

SIDE LIGHTS OF THE STAGE and SCREEN

The story of "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," which shows at the Elsinore today, Wednesday and Thursday, deals with an old woman who thinks herself ready for the tomb, but who is rejuvenated by her nephew with the aid of her up-to-date nurse portrayed by Miss Haver. The nephew is in a distant city presumably studying to become a physician, and Aunt Mary is paying all expenses. He devotes most of the money sent him by Auntie to the perfection of an automobile motor.

In order to raise $2,000 to perfect the motor, the nephew writes Auntie that he has opened a sanitarium and named it after her. She sends the money and announces her intention to visit the hospital. Then the fun begins, for to deceive her, the nephew forces his friends to become his patients for the duration of her visit. A big auto race follows and by the aid of Auntie and her nurse, it is won after one of the most thrilling smashups ever recorded.

Miss Haver is ideally cast as the nurse, according to reviewers. Besides those named, Robert Edeson and Arthur Hoyt are in the cast.

Capitol Theater

Horses, actuated by one of the principal modern suppliers of horseflesh—the electric motor—provide one of the thrilling spectacles in Lon Chaney's latest starring vehicle, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Unknown," which shows at the Capitol today. The motors make the horses run.

The scene is the "strong man" act, in which Norman Kerry with his arms holds back two galloping horses as they thunder on a treadmill on the stage. The motors really actuate the treadmill and the horses run to keep up with them. This was made necessary in order to regulate the speed of the horses for camera purposes.

Chaney plays a sinister armless sideshow freak in the new picture, a strange mystery drama with a circus as its background. He throws knives with his feet and performs other marvels while secretly ruling a strange underworld in the gripping story.

FIVE SPEND NIGHT IN OPEN; SNIPE HUNT STAGED

With sunburned backs and shoulders, and weary, but nevertheless happy, a party of five junior high boys returned Saturday afternoon from the over night hike sponsored by the boys' division of the YMCA. They were accompanied by Loyal Warner, boys' work secretary.

The group left Friday, hiking to a point on Crabtree river, 8 miles from Jefferson, where they camped on the farm of J. W. Moore, father of one of the boys. Each boy prepared his own meals on the trip, with fare ranging everywhere from hunter's stew to toast and cheese.

In the evening a snipe hunt took place, for the uninitiated, Ed Schunke and Lawrence Smith became the mighty hunters of the occasion, and held the sack like veterans, the other boys say.

Those making the trip were Loyal Warner, leader; Lawrence and Robert Smith, Ed Schunke, Kelly Moore, and Andy Byrd.

The next overnight hike planned by the boys' division will take place July 8 and 9, for boys between the ages of 11 and 16. The group will be limited to eight, and registration is open now, Warner announced.

Registrations for the boys' summer camp at Elk Lake are increasing rapidly, with 37 of the 50 limit already signed up. The camp is to be held August 1 to 15, with a strong leadership and interesting program of activities already planned.

HAYESVILLE MEET DRAWS 14 SCHOOLS

136th Quarterly Sunday School Convention Brings Record Crowd

HAYESVILLE, June 27.—(Special)—The 136th quarterly convention of the Hayesville Sunday school district, held at the Hayesville church here yesterday, with almost the entire attendance of 14 schools present, was a record-breaker both for attendance and for the interest shown.

While no actual count was made, it is believed that more than 600 people crowded the church building, with their automobiles filling the yard and extending for some distance in both directions along both sides of the highway.

Robert Loeb, founder of the Hayesville convention in 1893, in his address, paid tribute to a number of pioneers who, though dead, have left monuments to themselves in the work at Hayesville.

Professor Dova Prutra brought a tender message from his native country, far-away India. He is in America continuing his studies for future missionary work. The singing was unusually good, some of the solo work being especially pleasing.

Charles W. Cady, genial and efficient president of the convention, presided over the session, assisted by Vice President DeVries and Secretary Lella Armstrong. A large amount of equipment in the form of Bible pictures and modeled figures from Holy Writ was used to demonstrate methods of teaching.

The following 14 schools were present: Pratum M. E., Keizer, Chemawa, Labish Center, Pratum Mennonite, Middle Grove, Hazel Green, Clear Lake, Fruitland, Brooks Methodist Episcopal, Brooks Evangelical, Anburn, North Howell, and Hayesville.

The next meeting will be held three months from now, when particular attention will be given the topic, "Seed Time and Harvest."
