RICKARD SPIKES DISCORD RUMORS

NEW YORK, June 17.—(AP) Reports of dissension in the ranks of Tex Rickard's heavy-weight workers met with prompt denials today from the grand mogul of fistiana.

The bone in Jack Dempsey's teeth as he headed east from Los Angeles with his wife, Estelle Taylor, and a new press agent, is nothing to worry about as far as the former heavy-weight champion's comeback engagement with Jack Sharkey is concerned, the promoter declared.

Dempsey had announced he would not fight Gene Tunney for the championship in September for a mere 15 per cent of the gate, if his comeback campaign carried him safely past the Boston Lihuanan.

Tunney, under the impression that the Sharkey-Dempsey melee would be fought in August, protested to the promoter today that such an arrangement jeopardized the staging of a title defense in September, due to possible injury in subsequent training to the winning fighter and the impossibility of substituting a worthy opponent at such a late date.

Rickard squeaked that uprising by declaring Dempsey would meet Sharkey in the Yankee stadium July 21. Jack Delaney, who defends his light heavy-weight crown against Mike McTigue here July 7, will be held in reserve in case of accident to either battler, Rickard said.

FLASHING COMEBACK WINS ARMOUR TITLE

OAKMONT, Pa., June 17.—(AP)—Tommy Armour of Washington, D. C., doughty, steel-nerved son of golf's native domain, today became the open champion of the United States.

In a come-back as flashing and dramatic as the finish that carried him to a tie the day before, the lean, war-scarred Scotch professional broke the heart of the dashing and sleek-haired Los Angeles professional, Harry Cooper, captured their 18 hole play off for the title by a margin of three strokes and stepped to the throne that Bobby Jones had left in sand-traps of Oakmont's embattled terrain.

Armour triumphed by the decisive score of 76 to 79 for the final round that broke the deadlock in which they finished yesterday in 301 strokes for the regulation 72 holes of tournament competition and sent the coveted silver trophy cup to the mantle of the fashionable Congressional country club, where Tommy is the "pro."

Armour clinched the championship today on the 16th hole where Cooper fought a losing battle with Oakmont's sand and forfeited two strokes, but it was 55-foot putt on the hole before that put Tommy back in the fight and a spectacular chip shot dead to the pin on the 17th that saved the title for the lanky, straw-hatted Scot.

The drama of Armour's triumph was enacted about the three treacherous holes, the "Water-look" of many a previous championship hope in the three preceding days. Armour was a stroke behind Cooper, going to the 475-yard 15th hole, a margin that the Los Angeles "pro" had gained by a flying start on the last 9, checked only when Armour regained one of the shots on the short 13th.

Until Armour staged his fighting spurt and Cooper's game momentarily collapsed on the 16th hole, it was a stirring nip and tuck fight for the championship, a seesaw tussle that had a gallery of more than 5,000 enthusiasts over Oakmont's bunkers, fighting for places of vantage and surging in rows six and seven deep around the grounds.

MEASURES TO CURB CRIME INCREASING

19 States Adopt Drastic Regulations; Habitual Criminal Target

NEW YORK.—(AP)—Measures designed to check crime have been passed by 19 state legislatures thus far in 1927, a survey revealed.

Thirteen other states adopted measures, such as those altering the penal codes to make former misdemeanors felones, which were considered general anti-crime legislation, but not specific checks on crime.

The measures adopted in the 19 states generally tended toward an increase of sentence, with a tightening of the legal knot about the habitual criminal, the gangster, gunman and hold-up man.

A significant feature of the anti-crime legislation was the tendency to follow New York's pattern in curbing the activities of habitual criminals and the operations of bands of organized criminals. A number of states enacted laws comparable to New York's Baumes act, a piece of anti-crime legislation passed in 1926. It provides a mandatory life sentence for fourth offenders and generally tightens up the criminal code.

The measure enacted in the 13 states range from Montana's banning of the chewing of mescal nuts by Mexican laborers, a practice thought by some to be necessary to certain religious rites, to Oregon's new measure making it unlawful to skin dead stock without the owner's consent. The last measure is a check on cattle rustling. Oregon was also one of the 19 states adopting legislation to check crime.

A number of legislatures discussed the carrying and use of firearms. Many states had already provided themselves with checks against this practice, and several followed suit in 1927. Measures providing for criminal identification were passed by several legis-
