daughters of the veterans who were here for the convention when they entertained them most delightfully at tea, Tuesday afternoon in the tea rooms on the second floor of the Y. M. C. A. More than 125 guests called during the afternoon.

Mrs. Seymour Jones, past state regent of the organization, and Mrs. Homer Goulet, president of the Chemeketa chapter, presided at the tea table, which carried out an attractive color scheme of red, white, and blue. Red rambler roses, white orange blossoms, and blue delphinium were used on the table with blue tapers in crystal holders.

Assisting in the rooms were Mrs. C. C. Best, Mrs. W. H. Byrd, Mrs. K. Stiver, Miss Ruth Rulifson, Mrs. J. Lyman Stood and her house guest, Mrs. Howard Griffin, who is a member of the chapter at Tucson, Arizona, and Mrs. John W. Orr.

Covers were placed for 117 at the banquet given by the Sons of Veterans Auxiliary, Monday evening in the Y. M. C. A. The tables of the dining room were attractive with sweet peas and roses, and the affair marked the first large banquet given by this division. The heads of the allied organizations here for the convention were the special guests of Mrs. Louise King, president of the auxiliary. Responses from the representatives of the organizations, and stunts by various groups were combined with music in making up the entertainment of the banquet.

Although not directly connected with the convention, many members of the American Legion auxiliary served as escorts for the older organizations visiting Salem. Courtesy greeting calls and flowers were also received by the various convention groups from the auxiliary.

Automobile escorts for the parade, the trip to the fairgrounds, and a tour of the interesting sites about the city were furnished by the Auxiliary.

Wedding of Miss Eleanor Adams of Silverton One of Loveliest of Season

Miss Eleanor F. Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed R. Adams, became the bride of Norman F. Cressy of Seattle at one of June's most beautiful marriage ceremonies in the Methodist church at Silverton, Friday at four o'clock. The service was read by Rev. Thomas Hardie.

Elaborate decorations of flower-decked arches, lattices trellis entwined with Dorothy Perkins roses, delicately hued banks of gladioli and Canterbury bells, and tall baskets of roses, mock orange blossoms, and delphinium adorned the church.

Preceding the ceremony Miss Olive Banks played a lovely prelude, and Mrs. S. E. Richardson sang "Because." The wedding march from Lohengrin was played as the bridal party entered, led by Farwell Booth and George Lukins, ushers. Mrs. Foster Cone, matron of honor, and Miss Jeanette Hill of Bellingham, Wash., maid of honor, followed, and each carried an arm bouquet of lavender sweet peas and Cecil Brunner roses. Next in line was little Allen Thostrud, ring bearer and nephew of the bride. Phyllis Mae Adams, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

Patriotic Orders Introduce Many Social Affairs Into Convention Week

With nearly 2,000 delegates in Salem for the 45th annual state encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic and the conventions of the various allied organizations, special interest was centered around the various entertainments and affairs given for the visitors during this last week.

Memorial services Tuesday afternoon opened convention events for the woman's Relief Corps. The services were held in the Armory where a long table draped in white stood in the center of the room. Representatives of each corps marched to the table and placed on it a spray of flowers and a candle which they snuffed out as each repeated a word in honor of the departed. Miss Lena Belle Tartar sang two solos, and a prayer by Rev. Meyers closed the services, which were the first of this kind given by the corps at a convention.

Wednesday noon fourteen of the department presidents of the Woman's Relief Corps met at the Spa for the annual luncheon of the group. Informal talks were given during the luncheon hour.

The Salem corps was the first to be organized west of the Rocky mountains—forty-three years ago. There are six charter members now living, and all are in Salem. They are Helen Southwick, Sarah Drager, Mary Briggs, Ida Babcock, Maggie Stolz, and Lenta Westacott.

On Thursday noon twenty-four of the department and chapter presidents forming the Presidents' Association of the Ladies of the G. A. R., met at the White House Restaurant for the annual luncheon of the association. Informal talks by the members of the group made up the program.

Leading perhaps in the more strictly social activity during the week were the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, who opened their session Monday afternoon with the 21 department officers escorted to their stations by members of the Hostess Tent, Barbara Fritchie, of Salem, and presented with an individual basket of Salem's most beautiful roses.

Barbara Fritchie Tent, made the social evening Monday night at the Woman's Club house the occasion of extending a personal welcome to the visitors, and of promoting a closer acquaintance among the members of the convention. The entertainment for the evening was prepared under the direction of Mrs. O. H. Horning, of Salem, Chief on the Department Staff, and consisted of musical numbers and a variety of stunts provided by the eleven local orders from the different parts of the state, all of which were highly entertaining and original. In keeping with the spirit of the evening the respective stunts were announced by Miss Gaynelle Coursey, a tiny Salem maid, dressed in clown fashion, who introduced each stunt with a clever dancing skit. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening's program.

The Salem tent entertained the eleven sister tents of the state at a 1 o'clock luncheon at the Marlon Hotel on Tuesday. About 125 members of the organization were present. The walls of the room were adorned with large American flags and baskets of mixed flowers of the early summer. The many tables were centered with baskets of red rambler roses, and red tapers added to the charm of the room. Novelty favors of red, white, and blue marked the places for the guests. Short talks and songs filled the luncheon program.
