Scroggs, Miss Elizabeth Scroggs, Miss Mar-gery Walling, Miss Alice Skipton, Charles H. Thompson and Walker Purvine, and the hosts, Col. and Mrs. Percy Willis.

attended the luncheon alone and left before it was through.
Then Bruno, who apparently was also playing hide and seek or tag or something, announced that Lindbergh had gone to Newark, N. J., thence to proceed to Washington to fly his "Spirit" back in time to attend the city dinner in his honor at the Commodore.
This announcement stood up just about long enough to get in print. Then it was discovered that the flier had made another trip to Long Island and that instead of being at Newark he was up in the rain above Curtiss field, circling about in a special Curtiss Oriole and "feeling out" the flying conditions.
He came down after 20 minutes to announce that they didn't feel so good. When he was informed that Bolling field at Washington was under water due to the day long downfall he announced that the flight was definitely off until tomorrow.
Then he started off in an automobile for "New York" but

EXECUTIONS CONTINUE
Riga Dispatch Says 28 More Officers Shot at Moscow
LONDON, June 14.—(AP)—Further executions in Russia are reported from a place bordering on that country. A Riga dispatch to the Daily Mail says that 28 more ex-czarist officers have been shot at Moscow and that the number of shootings in reprisal for the assassination of Peter Volkoff, Soviet envoy at Warsaw, now exceeds 100.

Polk Jail Breaker Caught at Hiding Place in Salem
William Mattox, who escaped from the Polk county jail on May 9, was captured Monday evening in Salem by Officers Olson and Smart, after they had trailed his wife to his hiding place in a house at Capitol and Norway streets.
Mattox was serving time on two liquor charges at the time of his escape, working out two fines of $500 and $275. He made his escape by digging through a brick wall, after he had previously refused to escape when another inmate dug out.
He was returned to the Polk county jail in Dallas Tuesday.
